CAMPAIGN FOR RATIFICATION OF THE STATE LIQUOR LAW

Launching of Drive Here for Creation of Local Sentiment—Hon. Charles W. Tobey of Manchester, N. H., Addressed Meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

The launching of a drive for the purpose of creating local sentiment for the ratification of the state law relative to intoxicating liquors and certain non-intoxicating beverages was the purpose of a meeting of Lowell business men at the Y.M.C.A. this noon, at which Hon. Charles W. Tobey of Manchester, N. H., president of the chamber of commerce of that city and a former speaker of the New Hampshire house of representatives, was the chief speaker.

Samuel H. Thompson of Lowell, president of the Citizens' Alliance of Massachusetts and chairman of the state-wide campaign committee, was the presiding officer. Luncheon was served at 12.30 and the meeting was finished shortly after 1.15 o'clock.

The act already passed by the Massachusetts legislature and signed by the governor, will go on the state ballot for ratification in the form of a referendum and all over the state the citizens' alliance is attempting to build up public sentiment in favor of its passage. It is claimed for the act that it harmonizes Massachusetts prohibition laws with the federal laws as now in operation.

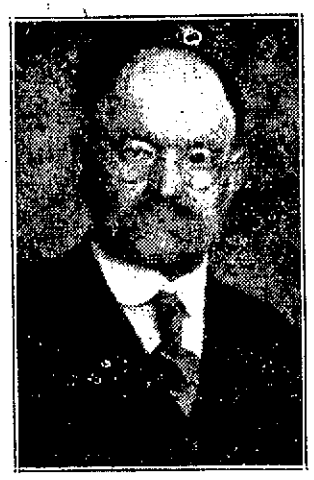

Hon. Charles W. Tobey has had considerable experience in legislative matters and has been one of the leading exponents of prohibition in New Hampshire. He, therefore, was able to speak intimately of the question now under discussion in this state.

The local committee who arranged this noon's meeting included Mr. Thompson, Donald M. Cameron, Thomas H. Elliott, Frederic S. Harvey, Harold F. Howe and Hon. John J. Pickman.

ANDERSON STILL MISSING

Mysterious Disappearance of John A. Anderson Baffles Relatives and the Police

Numbered among the most mysterious disappearances which the local police department has been called upon to solve during the past year is that of John A. Anderson of 56 South Loring street, who disappeared April 26 and of whom no trace has been found since that time.

JOHN A. ANDERSON

The local police investigated his disappearance and notified police in cities throughout the state to be on the look-out for him, but without avail, for there has not been a single report received here from anyone that the missing man was seen or heard of in any other locality. The search goes on, but Chief Atkinson does not hesitate to say that it is, in his opinion, hopeless.

Mr. Anderson had not been in the best of health for about one year previous to his disappearance and it was feared that his continued ill-health had made him despondent. The suicide theory was advanced, but, as the days rolled by and no body was discovered in the canals or rivers, the case was dropped, so far as an active investigation was concerned. His relatives and friends, however, still cling to the hope that he is alive.

$50,000 ACCIDENT CASE GOES TO JURY

The $50,000 accident case brought by Valmore Cornellier of Dracut against the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., was given to a jury in superior court here, this noon.

The plaintiff claims the street railway company is responsible for an accident on March 20, 1923, in Dracut, near Collinsville, in which he was run over by an electric car and lost one leg in consequence. He was riding horseback on the day in question, but was thrown when his horse fell and was run over before he could pull himself away from the car tracks. The defendant company claims that the horse fell so near the front end of the car that it was impossible for the car operator to stop it before reaching the boy.

This afternoon, a cross action of contract concerning the erection of a dwelling house went to trial. A jury was drawn on Monday, awaiting the completion of the Cornellier case. The parties involved are Ambrose M. Creamer and Francis D. and Rose A. Maguire. Que, Howard & Rogers for the Maguires and William D. Regan for Mr. Creamer.

MERCURY WILL CROSS FACE OF THE SUN TODAY

At 5.42 o'clock, daylight saving time, this afternoon, with the aid of a small telescope with smoked eyepiece, any Lowell person will be able to watch the transit of Mercury across the face of the sun. The transit will be visible in the whole United States, but not to the naked eye.

Mercury is one of the most peculiar planets in that it is seldom visible and its transits occur only once every 6 2-3 years. Generally speaking it is visible only a few weeks every year and then either immediately before sunrise or just after sunset. It is a small planet, reddish in appearance and the majority of people have never seen it.

At 5.42 o'clock this afternoon Mercury will begin to creep over the sun's disc at a point near the top and within three minutes the whole planet will be outlined against the sun like a minute drop of ink. The transit will continue for about eight hours, but as the sun will set here long before that, its completion will be visible only on the Pacific coast.

This phenomenon is in no manner an eclipse, for the sun is neither partially nor wholly hidden from view at any time. Transit is the name given to the passing of a planet between the earth and the sun.

AT ROGERS HALL SCHOOL

Program in Observance of Founders' Day — Field Athletics Exhibition

The 33rd annual Founders day and field athletics exhibition of the Rogers Hall school, was today auspiciously observed with a varied program of sports and athletic events.

The program opened at 10 o'clock this morning with a 50-yard dash in which the members of the two athletic clubs, Kava and Cae, participated. There is much competition between these clubs and interested relatives and friends, of whom there were many, watched the outcome of the various events to the minutest detail.

The members of the Kava club, wearing white middies and bloomers, and orange and blue neckerchiefs, and the

LOWELL KNIGHTS IN BIG LAWRENCE PARADE

About 100 members of Bishop Delany Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, of this city, left by auto for Lawrence at 1 o'clock this afternoon to participate in the big parade in the down-river city in honor of Rev. James T. O'Reilly, O. S. A., who is celebrating the 50th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

The Lowell delegation was in charge of John C. McQuaid, F. F., while the committee on arrangements consisted of Chief Edward F. Saunders, Hon. James B. Casey and Thomas J. O'Donnell, F. F. N.

In the monster parade, featuring practically every organization in Lawrence, the Lowell delegation marched with the Father O'Donnell assembly of Lawrence. This and the local assembly were formerly one and the same, but increased membership divided the two in recent years. Both assemblies made an impressive spectacle in the parade today. Rev. Fr. O'Reilly, the jubilarian, is one of the oldest fourth degree members in the state.

STOLEN BABY IS RECOVERED

Ten-Months'-Old Child, Kidnapped Monday, Found in Philadelphia Home

Woman Admits Stealing Infant to Fool Husband—Police Arrest Man and Wife

PHILADELPHIA, May 7—Ten weeks old Corinne Modell, stolen on Monday as she lay asleep in her coach in front of her home, was found by the police today in the house of a woman who admitted she took the infant to fool her husband. The child was in good condition.

The woman, Mrs. Mary Demarco and her husband, Gorman Demarco, were placed under arrest. The house where the child was found is at 5156 Warren street, West Philadelphia, about a mile from the Modell home.

Mrs. Demarco told the police that she brought the baby home on Monday and that she had told her husband it was born that day while he was at work. Her husband, she said, believed her story. The police, however, were skeptical, and immediately placed handcuffs on the husband and took him to a police station along with his wife.

Rewards aggregating $6000 had been offered for the recovery of the baby, $1000 by Mayor Kendrick; $3000 by the Philadelphia Inquirer and $2000 by the 60th Street Business Men's association.

STATEMENT BY JUDGE ENRIGHT

Lawyers Not Privileged to Instruct Their Clients Relative To

Probationary Methods Employed by the Local Court or Its Officers

At the close of this morning's session of district court, Judge Enright told reporters that he would like the newspapers to publish the fact that lawyers are not privileged to instruct their clients as to probationary methods employed by the local court or its officers. The statement, he said, was prompted in consequence of a case this morning involving Margaret J. Walsh, whose suspended sentence to the Sherborn reformatory for women on a charge of being lewd and wanton in speech and behavior, was revoked.

When the case was called today, Mrs. Mary M. Hearn, probation officer for women, told the court that defendant had not been complying with the previous terms of probation by reporting to her at regular intervals. In explanation of this violation of court rules, the defendant said she had been instructed otherwise by her attorney.

The court allowed that she must take the consequences of her failure to report, regardless of the advice of her counsel, and sentenced her to Sherborn. He warned other members of the bar not to interfere with the probationary department.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The proposed inquiry into the depression in the textile industry received a setback today in the senate, when Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, objected to consideration of the resolution authorizing it. WASHINGTON, May 7.—Election of officers and resolutions occupied today's sessions of the conference of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Miss Jane Addams was by a unanimous vote, reelected international president and few changes were made among the other officers of the league.

Most of the resolutions presented were adopted with little discussion. Equal economic, industrial, social and political rights for the two sexes were demanded in one resolution, in which specific reference to the situation in the United States had been eliminated by the resolutions committee.

REP. CORBETT HEADS PETITION

More Than 30 Citizens Ask That Matter Be Explained in Public Meeting

Claim Advanced That Decreased Rates Bring Bigger Bills to Consumers

Representative Thomas J. Corbett today filed with the state department of public utilities a petition signed by a representative number of Lowell citizens and taxpayers headed by Mr. Corbett, calling for a public hearing to consider the present price of gas recently established by the Lowell Gas Light company.

More than 30 petitioners attached their names to the Corbett plea for a formal hearing, although only 20 names are sufficient to obtain the end desired. The petition calls for action under section 93, chapter 164, of the Massachusetts general laws, and asks for a reduction in the newly created Lowell price of gas.

Mr. Corbett is leading the present cheaper gas campaign and has gathered much data covering the prices of gas now prevailing in many other Massachusetts cities, where charges were reduced this spring. In some cities, the reductions were sharply lowered.

The Lowell representative is conducting his campaign with the support of many constituents. Under the old rates the Lowell Gas Light company's maximum net rate was $1.40 per thousand, while today's newly-established maximum rate is $1.76 per thousand, according to the petitioners' plea. The price is .70 minimum on the first 100 cubic feet or less of gas used.

The Corbett petition to the department of utilities, which was received by the latter this afternoon, was headed by the signatures of three Lowell representatives—Thomas J. Corbett, Charles H. Slowey and Owen E. Brennen.

The petition declares that the Lowell Gas Light company is organized for the purpose of making, distributing and selling gas within the commonwealth and operating in the city of Lowell. Petitioners complain that the present price of gas delivered by the company should be reduced, because, they allege, the new price rates established and placed in effect on April 1, inst. effective on all bills on and after April 1, "resulted in a material increase in the price of gas, sold and distributed to us."

REPORT FREE STATE TO RELEASE PRISONERS

LONDON, May 7.—Special despatches from Dublin record rumors that the Free State government contemplates immediate release of the interned prisoners who have not yet been brought to trial, but it is not clear whether Eamon de Valera and the other republican leaders would be included.

The rumors, regarding which official information is unavailable, may have originated in the fact that the motion calling for release of the prisoners which was to have been discussed in the Dail Eireann this week has been withdrawn, suggestion to the authors of the report that the government had privately given notice of its intentions to grant amnesty.

FUND FOR CINDER TRACK AT ALUMNI FIELD

The lacking campaign to secure subscriptions from the public at large to make up a fund of $3000 to pay the estimated expenses of constructing a track for Lowell high school athletes at Alumni field, will receive new impetus tomorrow afternoon.

Supporters of the slow-progressing subscription campaign are rallying once again to map out some new plan for injecting real life in the movement to obtain funds. They are confident that the entire $3000 will soon be pledged, so as to start work on the proposed athletic field track project without further delay.

SAYS DAUGHERTY "TURNED THE NEW HAVEN LOOSE ON THE B. & M."

Conrad W. Crooker Charges That Federal Judge Mayer Had Been Grossly Imposed Upon by Former Attorney General—Attacks Modification

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Conrad W. Crooker, Boston attorney for minority stockholders of the Boston & Maine, made his third appearance today before the senate Daugherty committee to criticize former Atty. Gen. Daugherty's modification of the consent decree in the New Haven merger case. He asserted that Federal Judge Mayer had been "grossly imposed upon by Mr. Daugherty" in allowing the New Haven decree to be at first modified and later vacated.

Daugherty "turned the New Haven loose on the Boston & Maine" by his action, Crooker said, since the consent decree forbade the first named railroad from participating in the control of the Boston & Maine.

W. J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation came into the hearing room during Crooker's testimony and Senator Wheeler, the committee prosecutor, said he intended to examine the detective chief later in the day.

Crooker asserted that after modification of the New Haven decree, Daugherty also dismissed criminal indictments against William Rockefeller and other directors of the road which were pending several years after the legal attack on the merger.

Paul Howland, attorney for Mr. Daugherty, got the witness to agree that the indictments had been kept pending for seven years before Daugherty took office without action except for one trial on some of them, which resulted in a jury disagreement.

President Opposes Immigration Bill Provision Making Japanese Exclusion Effective July 1—Too Soon to Permit Diplomatic Arrangements With Japan

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The administration fight against the immigration bill provision making Japanese exclusion effective July 1 will be carried to the floor of the senate and house when the bill comes up for final action.

President Coolidge informed congressional leaders today that he regarded the date set as entirely too soon to permit the diplomatic arrangement he wants to make with Japan, and steps were taken immediately afterward to line up those who sympathize with his view to oppose acceptance of the conference report.

The president favors March 1, 1926, as the effective date of the exclusion provision and he is hopeful that at least a delay of a few months beyond

BUYS LAWRENCE PAPER

Publisher of Lowell Sunday Telegram Purchases Lawrence Sun-American

Benjamin S. Pouzzner, publisher of the Sunday Telegram, has acquired the plant, rights and good will of the Sun-American Publishing Co. of Lawrence, and took possession of the same early this week. The property consists of a modern and well-equipped printing plant, a daily afternoon newspaper, The Lawrence Times, and a Sunday newspaper, The Lawrence Sunday Sun. Under the new regime, the daily edition will be discontinued and all attention will be concentrated upon the Sunday issue, which is already well to the fore in the Sunday field in Essex county. The present plant, which is centrally located on Essex street, will be retained.

Next Sunday's issue of the Lawrence Sunday Sun will be published under Mr. Pouzzner's auspices, though it will not be a fair index of what is expected after all of the details of organization incident to the radical change of converting a daily publication into a weekly have been adjusted. The policy of the Lawrence Sunday Sun henceforth will be identical with that of the Lowell Sunday Telegram, reliable and fair, wholesome in tone and entirely free from muckraking. The acquisition of this Lawrence property represents the realization of a long-cherished ambition of Mr. Pouzzner, initial negotiations for the same having been made even before he became identified with The Telegram.

The operation of these two neighboring newspapers under one management is destined to be mutually advantageous to both inasmuch as it enables the publisher to secure features for each that it might not be financially feasible to obtain for a single publication. It means, for one thing, an [illegible] in the [illegible] in the local plant, an improvement that will [illegible] to the benefit [illegible] Telegram readers. This will result [illegible] the transfer of a portion of the Lawrence equipment to Lowell [illegible] possible without in any way crippling the Lawrence enterprise, [illegible] that the plant which has been producing a daily newspaper is equipped beyond the demands of a weekly publication.

It is the [illegible] expectation of [illegible] to give Lowell [illegible] and Lawrence a better [illegible] the newspaper [illegible] have ever had [illegible] and, incidentally, to be instrumental [illegible] between the [illegible]

SEN. WALSH DEFENDS VOTE ON SURTAX RATES

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Senator David I. Walsh last night gave out a defence of his votes on the Simmons surtax rates, which were passed by the joining of republican insurgents with the democrats. The tax bill, as now before the senate, is practically a democratic bill. It has lost its republican label.

The democratic senator defends his vote on the ground that it gives a more equitable percentage of relief to both rich and poor. He asserts that the Mellon plan reduces the taxes of the rich far more than it does those of the man with a smaller income. As proof of his assertion the senator makes the following illustration:

"The Mellon plan reduces the tax on an income of $1,000,000, 45 per cent.; of $200,000, 41 per cent.; $60,000, 25 per cent.; $40,000, 22 per cent.; $20,000, 27 per cent.

"The plan I voted for reduces the tax on income of $1,000,000, 21 per cent.; $200,000, 24 per cent.; $60,000, 27 per cent.; $40,000, 30 per cent.; $20,000, 39 per cent.

"An analysis of the Mellon plan shows an unwarranted and deliberate preference to those most able to pay."

The senator's statement says: "It is the group of manufacturers, business and professional men and women with incomes varying from $10,000 to $75,000 who would feel most, in the future, the shift in the tax burden resulting from the Mellon plan. It is this group, and those even with smaller incomes, that I have by my vote sought to prevent having shifted to them the extra burdens caused by the excessive reductions to the extremely wealthy classes."

He declares that under the Mellon plan 505 Massachusetts people would be benefited, while under the plan he voted for 387,937 would be affected. In his analysis of the two plans the senator does not mention what the Simmons plan or the Mellon plan does to the incomes in the smaller brackets.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mr. Henry Cox of 472 Chelmsford street was on Sunday afternoon pleasantly surprised by a birthday party given him on the occasion of his 78th birthday. About 50 relatives and friends gathered to honor the elderly gentleman and he was presented a purse of gold and a Sonora victrola, the presentation being made by Mr. Henry McDonald of Allston. A bountiful dinner was served and a large birthday cake, on which were set 78 candles, adorned the centre of the table. In the evening a reception was held at which a buffet luncheon was served by Miss Mary Dubin, assisted by Mrs. John Gallagher, and the Misses Hazel and Sadie Cornell, the latter grandchildren of Mr. Cox. Present at the celebration were guests from Westboro, Grafton, Back Bay, Allston and Roxbury.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Read How Mrs. Walsh Was Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mannington, W. Virginia.—"I took the Vegetable Compound when having the turn of life. I had been sick for seven years. I would get a little better, then I broke down again. It would be hard for me to describe how I was, for I was a perfect wreck. I suffered with a pain in my left side, then I would have numb spells, and I would think I couldn't live. I would have hot flashes, then would come weak spells. I was so weak I would think I couldn't ever get a meal ready. My work was a burden to me. I was not able to do my housework half of the time. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has given me strength and health. The hot flashes left me and I got better of the numb spells. That summer I could do my housework and worked in the garden a good bit. I tell all sick women what your wonderful medicine did for me, and will always recommend it. I am known to all my neighbors, and you can publish this statement because it is true."—Mrs. JOHN W. WALSH, R. No. 1, Box 36, Mannington, West Virginia.

Wild Applause for Bishop McDowell Who Presented Report

SPRINGFIELD, May 7—The unification of the Methodist Episcopal church with the Methodist Episcopal church South, was ratified by the Methodist Episcopal general conference here today.

Amid wild applause, Bishop William Fraser McDowell of Washington, concluded his speech on the report submitted by the special commission on unification. Dr. David G. Downey of New York, moved that it be adopted and William A. C. Hughes, a negro delegate from Washington, D. C., seconded the motion.

The vote for adoption was 802 ayes to 13 noes. The votes did not tally with the number of delegates present and a second vote was ordered.

The other business will include consideration of a resolution, introduced yesterday and ordered printed, asking President Coolidge to secure modification of the immigration legislation passed by congress which would exclude from this country all aliens ineligible to citizenship. The resolution was sponsored by the Japan-Pacific mission on behalf of the Japanese.

A committee appointed to take to Washington the conference's unanimous petition against modification of the Volstead enforcement act, will leave this afternoon for a hearing before the judiciary committee of the senate.

MILLER STANDS FIRM

Insists Pres. Coolidge Said He Was "Trying to Deliver" Plant to Ford

WASHINGTON, May 7.—James Martin Miller, who in a telegram quoted President Coolidge as saying he was "trying to deliver" Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford, told the senate agriculture committee today that he had "correctly and truthfully" stated the facts in the message which he sent to Ford's secretary within 25 minutes after an interview with the president.

The president, Miller said, did not deny the interview had taken place. Mr. Coolidge, he insisted, brought up the subject of Muscle Shoals.

"The heading of the telegram as it is is a gross political discrimination," he said.

FORD WILL NOT APPEAR BEFORE COMMITTEE

DETROIT, May 7.—Henry Ford will neither appear personally before the senate agricultural committee, nor have a representative appear, he stated in a letter to Senator Norris, chairman of the committee. Mr. Ford informed the senator that his offer had been before the committee virtually two years, that it was in writing and that its terms were clear, definite and easily understood. He said it had been fully inquired into, and explained and there was nothing further to be added.

COOLIDGE LEADS JOHNSON IN CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—President Coolidge continued to maintain a progressive lead over Senator Hiram Johnson in returns from 4482 precincts out of 6974 in California's presidential primary election yesterday. The vote was: Coolidge 210,018; Johnson 198,316, a lead of 11,702 for the president.

With 4400 precincts reported, a delegation favoring nomination of William G. McAdoo as the democratic candidate, was leading a list of uninstructed delegates 74,549 to 13,281.

San Francisco county, a Johnson stronghold, completed its count shortly after midnight, while Los Angeles county, where the president was leading, had reported only 853 precincts complete out of a total of 1816.

PLAN TO CONTINUE EXTENSION COURSES

The Lowell Morgan club, composed of local people interested in university extension work, will hold a special meeting at the Lowell Electric Light office next Friday night for the express purpose of formulating plans for the continuance of extension courses in salesmanship, oral English, psychology, advertising and merchandising. Members of the Morgan club of Lawrence have been invited to attend this meeting.

It is the intention of the Morgan members to secure the best courses possible in the above subjects for Lowell. University extension concluded for the season a few weeks ago, and untold benefits were derived by those who attended the various classes. To maintain interest in the subjects already begun, the Morgans will make an effort to have a real college course conducted next year, beginning early in the fall. Plans are also under way for an outing to be held in the near future.

GARBAGE COLLECTOR GIVES FIRE ALARM

A city garbage collector, making his rounds in the Christian Hill district this morning, probably saved a Myrtle street house from serious damage or destruction when, shortly after 10:30 o'clock, he entered the cellar to collect garbage and found an ash barrel blazing furiously and the cellar full of smoke.

Calling the occupants of the house, he told them of the fire and a telephone alarm was sent in to the Central fire station. Hose 5 from the Fourth street engine house responded to the alarm and quickly extinguished the blaze before any considerable damage had been done.

NO NEWS OF FATE OF MAJ. F. L. MARTIN

CHIGNIK, Alaska, May 7. (By the Associated Press.)—News concerning the fate of Major Frederick L. Martin, American world flight commander, who has been missing for a week, was expected here today from searching parties which left Chignik last Saturday.

The searching parties invaded the territory northwest of Chignik. These searchers before their departure said that if Major Martin was found in that region, they hoped to return to Chignik today. Otherwise, they planned to move on and search the Bering sea side of the Aleutian islands between Meshik and ten miles south of the Seal islands, in which event it would take a week or more for them to return.

Fund for Cinder Track

Rotary club, Lions' club and Lowell High school alumni association, together with school athletic directors, will meet in chamber of commerce rooms at 4.30 p.m., in joint session. The purpose of this special call issued today is to discuss at length some program that would better aid and strengthen the present slow-moving campaign for funds. The campaign has been lagging of late, although a fairly healthy start was made in the early stages.

Today, the sum of money that will be needed to make up the $2000 estimated to be necessary, looks rather ominous, unless public interest is aroused to the needs of high school athletics and the necessity of having an adequate training field for practice and competitive exhibitions.

It is possible that a subscription campaign will be started by clubmen of the city representing the organizations which are to send committees to the meeting tomorrow.

Those individual alumni campaign committees, with labels, are as follows:

Lions' club—Mark McCann, H. B. Logue, Chester Runels.

Alumni association—Edward W. Trull, Bennett Silverblatt, Headmaster Henry H. Harris.

an exhaustive examination by the senate oil committee.

McLean testified before the senate investigators that he had agreed at the request of Fall to say he had loaned the former cabinet officer $100,000 cash instead of giving him unused check for that amount. At the same time, the publisher denied any knowledge with respect to the oil leases or the actual source of the loan which he subsequently loaned Fall and obtained from Edward L. Doheny, lessee of naval reserve No. 1.

Zevely also appeared before the senate committee and testified that Sinclair loaned Fall $25,000 in Liberty bonds four months after the interior secretary left the cabinet and at the time that he was requested to make a trip to Europe for the lessee of Tea Pot Dome. Zevely produced before the committee a note for $25,000 which he said was an evidence of the debt.

Coolidge to Carry Fight To Floor of Senate

the date fixed by the conferees finally will be agreed to by congress.

It was the 1926 date which Mr. Coolidge suggested to the conferees and he manifestly was disappointed at the agreement of the conference committee on July 1, of this year, which was the date carried in the bill as it passed the house. Under the senate bill the provision would have become effective immediately.

A considerable group of republican house leaders may follow the president's lead in opposing the conferees report but in the senate the situation is more doubtful. Senator Lodge, chairman of the foreign relations committee and the party floor leader was one of those who most vehemently championed immediate application of the barrier against Japanese, while the measure was under debate in the senate and he was joined by an almost unanimous republican following.

As a result of the discussion of house leaders with the president this morning at the White House, it was indicated that a determined fight was being organized in the house against the recommendation of the conferees. It was understood a move would be made to postpone the effective date for nine months at least.

The conference report probably will come before the house tomorrow.

The various differences between the drafts approved by the two chambers were adjusted last night, after more than a week of conference deliberation in which the administration's wish to postpone operation of the exclusion provisions to give time for a diplomatic exchange with Tokio is understood to have received considerable attention.

The senate representatives receded in the end from their amendment making exclusion effective immediately upon enactment of the measure and accepted the house clause fixing July 1, this year, as the operative date. It was made clear at the White House, however, that this recession was not regarded by President Coolidge as giving adequate time for a diplomatic correspondence with the Japanese government in order that as little offense as possible might be given to the latter. At the same time, there was no indication whether the president viewed the provision as warranting a veto of the bill.

Under congressional procedure, the conference report must be acted upon by the house before it is taken up by the senate. With these and other technicalities in the way, it cannot reach the White House before the latter part of this week or next week, even should both chambers accept the decisions of their conferees with little discussion.

COMMODORE BALLROOM

Newly Renovated Pavilion in Thorndike Street Will Open Friday Evening

All roads will lead to the Commodore Ballroom on Thorndike street, next Friday evening. Patrons of the former Kasino of historic memories in Middlesex county's social world, won't know the famous rallying place for amusement lovers of every brand of happy seeking, when they respond on Friday night to the call of the merry dance under the professional leadership of popular Lowell entertainment purveyors headed by the genial expert, Francis J. Roane.

The Kasino is no more, but the brand new renovated ballroom on

FRANCIS J. ROANE

Thorndike street—the Commodore—takes its place in the column of Lowell's most popular amusement resorts of high-class offerings, and under the most capable management that could be selected.

The discriminating dancing public of Lowell will be tendered the happiest kind of a surprise when patrons of the ballroom enter the main doors of the old Kasino Friday evening, to attend the inaugural celebration of the renovated dance pavilion and inspect the beautiful surroundings and interior decorations that have actually transformed the Thorndike street house of amusement.

The renovations were made under the expert supervision of Owner Carl L. Braun, who for years has been connected with the New England amusement business and has a host of friends reaching far and wide who have supported him generously in all his endeavors to purvey clean and attractive entertainment at popular prices. Mr. Braun has obtained the services of Carl O'Del clever scenic artist of the noted Greenbern studios, and the former Kasino ballroom has been transformed into a ballroom of beauty, gleaming with colors blended in most artistic designs and formings a picture entrancing and effective, both in daylight and under the rays of electrical illuminations.

The new carpentry work and painting will be completed by tomorrow night and the grand opening on Friday evening will bring Miner & Doyle's famous orchestra of ten pieces, providing music for both the inaugural concert and the banner dancing. The announcement of the refurbishing and reopening of the Kasino under the name of "The Commodore" is already attracting wide attention and Friday night is likely to see a record-breaking attendance at the Thorndike street amusement palace.

An additional announcement made by Owner Braun, and one that will meet with popular favor in Lowell's amusement circles in all extending areas of high-class entertainment, reveals appointment as general manager of "The Commodore" of Mr. Francis J. Roane. Mr. Roane needs no introduction to Sun readers or to the amusement public of Lowell. The fact that he has been selected to manage the newly remodeled amusement place on Thorndike street assures a successful future for "The Commodore," beyond a doubt.

Manager Roane will be pleased to meet his old Associate hall patrons at "The Commodore" ballroom, he said today, and assures one and all that they will receive the same courteous treatment and be provided with the same delightful entertainment served in bounteous measure during the past two years in Associate hall of memories pleasant.

Carl Braun for several years conducted Crosbie lake's popular dance hall and, with Mr. Roane, has endeavored always to promote dancing in its cleanest and best form in their ballrooms. They are to continue this high class policy at the new "Commodore" dancing pavilion. As an added attraction for opening night, Jimmie Bray and May Sheeran will feature "Wooden Soldiers" and "Whirlwind" dances.

There will be dancing on Monday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings of next week. Manager Roane also announced today that Miner & Doyle's orchestra will play at "The Commodore" all summer.

YOUNG KAHN PLAYS WITH JAZZ ORCHESTRA

NEW YORK, May 7. Until early today under the delicately tinted lights of the Palais Royal, a Broadway cabaret, Roger Wolfe Kahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Kahn and organizer of the Roger Wolfe Jazz orchestra, continued to show his prowess as a cabaret musician in which role he made his debut last night.

Young Kahn played all evening with his orchestra, making his first personal appearance at the cabaret where the orchestra began an engagement Monday. He played the banjo most of the evening, but conducted for a short while.

His efforts were heard by his parents and by a number of socially prominent men and women, including Mrs. Morgan Belmont and Reginald Vanderbilt.

FITCHBURG CARPENTERS STRIKE

FITCHBURG, May 7.—Union carpenters employed by contractors who have refused requests for wage increases, went on strike today. The carpenters demanded an increase from 85 cents to $1 an hour.

RAILROADS IN PROTEST

Final Stand Against Installation of Automatic Train Control Systems

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The railroads today made their final stand before the Interstate Commerce commission against installation of automatic train control systems.

The hearing probably will continue for several days, with the railroads arguing that automatic train control devices are yet in the experimental stage, and that their installation now would be excessively expensive.

The commission already has ordered the devices installed on many of the nation's principal lines, acting upon authority provided in the transportation act, which became effective in 1920. It acted first in 1922, ordering 49 principal roads to install the devices on parts of their lines, by Jan. 1, 1925. The carriers protested and were given a hearing but the order remained unchanged.

The commission last January, extended its order to another group of short line railroads, and it was on their protest that the present hearing was arranged.

City Engineer in Favor

engineer, and three competitors to investigate the project.

"I am glad to see the matter brought to a head," said Mr. Kearney this morning. "I am strongly in favor of the replacement of the bridge. The roadway is in terrible shape as we all know and I personally do not think the bridge is wide enough. I believe Bridge street should be widened to a uniform width of 65 feet and a bridge of that width constructed. Uniform width from the square to First street should be insisted upon."

The present bridge has a width of 55 feet, including sidewalks. Bridge street from the square to at present 65 feet wide up to the entrance to the office of the Massachusetts mills, then being fifty feet up to the bridge.

Mr. Kearney said that the present superstructure of the bridge is undoubtedly in good shape and was well built but he feels it is of insufficient width. Council President Gallagher will name his committee next Tuesday night and it is shortly to commence a series of conferences which it is hoped will evolve an acceptable solution to the present problem.

Not Pledged to Anybody

ing to do what he believes to be best for the democratic party.

"In my opinion," said Mr. O'Sullivan, "the selection of a winning candidate will be the chief work before the convention, and hence, unpledged delegates should enter the convention with only one object in view, and that the nomination of the best candidate and the one most likely to lead the party to victory in November. Who that candidate may be, I cannot tell now; and no man can tell in advance of the convention.

"I will go to New York unpledged, and free to support the highest, ablest, and most popular standard bearer for the democratic hosts, in one of the most important elections in our history.

"We see widespread business depression as a result of republican policies, and I am convinced that the country wants a change. The people are disgusted with the revelations of corruption in high places at Washington and nothing but a clean sweep that will bring the democratic party into power will convince the masses that our government is not still controlled by corrupt officials acting in collusion with selfish interests that wax fat on government favors."

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Eight-year-old Carroll Klepacz, of 163 High street, was struck by an automobile operated by Henry J. Pronovost of 79 Mt. Hope street, on High street near the Polish school this forenoon. He was taken to St. John's hospital where he is being held for observation.

RUSSIA TAKES SERIOUS VIEW OF SITUATION

MOSCOW, May 7. (By the Associated Press.)—In the absence of any satisfactory explanation from the German government concerning the recent police raid on the soviet trade headquarters in Berlin, the Russian government is taking an increasing serious view of the affair.

M. Krestinsky, the soviet ambassador in Berlin, is expected to return to Moscow forthwith to confer with the government regarding further action. All the soviet newspapers describe the incident in scarehead type and publish long condemnatory editorials in which they warn Germany that if adequate apology is not forthcoming, complications may ensue from which Germany will be the first to suffer.

Count Von Brockdorf-Rantzau, the German ambassador, has made several visits to Foreign Minister Tchitcherin since Sunday to explain the German viewpoint, but the substance of their conversations has not transpired. It is still believed, however, in diplomatic quarters that an amicable solution will be reached.

AUDITING COMMISSION APPROVES PAYROLLS

The budget and auditing commission this morning approved the weekly pay-rolls of $46,056.81, including $2584 for the payment of precinct officers at the presidential primaries held last week.

All of the temporary clerks in the office of the board of elections were dismissed yesterday, the work of listing having been completed. Originally over a score of added clerks were used in this work, but two weeks ago the staff was cut to about six.

Miss Grace M. Keenan has been engaged as a temporary clerk in the office of the board of assessors and commenced her new duties this morning.

The park board will meet Friday afternoon at which time representatives of Twilight leagues in the city will be asked to appear and state their reasons for expecting preference in the assignment of baseball diamonds, particularly the diamond on the South common which two leagues are anxious to use.

WALKER-ROGERS POST MEETING

At the next scheduled meeting of Walker, Rogers post, No. 662, V. of F.W., Friday night, action will be taken upon several important matters affecting former soldiers, in connection with a survey and discussion of numerous legislative bills now pending in the state legislature and also in congress. MRS. ADAMS SAYS SHE OWES LIFE TO TANLAC

Friends Had Given Her Up Because Nothing Seemed to Remedy Stomach Trouble

"If ever a medicine saved anybody's life Tanlac surely saved mine," is the striking statement of Mrs. Anna Adams, 187 New Bridge St., Merrick, Mass.

Mrs. Adams, now seventy-five, is one of those grand old ladies who become more charming with the passing time. She is not only the idol of fourteen children, twenty-seven grandchildren and a number of great-grandchildren, but is beloved by all who know her.

"From a woman of average weight and strength, stomach trouble brought me down to almost a skeleton. My relatives and neighbors thought my days were about over, and I was looking for the end myself. One day I asked one of the family to let me try a bottle of Tanlac and I have almost worshipped Tanlac ever since. My weight has increased from 115 to 135½ lbs. and I am feeling fine, all due to a few bottles of Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

MERRIMACK RIVER ASSOCIATES MEET

First Baptist church, Church street, was today the rallying place for members and co-working associates of the Merrimack River associates of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society, an all-day "basket meeting" being scheduled.

The morning program included a prayer service led by Mrs. Francis T. Fletcher, address of welcome by Miss Fannie Shepperd, reading of reports, prayer, singing of hymns, reception of nominating committee report and two addresses: "Foreign White Cross," by Mrs. Field, and "Work Among the Syrians of Boston," by Miss Carrie B. Masteller. The morning service was conducted by Mrs. N. M. Simmons, president of the association.

Luncheon at noon was provided for all present. Haverhill and Andover members furnished the cake, Methuen and Lawrence members the sandwiches.

Mrs. Charles Morson of Haverhill led the afternoon praise service, held at 1.15 o'clock. The nominating committee reported. Miss Lucy Booker of India gave an interesting address on missionary and religious work conditions in India today, and there was an offering taken with hymn-singing and also an excellent solo, "White Cross," rendered by Mrs. Arthur Laverant, with Mrs. James Fleming piano accompanist.

A feature of this afternoon's meeting was the presentation of a missionary drama, "The Voice of the Women," by ladies of the First Baptist church.

LOWELL CHURCHES WELL REPRESENTED

The annual conference of the Eastern Primitive Methodist churches, opening this morning at Lonsdale, R. I., and to continue through Sunday, found two Lowell churches—Matthews Memorial and the Lawrence street religious organization—well represented by their respective pastors, Rev. John T. Ullom and Rev. Alice Haire, and delegates, together with numerous members of both churches eager to participate in the conference proceedings as representatives of two flourishing Lowell religious institutions in Primitive Methodist affiliation.

The conference was also attended by delegates from the three churches in Methuen and South Lawrence. Rev. John Holden of St. George's church, Methuen, is president of the conference and Pastor Ullom of this city, secretary.

Among those from Lowell who are in Lonsdale to attend all conference sessions, are Sam Asquith, Mrs. Nathaniel W. Matthews, Sr., Graham Pascall, John Brown, Mrs. John Brown and Mrs. John T. Ullom, of the Matthews Memorial church and Samuel Burtt, John Haire, Miss Annie Hill and Mrs. Robert Catherwood of the Lawrence street church.

WANTED TO CIVILIZE "SAVAGES"

Radio may be used to civilize the African native, reports Trade Commissioner Richard A. May of Alexandria, Egypt, to the department of commerce.

A former Kenya colony official is dickering for three or four broadcasting stations and a loud speaker in every African village, whereby instructions in agriculture, besides music, news and other matter, will be given the natives direct. Messengers are now conveying this information.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND

Capacity audiences at practically every performance indicate that "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" is everything claimed for it by advance notices. The Strand management surely scored a masterstroke in bringing this special photoplay to Lowell, judging from the enthusiastic reception being accorded it by local patrons. Incidentally it also indicates that Lowell people generally appreciate a good thing when they get an opportunity to witness it. Attention to some apparently insignificant detail is often the deciding factor in making a motion picture setting true to reality. The producers of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" were not satisfied with the paving of the streets until tons of cobble stones had been hauled 75 miles by motor trucks and placed by hand. Likewise great care and preparation was represented in the scene in which "Quasimodo" pours molten lead on the heads of the mob storming the castle. Water could have been used to effect the illusion, but a far more perfect result was obtained after expensive experimentation and research, but just what was used is a secret of the producer.

Reserved seats may be had in advance for the remaining performances. It is advisable for those who wish to avoid the crush to attend one of the matinee performances. It's the biggest and best picturization that Lowell has ever seen. If you do not believe, then ask your neighbor. This picture has the approval of all denominations.

RIALTO THEATRE

A pertinent plea against conviction on circumstantial evidence is the film production "Innocence" with Anna Q. Nilsson who comes to the Rialto Thursday. In this gripping story a young wife is accused by her husband of being untrue to him—simply because circumstances are against her and apparently prove her having committed the actions with which he charges her. The whole fabric and foundation of their life together and of their individual happiness is threatened—and would be destroyed were it not that the wife through a brilliant manipulation of a situation in which she finds herself, proves how easily appearance may be against an innocent person. Founded upon Lewis Allen Brown's famous magazine story, "Circumstances After Divorce Cases," the theme of "Innocence" is the basis for one of the most penetratingly human treatments of circumstances well within the possibilities of the average human existence that has ever been transferred to the screen. Mr. Brown is a deep student of humanity and his story has in it the ring of truth and of understanding of human nature and reactions. Anna Q. Nilsson is featured in "Innocence" as the young wife. A Broadway favorite, star of a successful play, she has married a man not of the theatre, who cannot understand the ways of its people. The readjustments of the two, their varying points of view upon the same questions lead swiftly to an intriguing denouement. Miss Nilsson brings her customary charm and brilliancy of acting to her portrayal of this role. A prominent cast has been assembled in her support.

"Headin' Through" with Leo Maloney, which is the added feature, is the exacting story of the ranch and the sacrifice of a man for the sake of love, bearing the stigma of a crime he did not commit.

Other pictures on the bill include the fourth episode of "Fighting Blood," an Our Gang comedy, the second chapter of "Haunted Valley," with Ruth Roland and a new Fox news.

Four big acts of vaudeville will be offered Friday night in addition to the big above mentioned picture program.

MERRIMACK SQUARE

Final performances will be given this evening at the Merrimack Square theatre of "If Winter Comes," the screen version of the celebrated novel. An all-star cast, including Percy Mar-

DRIVE TO WIND UP CONSIDERATION OF REVENUE BILL IN SENATE

Party Leaders Maneuver for Final Decision on Income Tax Rates in Measure—Senate Takes Up Corporation and Estate Taxes

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Party leaders maneuvered today for the final decision on the income tax rates in the revenue bill as the senate, meeting an hour earlier than usual, took up the corporation and estate taxes in a drive to wind up consideration of the measure.

The showdown on the income schedule will come when the bill as a whole comes to a vote, and those in charge of the measure sought today to get final action tomorrow or Friday.

Republicans, continuing their conferences, were determined to replace the Simmons income tax rates, put into the bill by a democratic-republican insurgent coalition, with a compromise schedule. Negotiations centered in the insurgents, and additional aid was expected from members who were absent at the time the Simmons schedule was adopted and from some democrats on a compromise carrying the house rates with a maximum of 37½ per cent.

Senator Jones, democrat, New Mexico, was prepared to open debate today, with an explanation of his substitute proposal for the corporation tax. The substitute has the endorsement of the democratic conference, but President Coolidge let it be known yesterday he did not favor the scheme.

The senate has already modified this tax to make it 15 instead of 12½ per cent and eliminated the special capital stock levy. In place of the flat tax, however, Senator Jones would allow corporations, by unanimous consent of the stockholders, to subject themselves to the taxes on partnerships or accept a normal tax of nine per cent on net incomes with graduated taxes in addition on the amount of undistributed profits in excess of 10 per cent of the corporation income.

The graduated scale would start with a tax of one fourth of one per cent if the undistributed net income of the corporation was more than 10 per cent but not more than 11 per cent of the income. It would carry increased rates by gradual stages up to a maximum of 40 per cent which would apply if the undistributed income was more than 50 per cent of the earnings.

PRES. COOLIDGE SWEEPS INDIANA

Jackson, K. K. K. Candidate, Wins Republican Gubernatorial Nomination

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 7.—(By the Associated Press)—President Coolidge's walk-away victory in the republican primary giving him 33 more votes in the national convention almost faded from the sight of political observers today with interest centered in the contest for the republican nomination for governor, which accentuated the Ku Klux Klan issue. Belated returns from the balloting yesterday failed to change the early standings.

Ed. Jackson, secretary of state, running with Ku Klux Klan support, had far outstretched his five opponents for the gubernatorial nomination, and in so doing, apparently had gained a majority vote, making his selection binding on the state convention that meets later this month. Jackson's closest opponent, Mayor Lew Shank of Indianapolis, avowed opponent of the klan was many thousand votes behind.

Coolidge's victory over his opponent, Senator Hiram Johnson, seemed certain from the first returns and as his total mounted, preserving the six to one ratio with which he gained the edge at the start, interest turned to the governorship contest.

First Jackson led with a majority, then dropped slightly behind the combined vote of his opponents, and finally regained a majority-vote lead which grew with added returns.

In the democratic contests, interest also centered in the nominee for governor, and while Dr. Carleton B. McCulloch of Indianapolis, who headed the state ticket in the last election, led in the eight-man contest, it was soon apparent that he would fail of a majority vote, leaving the nomination to the state convention to be held later this month.

The only element of doubt over the republican contest for governor during the night was due to absence of results in Indianapolis where only a few precincts had reported a vote early today.

Supporters of Jackson expressed confidence that he would carry the city, thereby clinching the nomination. Out-state he had piled up a majority and his managers asserted this would grow, his final plurality being predicted at not less than 75,000 votes.

Not only did the klan issue bob up in the governorship race, but also in some of the congressional contests, and likewise in the races for county offices. The fight, too, was manifest generally throughout the state in the efforts to elect delegates to the state convention that will nominate the party ticket, exclusive of governor, in the event that is determined by the primary. Congressional returns early today were too meagre to forecast final results.

THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Lowell Delegates at Grand Lodge Convention—Lord For Grand Chancellor

Lowell delegates to the Knights of Pythias grand lodge convention in Boston, which opened yesterday in Ford hall, view with satisfaction the sure election as grand chancellor of Grand Vice Chancellor William G. Lord of Athol, who was unopposed for the nomination yesterday. There are only three contests in the nomination of grand officers—for grand outer guard, grand trustee and supreme representative for the unexpired term ending Dec. 31, 1925.

WILLIAM G. LORD
Next Grand Chancellor

At the afternoon session of the convention yesterday and later in the evening, the grand lodge rank was conferred on 90 past chancellors. The chief speaker at the evening session was Supreme Vice Chancellor John Ballantyne of Roxbury.

Lowell representatives at the convention include delegates from Lowell, Wamesit, Chevalier-Middlesex and Samuel H. Hines lodges and from the two temples of Pythian Sisters.

MUSICAL COMEDY BY Y'S MEN'S CLUB

Members of the Y's Men's club achieved splendid success last night in their first venture in musical comedy when "On the 5.15" was presented in Y.M.C.A. hall before an audience that filled it to the doors. It is an original vaudeville melange containing many ideas of O. H. Held, a member of the club, who has recently left the city and there was genuine regret expressed that he could not be present to see how well his ideas were carried out. Dancing, comedy and vocal and instrumental music were judiciously mingled in the program. The scene was Lowell Junction and the train was the one which leaves Boston for Lowell at 5.15 p. m. on the western division.

SURPRISE SHOWER

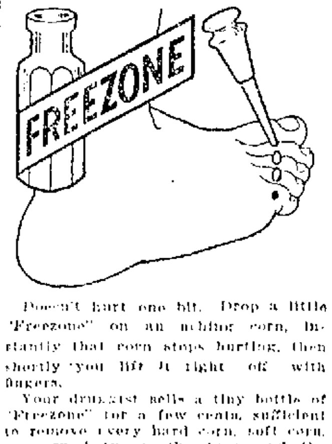

A very pretty party in the form of a surprise shower, was given recently in honor of Miss Elizabeth Snider, at her home, 21 Ware street. Miss Snider, who is to be the bride of Mr. Harris Rifkin, on May 21st, was completely surprised not only by the presence of the guests, which numbered over 50, but by the beautiful gifts she received. The party, which was planned by the Misses Anna Domesick, Rose Greene, Betty Snider, Minnie Raymond and Florence Shapiro was a complete success from every angle. The hit of the evening was exhibition dances by Mr. Murphy Hammer, who later in the evening took the part of the bride in the mock marriage. Miss Bessie Finerman was the groom, while Miss Florence Shapiro made a very good clergyman. The wedding march was played by Miss Anna Domeslck and Miss Ruby Freeman accompanied her on the violin. Following the ceremony a buffet lunch was served. The party broke up at a late hour, all wishing the happy couple the best of luck and happiness for the future.

TO REMEDY TEXTILE DEPRESSION

While republicans are busy looking for a candidate to run against Senator David I. Walsh, he is considering ways and means of relieving the depression in the textile industry, now pressing heavily upon the mill cities of Massachusetts and other states. He has offered a resolution in the senate providing for an investigation of the prolonged depression in the American cotton industry with a view to finding the cause and providing a remedy.

The resolve directs the commission to ascertain the quantity and value of export and imports of cotton cloth under the present tariff act and the acts of 1909 and 1913. It is further requested to ascertain what types of cotton cloth constitute the bulk of the cotton imports and whether these cloths are similar to those produced in this country. Finally the Trade Commission is requested to find whether changes in the present tariff rates on cotton would be of material assistance in stimulating production and restoring prosperity to this industry.

The senator realizes that it is not the duty of congress or of the senate to stand idly by while the cotton industry is throttled. He is also aware that the foreign demand has been cut off largely as a result of adverse conditions in Europe together with the republican policy of having our foreign commerce conducted in the ships of other nations. Besides, there is evidently a loophole in the present tariff law under which large consignments of cotton cloth are dumped upon our shores. If the Trade Commission gets to work quickly on Senator Walsh's resolution, it may lay bare the cause of the depression, and it will then be up to congress to provide a remedy possibly in an increase of the tariff on cotton cloth, finished or unfinished.

This investigation if carried out, will differ from those proposed by Senator Walsh of Montana. The latter moved to clean out dishonest government officials, and he has already succeeded in the removal of two cabinet officials who were responsible for shady transactions by which certain individuals or companies secured unwarranted concessions from government departments. If Senator Walsh of Massachusetts has equal success in removing the cause of the depression in the cotton industry so far as that is remediable by congress, he will have rendered a great public service to the entire country, but especially to the textile cities of New England.

MOTHERS' DAY

Next Sunday, Mothers' day will be observed very generally throughout New England. Although we have Parents' day and Fathers' day, still the idea of Mothers' day is retained as making more of an appeal to all classes than any of the others. At the present time, the Gold Star mothers add a striking feature to the observance and very properly receive special honors. They correspond to the Spartan mothers of old who felt that no higher honor could come to their sons than to die fighting for their country and no deeper disgrace than to retreat before an enemy.

It is well to extol the virtues and the sacrifices of dutiful mothers, but it is well at the same time, to condemn the class of women who not only evade motherhood themselves but instruct others in so doing.

Adown the ages the Madonna has been held as the model for all devoted mothers; and in this connection, we recall a delicious lullaby written by Lopez De Vega, a Portuguese poet, [illegible] the Virgin Mother sitting under a palm tree with the infant Saviour asleep on her knee. The lines are as exquisite and colorful as a painting by one of the great masters and the conception as well as the execution shows the genius of the poet. They are as follows:

"Holy angels and blest,
Through these palms as ye sweep,
Hold their branches at rest,
For my babe is asleep.

"And ye Bethlehem palm trees,
As stormy winds rush,
In tempest and fury,
Your angry noise hush:

"Move gently, move gently,
Restrain your wild sweep,
Hold your branches at rest—
My babe is asleep."

In one of his sketches, Washington Irving said: "A father may turn his back on his child, brother and sisters may become inveterate enemies, husbands may desert their wives and wives their husbands. But a mother's love endures through all, in good repute, in bad repute, in the face of the world's condemnation, a mother still loves on, and still hopes that her child may turn from his evil ways and repent; still she remembers the infant smiles that once filled her bosom with rapture, the merry laugh, the joyful shout of his childhood, the opening promise of his youth; and she can never be brought to think him all unworthy."

Those who attend the criminal courts can see the devotion of heartbroken mothers who appeal for leniency [illegible] their erring boys [illegible] to the last [illegible] does happen that the boy [illegible] whom such love is lavished [illegible] final [illegible] grow older and [illegible] longer have a mother that they [illegible] appreciate her maternal devotion [illegible] children.

PREVENTION OF COLDS

When people catch cold at this time of year, they [illegible] changing too suddenly [illegible] clothes, especially underwear.

A medical authority [illegible] while it is risky to make an abrupt change in the warmth of apparel, the usual cause of spring epidemics of colds is this:

During the winter germs have accumulated on sidewalks and streets which are used as municipal cuspidors. As warm weather comes the dust in the streets, dries and begins floating around in the air. The dust carries the winter crop of germs with it.

The germs lodge on mucous membranes of nose and throat. An epidemic of colds follows. One would not be immune even if he wore a germ filter over mouth and nostrils. It has been scientifically proved that germs can enter the body through the eyes.

The popular notion is that a period of wet weather starts an epidemic of colds. As a matter of fact, more colds are "caught" during dusty warm spells.

The germs are held in check by the resisting powers of the body. In damp or rainy weather, people get their feet wet. Or they get chilled by changing too quickly to lightweight garments and other ways. This chilling lowers the body's resistance.

The germs, which entered the body before the clothes were changed or during colder or drier weather, now begin to multiply. The result is a severe cold.

Some health authorities claim that colds in cities could be reduced at least by half if streets and sidewalks were flushed with water from hydrants to carry germ laden dust down the sewers. Instead, cities wait until the dust is dry, then sweep it—partly into heaps for collectors, but also into the air where it is breathed into nose, throat and lungs.

With our new street sweepers, it is easy to keep the paved streets clean or even to flush them with firehose where the fire department can afford the time.

The same principles apply to the home. Germs are carried in on the shoes. They collect in rugs. Sweeping with a broom stirs them into the air. A vacuum cleaner for sweeping and a wet cloth for dusting are powerful health protectors.

RUBBER HIGHWAYS

The city of Boston is to take the lead in this country in laying a section of rubber highway as an experiment on the bed of the Northern avenue bridge, over which there is probably the heaviest traffic in the city. The rubber slabs are of the same composition as the tires for heavy trucks. Such roads have been in use in England, France and Germany for some years, and have proved very durable while having the additional feature of noiselessness, which makes them very desirable in the vicinity of hospitals. The limited supply of rubber will make such roads quite expensive but if worn out tires can be used for this purpose it will greatly increase the utility of rubber now so much in demand for tires and other purposes.

TAX REDUCTION

The United States senate has finally voted in favor of the democratic plan of tax reduction and added thereto, too, a provision for opening certain tax returns to public inspection. It is predicted that this will give President Coolidge a good excuse for vetoing the measure. He has already stated that he would veto any tax measure that departed very far from the plan recommended by Sec. Mellon. If he vetoes this [illegible] total of the republican record will be [illegible]

PRICE OF BREAD

[illegible] reports after a thorough investigation that a drop of 50 per cent in the price of wheat and 37 per cent in the price of flour brought only 7 per cent reduction in the price of bread. [illegible] may well be asked, what [illegible] of that [illegible] The only answer is that it was [illegible] by the middlemen.

President Butler of Columbia college [illegible] drawn [illegible] from the extreme [illegible] of prohibition because he has [illegible] features of the Volstead law, although favoring prohibition [illegible] interpretation [illegible] Butler, however, has the courage of his convictions and does not care [illegible] criticism his statements [illegible] arise.

The bobbed hair girl bandit had a short career, but this will be supplemented by a long term in prison, the usual wind-up of such a character.

Carpenters in Lawrence demand an increase in wages. They are now receiving a dollar an hour, and think they are entitled to more. This is a most unfavorable time for making any such demand, as it is more likely to discourage building enterprise than anything else.

It now appears that Gov. Cox is to be dragooned into accepting the republican nomination for United States senator against his will. Apparently it makes little difference whom the republicans nominate, as Senator Walsh will probably succeed himself.

SEEN AND HEARD

The May sunshine is beginning to warm up to its job. About time, you say? Seconded!

We always are glad to hear that our friend George Bean, pilot of the city hall up-and-down express is doing well.

Here's a new one. Errand boys in Christiania, Norway, have organized into a union and are out on strike to enforce their demands. It should not be hard to fill their places.

There may be food for thought in the news that an English concern underbid the Amoskeag Co. by 37 cents per yard on a contract to furnish khaki to the United States navy.

A Thought

Another Social Error

At a party the husband of one of the guests arrived very late. "I have only come to take my wife home," he explained. "O, my dear Mr. Black," said the gushing hostess, "why didn't you come sooner?"

A Real Repeater

As the dancer took his fair partner down to supper, she seemed to hypnotize the waiter, told off to serve them, for he seemed incapable of taking his eyes off her. At last the dancer could stand it no longer. "I say, my man," he observed, "What makes you stare so rudely at this lady?" "It ain't rudeness, sir, believe me, it ain't," returned the waiter. "It's genuine admiration. This is the fifth time she's been down to supper tonight."

Reverse English

The squire was walking through the village one day, wearing a very shabby coat, when he met a friend. "Surely you are ashamed to be seen in such a dreadful coat?" said the friend. "Certainly not," replied the squire. "Everybody knows me here." A week later the squire was in Birmingham, still wearing the old coat, when he chanced to meet his friend, who again commented upon his untidy appearance. "What does it matter?" was the reply. "Nobody knows me here."

Too Truthful!

Pat had got a job as steward on board a liner and on his first trip he was anxious to have everything as nice as possible so as to please the captain. Accordingly, the first thing he did was to have a good cleanout of the captain's quarters, and among other things he polished up the tea service, of which the captain was very proud. Unfortunately, he let the teapot slip overboard and it sunk like a stone to the bottom of the sea. He did not know what to do, but at last an idea struck him and, approaching the captain, said: "Captain, can anything be lost if you know where it is?" "No, certainly not," replied the captain rather sharply. "Well, sir," retorted the Irishman, "your silver teapot is at the bottom of the Atlantic."

A Sad, Sad Tale of Woe

"This interesting character," the asylum warden said,
Appears to have been very wise before he lost his head.
"But now all his knowledge seems horribly confused,
"His mind is a hash, as t'were: just terribly misused.
"They tell me that for many years he manufactured hose;
"Then Fashion brought about a million colors, I suppose.
"This man remembered ninety-nine per cent and more.
"He was inventive and creative, but now just hear him roar:
"Mr. Dyer, dye me 'mutton chops' 'mustard' and 'sale.'
" 'Cinnamon,' 'celery,' 'champagne,' 'nail.'
" 'Otter,' 'rock rabbit,' 'beaver,' 'Piccadilly.'
" 'Blush,' 'nude,' 'flesh,' and others as silly.
" 'Apricot,' 'banana oil,' 'angle,' and 'peach'.
"Every kind of fruit within imagination's reach;
"Motor oils, accessories, and automobile parts.
"Dogs, birds, chemicals, and geographic charts;
"Gold, silver, precious metals, oriental pearls
"Yet all of these will not suffice to satisfy the girls!
"And, gee! when I get better and my health is on the way
"I will build me a 'log cabin' for my 'mandalay!'
"And after 'dawn' when 'atmosphere' is clear and 'sunset' near,
"I'll have to flash 'gun metal' and go and hunt some 'deer.'
"But by heck! Until that time my genius is latent
"Upon including everything in colors I haven't."

J. P. QUINLAN, N. Y. Record.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Manchester (N. H.) citizens saw a genuine spring log drive the other day on the reaches farther up the river in the Penacook region. Disaster was threatened to the loggers during the early start of the drive, when a big boom broke out, letting thousands of feet of logs sail away without halters. No damage was done, most of the logs were rounded up farther down stream, and, so far as known, not a large quantity disappeared. Pawtucket dam gatehouse guards say that very few pieces of large timber have come "down river" this spring. Years ago logs cut above Lowell and destined, frequently broke away or loose and moved Lowellward, some of them sliding into the mud banks on the [illegible] of the stream and sinking there after becoming water logged. Today it is estimated that many thousands of dollars' worth of good spruce and hemlock logs are buried in the mud deposits under the river water bed and on the sides of the stream for several miles up above Pawtucket dam. Old timers familiar with the river, old and new, say it would be profitable to dig out the logs when the Merrimack is low in midsummer, and insist that it could be done with proper machinery and stout windlass cable attachments.

Citizens living in the Chelmsford street district of the city and who have to motor over that thoroughfare between the Smith street intersection and a point beyond Chelmsford street hospital, are wondering at the neglect of the street department in not filling up the deep holes that fairly cover the worn out and badly torn highway. Travel over this section of Chelmsford street is retarded because of motorists' fears that broken springs will come if normal speed is maintained. No road leading out of the city bears such a large number of cup-like holes of several inches' depth. Temporary repairs filling up some of the worst holes would not take a competent crew of street department workmen long. Traffic would be aided and the flood of complaint checked. It has been estimated that a small squad of men could remedy many serious roadway defects on upper Chelmsford street in a day's time, with the employment of proper speed.

Amateurs of the sandlots could have beaten both the Abbots and the South Bostons in that weird baseball game played last Saturday afternoon, in South Boston. The Forge Villagers were defeated, 8 to 7, the game being loosely played and the pitchers off color for a bright spring day. Only 12 hits were made off Davidson's pitching—only 12. But the Abbots retaliated by smashing out 15 hits, though it didn't win the game. I firmly believe the Forge Village aggregation will improve nevertheless. The season is a weakling still, but gaining in healthy fashion with the Abbots sure to hit the proper trail soon.

The opening of a small store in the downtown district of the city by Japanese for the retailing of Japanese goods importations, is something of a novelty to Lowell. Of course, there are small quarters in laundry establishments conducted by Chinese, where Oriental goods of various kinds, including lichi nuts and dried foods, can be found. The opening of a Japanese establishment on a street floor is a venture untried before in the heart of Lowell's mercantile district.

NAME NEW MAGAZINE

"Liberty" is Name Selected for New National Weekly Magazine

The new national weekly magazine, upon which attention has been focused because of its offer of $25,000 for a name, has appeared—and its name is "Liberty." Many other good names were suggested by thousands of persons, the leading editorial states, adding "the name might have been the United States Weekly, Uncle Sam, The American Mirror, or any one of a number of names, but we think Liberty is the best. It is the innate, inherent principle of American life."

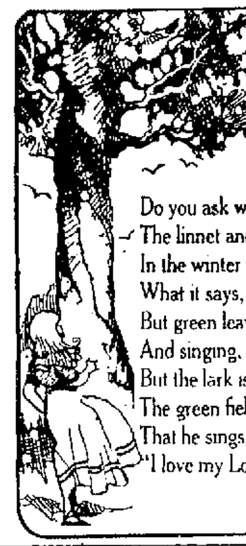

At the top of the editorial column stands Stephen Decatur's toast, "Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong." The magazine, which is of 84 pages, is a highly creditable publication both in appearance and contents. It is heavily patronized by national advertisers, many of the advertisements employing many colors to set them off. Writers of national renown and undoubted superior ability have helped to fill the fiction columns. All in all, it is a magazine that in one leap appears bound to establish itself firmly, due to an apparent careful preparation before the leap.

George Barr McCutcheon has the honor of contributing the first serial to the new magazine, offering "Romeo in Moon Village" which is just as romantic as it sounds. Elsie Janis, dear pouting mimic who so recently appeared at the Memorial Auditorium, tells with stunning frankness why she never married. Hudson Maxim, Albert Payson Terhune, Montague Glass, all names to conjure with, are represented by matter worthy of their weighty pens. Then Paul L. Kinkead has an embarrassing treatise on whether you can afford golf or not, while the latest modes in women's wear, the news of the world in pictures and a review of Mary Pickford's latest film, all have the best and kindest of treatment. There are other valuable and interesting contributions, all of which are worthy of digestion.

Evidently the magazine promotion service has a contest complex for on pages 50 and 51 there is an offer by the publishers to give away 500 live pedigreed dogs free. The contest starts in the current issue. Every week for 10 weeks the magazine is to print composite puzzle pictures of dogs. All the contestant has to do is cut apart the pictures as presented, paste together in proper form and name the breed of dog depicted. Winners will be given a choice of the breed of dog they desire, whether it be terrier, Boston bull, Airedale, Spitz, Newfoundland, police, Pomeranian, Pekinese, spaniel, collie, wolfhound, beagle, chow or whatnot.

The complete set of rules governing the contest is contained in the weekly and they are not at all complicated. Every dog to be given away will be a potential ribbon-winner with a pedigree attached. The offer is open to everyone save dog dealers and members of their immediate families.

To get away from the contest side of things and back to the magazine proper. It is a charming, worthy production that seems destined to take place in the front rank of our American weeklies.

ANSWER TO A CHILD'S QUESTION

Do you ask what the birds say? The sparrow, the dove,
The linnet and thrush say, "I love and I love!"
In the winter they're silent—the wind is so strong;
What it says, I don't know, but it sings a loud song.
But green leaves, and blossoms, and sunny warm weather,
And singing, and loving—all come back together.
But the lark is so brimful of gladness and love,
The green fields below him, the blue sky above,
That he sings, and he sings; and forever sings he—
"I love my Love, and my Love loves me!"

—Samuel Taylor Coleridge.

GOIN' BAREFOOT—

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

The grass is all dewy, and gee, but it's cool. It's smooth and it's soft and it beckons. It makes a man wish he was back there in school to go barefoot for just a few seconds.

The sandpile looks tempting when kids are at play. You've seen 'em and you'll understand. Oh, just to go barefoot for even a day and go milling around in the sand.

Perhaps it has rained and your driveway is muck, and puddles of water are oozing. If you could just take off your stockings—what luck! You'd do it if you had your choosing.

The carpet at home is a velvety thing like a spreading of lawn that's uprooted. It makes a man feel that he'd just like a fling at paradin' upon it, barefooted.

Say, man, when these things are a-calling to you, just park yourself down on the floor, and joyfully do what the little folks do: take stockings and shoes off once more.

ADDRESSED WOMEN'S RESEARCH CLUB

Prof. Stephen E. Smith of the Lowell Textile school, addressed the members of the Women's Research club, at their regular meeting held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Osterman in West Tewksbury. The lecture was most interesting, and Prof. Smith produced samples of various cotton cloths, in the various processes of manufacture.

Following the address, refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. S. Waller and Mrs. Leonard Bartel.

36TH ANNIVERSARY OF FIRST CAR TRAVEL BY TROLLEY WIRE

Interesting Data Concerning Electric Street Railway Transportation and How Industry Has Developed in This Country in Recent Years

The rain descended this morning upon Lowell, and when it rains the question is asked: How about a couple of special stories today? Hit up the railroads—try out the mills—what's the Eastern Massachusetts doing today for instance. Any celebrations going on—carmen promoted or pensioned—new cars ordered—anniversaries?

"Anniversaries"—that sounded like something to pound the pavements with. Street railway anniversaries—just for instance. A good idea!

The idea developed as we neared the Eastern down-town offices.

"Wonder when the first electric car was driven by the familiar trolley—and where?" Good enough for a starter on a rainy day story. Must have been a good many years ago when the first little wheel chucked up under the juice wire on Main street and started the motors in the wheel-driving gears under the running boards. The rainy day feature story looked entirely promising, more so from the fact that the Eastern central offices are only just across the way from the Sun building.

There was nobody home except motormen and conductors waiting for the next traffic duty, but news had reached the smoking room before the reporter. It was a clipping from an electric street railway journal, arriving last evening, and describing an anniversary—a real anniversary to fit a rainy day reporter's assignment demand—

The thirty-sixth anniversary of the day when the first electric car in the United States was run by the use of a trolley. The historic day in street railroading was May 4, 1888; the time, 7 a. m., and the place, Palmer street, Richmond, Va.

The Richmond experiment was the very first commercially successful overhead trolley car in the country. The transportation vehicle of small size and few windows, with hard-coal heater in one end and coal-oil lamps for night runs, proved an eye-opener—a revelation—opening a new era in electrical transportation for the mankind of the world.

The American Electric Railway association, issuing formal notices to street railway corporations, executives and employes, the country over, and not forgetting the Eastern Massachusetts familiars, calls attention to the following data and statistics that Lowell car-riders may find interesting when contemplating the physical and financial aspects of the street railway kingdom:

The street railway industry represents an estimated value today of $6,000,000,000 of invested capital.

Sixteen billion passengers were transported on the combined street railway carriers during the year of 1923.

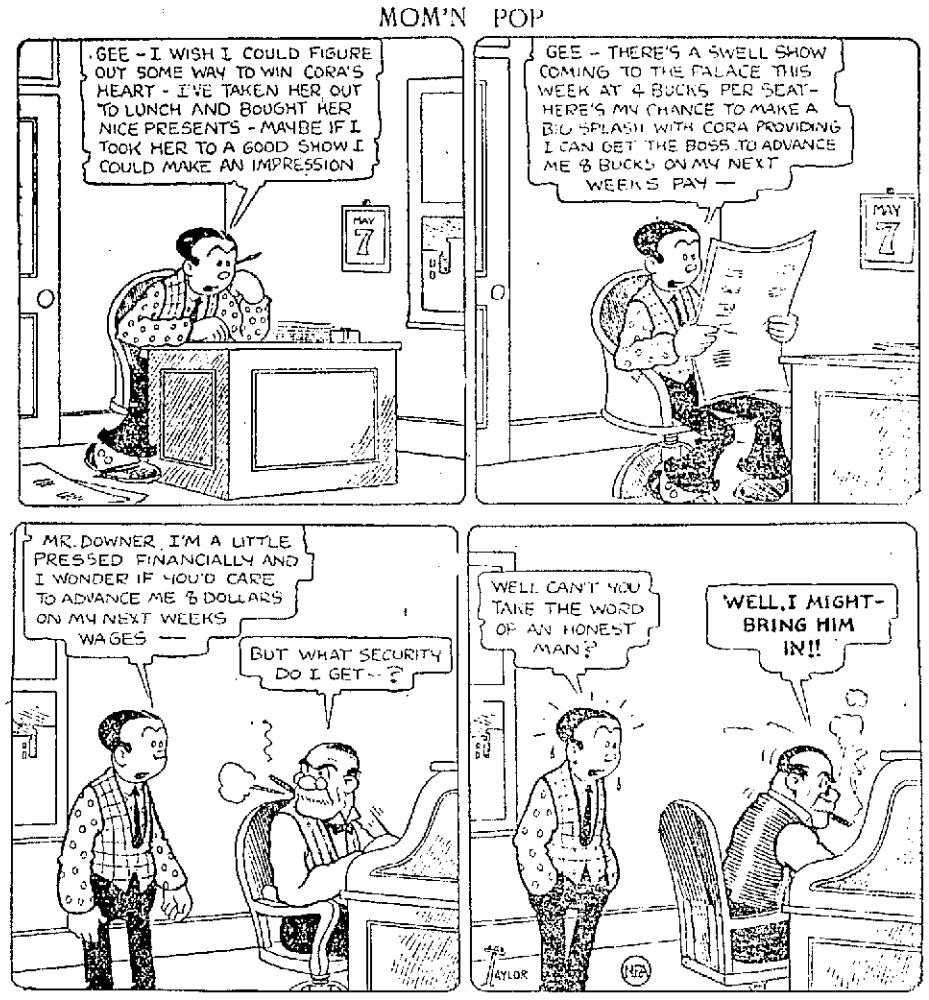

New records were made in street railway construction work, increased service and improvements, and also new line extensions.

The World war whacked the popular method of transportation heavily in every section of the United States, but many of the previously down-and-out service lines are coming back and most of them are prospering once more. Traction securities are worth more today than they were two years ago. The public at large and the street railway managements in every quarter of the United States are today working more harmoniously together for the best interests and profit of all interested in efficient street transportation, its control and advancement.

These conditions, put forth by the American Electric Railway association for public consumption, are being emphasized in Massachusetts today, and particularly in the Lowell district of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway company, as all Lowell citizens have known for some time. The present condition of the local lines, in well-cared for car equipment, much of it new; in many miles of new steel rails, in improved service and in general all-round refurbishment and cleaning up, is the talk of New England street railway circles today.

Within a week, the manager of one of the best known street railway corporations in Rhode Island, of twice the size of the Eastern lines as a whole, visited Lowell and district manager's headquarters after inspecting the newly-renovated Lowell division lines and modernized equipment, and declared that no corporation in New England today surpasses it in its field of genuine rehabilitation and successful management.

A Plain Girl

Who make herself the rage of New York

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Before me is my picture as a girl. Few girls would envy me my looks. But I made myself a famous beauty. And I've kept that beauty to a grand old age. I am still on the stage playing young girls' parts, and I still look a girl of 25.

I have helped many girls to careers of beauty. So many women I have brought decades of added youth. So I am convinced that millions can attain the benefits I get. I am going to help them do it. Now I am placing at every woman's call the very helps which made me what I am.

White Youth Clay

I found my greatest help in clay. Not in the crude and muddy clays so many still employ. My youth Clay, perfected by French experts, is white and clean and dainty. It is a superclay, based on 20 years of scientific study. No other clay that I know is nearly so efficient.

Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs or mars it. It brings that rosy afterglow which so amazes and delights. It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. Many users, in 20 minutes, seem to drop ten years.

No girl or woman who once sees its results will ever go without it. The cost is 50c and $1.

My Youth Cream

My cold cream is another French creation. I call it my Youth Cream. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to foster the fine texture of the skin. You have never known a cold cream to compare with this.

I apply it after my clay. Also as a night cream. Also daytimes as a powder base. It feeds, softens and protects. Youth Cream will delight you. It costs 50c.

I use a liquid cleansing cream, called my Facial Youth. A famous Parisian beauty first told me about it. Now the greatest beauty experts everywhere advise it, but they charge too high a price.

Facial Youth contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. So it cleans to the depths, then departs. All the dirt and grime and refuse come out with it. I have never found a method which cleans skins half so well. My Facial Youth costs 75c.

My Hair Youth

My hair is my greatest glory. It grows finer every year. Dandruff, falling hair or gray hair have never come to me. Nor to any friend who has employed my method.

These results are due to my Hair Youth. It is based on lifetimes of hair study. I apply it with an eye-dropper, directly to the scalp. There it combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It stimulates and fertilizes. Hair flourishes in such a well-kept scalp. No man or woman who sees what Hair Youth does will ever go without it. The cost is 50c and $1 with eye-dropper.

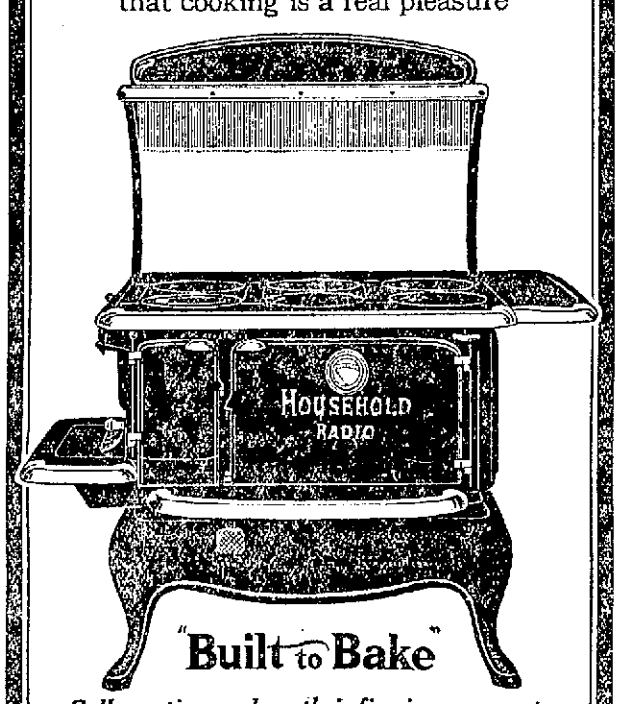

All druggists and toilet counters now supply Edna Wallace Hopper's beauty helps. With each one comes my Beauty Book, also a guarantee. No one can do you a greater kindness than to urge you to employ them. Go learn how much they mean. Edna Wallace Hopper, 556 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.—Adv.

New York Giants' Lead in National League Reduced to Half a Game

PHILLIES TURN ON GIANTS AND CUT DOWN THEIR LEAD TO HALF GAME

Zach Wheat Clouts Homer With Two On and Gives Dodgers Victory Over Braves—Red Sox Win Sixth Consecutive Game—Heilman Makes Fifth Home Run

NEW YORK, May 7.—The early spurt of the New York Giants, achieved largely at the expense of Philadelphia, has been cut down by the same team until today the National league champions lead Cincinnati by only one-half game.

Facing an invasion of the west, where the Pirates, Reds and Cubs have grown hardy by much slashing at each other, John McGraw yesterday saw Jack Bentley follow Wayland Dean along the trail of bright pitching hopes grown dim. The Phillies, with Cy Williams hitting his fourth and fifth home runs and Ford adding another, drove the $65,000 Baltimore import from the mound and won, 5 to 4.

At the same time, Ray Kremer, Pacific coast product, pitching for Pittsburgh, held the slugging Cubs to two hits and gave only one base on balls in the 2 to 0 Pirate victory. His offensive support was furnished by two more rookies. Cuyler, substituting for Max Carey, who was ill, made a triple, double and single. Wright, who has been starring at shortstop since the season began, got two hits.

Zach Wheat jumped into the National league batting leadership and won another game for Brooklyn when his fourth home run within four days scored two men before him in the eighth inning with the only runs of the 2 to 0 game with Boston.

Four double plays by the Braves' infield and sharp Robin fielding supported Reuther and Barnes in their duel.

The desperately-fighting Athletics saw their pitching star, Eddie Rommel, beaten in their eighth straight defeat. Babe Ruth drove in two runs in the fifth and scored the winning tally for the 3 to 2 victory of the Yankees in the eighth. Waite Hoyt outpitched Rommel.

Harry Heilmann, American league batting champion, was an equally decisive factor in the Detroit, 6 to 1 win over Chicago. His fifth home run, coming with a man on, tied the score and his sacrifice fly put his team in front. Schalk also hit a homer.

The Red Sox continued hitting and beat Washington, 13 to 4, in six consecutive victories, the team has made 62 runs and 68 hits. Peckinpaugh, Washington shortstop, left the game after being spiked by Flagstead.

The St. Louis Browns made 16 hits off Shaute and Morton and beat Cleveland, 7 to 4. Sisler scored on a double steal with McManus. The Cincinnati-St. Louis game in the National league was postponed because of rain.

RIVALS OF OTHER DAYS

Kid Roy, Formerly George Parker and Benny Nelson in Main and Semi-Final

Leo Kid Roy, featherweight champion of Canada, is showing great form in his gymnasium workouts, and his friends feel confident he will take Tony Thomas of New Bedford into camp, when the pair meet in the main event of the Moody club card in Crescent rink on Friday night.

Roy is boxing daily with Phinney Boyle and those who have seen the two in action say their exhibition is a treat to look upon. Boyle of course is heavier than Roy, but he is lightning fast on his feet and he forces the Canadian champ to display all his well known dash and aggressiveness. Roy is greatly improving his distance and his speed as a result of sparring with Phinney.

Others are working out with Roy and he is leaving nothing undone to be in the well known "pink" when called into the ring to face the clever Thomas on Friday evening.

Word from Boston where Thomas is training under the direction of his manager, Charley Mealey, declares the New Bedford boy is showing rare form in his workouts. He is sparring with some of the best boys around Boston, including Tansey Norton who is preparing for his championship bout with Eddie Shevlin next week.

Benny Nelson who will appear in the semi-final against Young Leonard of Boston a few years ago was one of Kid Roy's most bitter opponents. Roy then fought under the name of George Parker. He and Nelson were great rivals and wherever they appeared on a bill the fur was sure to fly. Parker always had a shade on Nelson, but the fact remains that the pair engaged in several rip-roaring fighting numbers. Parker later went to Canada where he quickly fought his way into the championship.

The presence of the old time rivals on the same bill will prove an interesting feature.

LAWRENCE CELEBRATION

Ball Game in Connection With Fr. O'Reilly's Anniversary Observance

The big sporting attraction in Lawrence this afternoon in connection with the anniversary celebration in honor of Rev. James T. O'Reilly, O.S.A., was the baseball clash between the high school nines of Lowell and Lawrence at O'Sullivan park. One of the biggest crowds that ever assembled in the old ball park was present when Lowell prepared to bat against its ancient rivals.

"Mike" Gibbons, versatile Lowell high twirler, was Coach Jimmy Gaston's pitching selection to turn back the Lawrence hosts. The batting order was as follows:

GOLDEN JUBILEE KENTUCKY DERBY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 7.—Candidates for the golden jubilee Kentucky Derby were scheduled to sport silks on three courses today.

Considerable interest centered on the running of the Blue Grass stakes at Lexington. The event, at a mile and one-eighth, generally is regarded as a Derby trial and every entry is an eligible for the classic. Beau Butler, E. R. Bradley's Derby candidate, was favored to win. He was coupled with Bobtail. Other entries were Rinkey, Altawood, Giblon, Frankman Chilhowee and Happy Top and Sporty McGee, the last two the Woodford and Steel entry.

Five Derby eligibles were entered in the spring handicap at Jamaica and race fans here were watching Time Exposure to see what he would do in a test with Apprehension, Tester and Bracadale.

Wise Counsellor will make his initial start as a three-year-old in a six furlong race at Pimlico and, figuratively, the crack thoroughbred will run his race under the eyes of turf enthusiasts all over the country. Established early as a strong favorite to win the Derby, his first three-year old effort has been awaited with interest by racing fans.

SHORT SHOTS WON ON LONG COURSE

BY JOE WILLIAMS

They are predicting that the brassie artists will rule the field at Oakland Hills in June, when the great golfers of the land assemble for the annual open championship. The Detroit course is a 6880-yard affair, with a par of 72, 35 out and 37 back.

It is probably the longest course over which a championship has ever been held. Hence the forecast that expertness in playing long wooden second shots will be generously rewarded.

The demands of Old Man Par at several of the holes are extremely ferocious. The eighth hole is 460 yards long. So is the tenth. Par for each is four. This calls for two mighty blows if you are to get home and still have the customary two putts left.

Six holes at Oakland Hills run between 450 and 500 yards. Five others pass the 400-yard mark. These details offer evidence enough of the severity of the test and form justifiable grounds for the assertion that the skilled brassie player will be in his element.

However, we happen to recall that the same prediction was made at Flossmoor last fall when the amateurs gathered for their jubilee. The Chicago course was not as long as Oakland Hills, by a full thousand yards, but it called for almost as many mean second shots and had most par 5 holes.

E[illegible] ideal spot for the men who could play the brassie and the long iron. That being so, or presumably so, Chick Evans, gifted in these important details and playing over familiar territory besides, was an early favorite. But the Chicagoan went out in the first round. So did the brassie and long iron theories.

It developed that the players who were going to the places who were playing all the shots well, and the [illegible] continued to go that way throughout the tournament.

The ultimate winner was Max Marston of Philadelphia and Max won it through his long game but on his short game. The Merion aristocrat had the one shot holes at his mercy.

A study of the cards of the last eight survivors at Flossmoor disclosed that Marston bagged more par and birdie scores at the par 3 holes than any other contestant. It was his consistency in this detail that won the title.

GIBBONS DOWN TO 183 POUNDS

CHICAGO, May 7.—Ten days or two weeks of boxing will fit Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul light heavyweight, for his battle May 31 with Georges Carpentier, French pugilist, at Michigan City, Ind., the American boxer asserts.

Saturday he starts work at his camp near the fight site. Gibbons plans to confine the bulk of his training to gymnasium and boxing, road work at home having brought him to 183 pounds and he expects to lose about 10 more.

ILLNESS GIVES DYKES CHANCE

By N.E.A. Service

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—Tonsilitis gave Second Baseman Jimmy Dykes his chance to break back into the Philadelphia Athletics lineup after being relegated to the bench.

The way Dykes is going, it may take something worse than tonsilitis to get him out.

During the winter Connie Mack purchased Second Baseman Max Bishop from the Baltimore club of the International league. He was rated the star of the organization at that position.

Mack gave him the berth at second in preference to Dykes. He played second in the opener, then was taken sick.

Dykes was sent into the game and he started the Athletics in their winning ways.

LOWELL TWILIGHT LEAGUE

The regular meeting of the Lowell Twilight league will be held Friday evening, May 9, at the Y.M.C.A. After the meeting, the team managers will attend the meeting of the park board to determine playing rights. All managers report great progress and the players are just waiting for the opening gun to make this one of the fastest leagues of its kind in New England.

Modern First Baseman Must Learn to "Go Out and Meet the Ball," Writes George Sisler

BY GEORGE SISLER
Greatest First Baseman of All Time

No player can hope for success as a first baseman unless he is a sure catch. This feature of play is far more essential at first than any other place in the infield.

It is absolutely necessary for a first baseman to become as efficient in catching a ball with the gloved hand as with both. This makes it possible for him to stretch and take a throw while on the bag that would be impossible if he tried to make the play with both hands.

A study of the batters is another important feature that must be given much consideration. A knowledge of the field to which a batsman is most liable to hit, enables the first baseman to so shift that he will be in the best possible position to make a play.

Since perhaps 30 per cent of the outs in a ball game are made at first base, it is an easy matter to see that the ability of the man playing that position has much to do with a club's success.

Speed Enters Into Style of Play

It is impossible to tell just how and where a first baseman should play to be most efficient. The speed of the player enters largely into this feature of first basing. The player fast on his feet can play a much deeper first base than the athlete who is slow of foot.

Indetermining the best possible position to ordinarily assume, the first baseman must consider not only himself but the batter as well. Naturally a first baseman can play deeper on a slow-footed batter than a speed merchant.

When to hold a runner on first is usually determined by the conditions of the game. However, it is safe to say that with second base unoccupied and a runner on first, it is always advisable to hold him close to the bag.

Every first baseman should learn the art of stretching to meet the ball. Many a decision is won at first base by the player who goes out to meet the ball, rather than catching it standing erect. A fraction of a second is the difference between out and safe at first in a majority of plays.

Must Be Shifty on His Feet

Footwork or the shifting of the feet for throws is most important. Dexterity in this particular feature of first base play can only be acquired through great effort and constant practice. Some first basemen far excel others in this feature of play. Not every athlete is light on his feet, just as all of us are not good dancers.

I have simply given the fundamentals of first base play. The finer points of the game come with experience. There are many tricks to the playing of first base that can be gained only as a result of having them come up in actual play and then having them sink in.

In a great many cases the best possible position to assume as well as play to make is governed by the conditions of the game, the score, the number of outs, the inning and the ability of the batter.

These features cannot be briefly discussed. If a player gets the fundamentals, he later grasps the finer points by having them come up in competition.

ABBOTS DEFEAT LAWRENCE TEAM

Al Davidson Held Down River Team to Five Hits—Thorpe in Lawrence Lineup

The Abbot Worsted baseball team, in the opening game of the Boston Twilight league at Graniteville last evening, defeated the Lawrence Independents by a score of 3 to 2 in a contest which was called at the end of the seventh inning because of darkness.

It was an auspicious debut for the snappy Graniteville outfit. Al Davidson, star pitcher on the winning combination, was in his element and held the visitors to five hits, while Abbots were slashing Donovan of the Independents for [illegible] hits [illegible] three two-baggers.

ADDRESSED LOWELL FISH AND GAME CLUB

William C. Adams, state director of the division for the conservation of fish and game was the guest of the Lowell Fish and Game association last night. He gave an interesting address covering some of the work being performed by the state of Massachusetts and many civic and sporting organizations in the cause of conservation of the numerous inhabitants of field and stream. The meeting was held in Odd Fellows building on Middlesex street, and largely attended. Mr. Adams was extended a fine reception, President James E. Burns leading the reception committee.

Director Adams first paid fulsome respects to Willis S. Holt, retiring secretary of the local association, who for more than a decade has filled that office and performed work for the protection of fish and game in the Lowell vicinity that has not been equalled by any similar official. Mr. Adams also complimented Congressman John Jacob Rogers for splendid legislative aid in helping along the sportsmen's high aims.

A description of the methods of restocking fields and streams of the state followed. The director referred in terms of praise to the famous Merrimack fishway, protected and put through by the Lowell Fish and Game association. The speaker had a measure of praise for District Court Judge Enright of Lowell, who, he said, was one of the best judicial authorities in Massachusetts "for enforcing the fish and game laws."

Billy Evans SAYS

In every situation that comes up on the ball field, it is the duty of some player or players to back up the play.

Keep your eye on the ball is a cardinal principle of golf. Failure to do so invariably results in a hook, slice or something even worse.

Keep your eye on the ball holds good for the national pastime. Back up every play is an even greater truth.

In the first 12 games I officiated in this year, I saw two of them lost because some player failed to back up.

Instead of lining up with the throw, so as to be in a position to stop the ball in case it got away from the one making the play, the two negligent athletes merely looked on as spectators.

The result, defeat in each case.

Backing up a play is really never appreciated until the player fails to back up, and the play goes wrong; simply because the ball took a bad bound.

Often you see the catcher run down toward first base on a ball hit to an infielder and then thrown to first in an effort to get the batsman.

If the throw is perfect, and in a majority of cases it is, the action of the catcher looks like a waste of energy.

It is when the throw is bad, and the catcher fails to back up and retrieve the ball, thereby losing all chance of making a play on the runner at second, that the importance of the play is made manifest.

It seems that fate ordains the throw shall be wild the very time the player fails to back up. Such was the luck of a certain pitcher who rarely fails to back up every play.

On a base hit to the outfield, an attempt was made to cut down a runner at the plate. Being of no use in the center of the diamond, it was up to the pitcher to get back of the catcher, to take care of the throw if it got away from the backstop.

Instead of being in the proper place the pitcher was merely a spectator, standing in the centre of the diamond. The ball got away from the catcher, taking a bad bound on the last hop. This enabled two runners on the bases to reach second and third, and later they scored on a base hit which decided the ball game.

The pitcher tells me that it was the first time in his long career in the majors that he failed to properly back up a throw to the plate. It cost him the ball game.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY FAVORED TO LAND TRACK AND FIELD HONORS

Picked as Favorite in Big Meet to Be Held at Harvard Stadium on May 30 and 31—Penn. State Contender for Honors

NEW YORK, May 7.—(By the Associated Press) Intercollegiate track and field laurels, which have been carried back to the Pacific coast by California for the past three seasons, probably again will go to the far west, in the opinion of well-informed observers here but not in the possession of the champion Golden Bears.

Experts who base their calculations on spring showings so far, favor Stanford university to carry off the east's major college track and field prize in the meet to be held at Harvard Stadium on May 30 and 31. This is based not only on Stanford's recent decisive defeat of California in their dual contest, but on the particularly well balanced squad of the Palo Alto collegians.

Stanford will have a powerful field squad, headed by Glenn Hartranft, brilliant discuss thrower and shotputter, but will not depend alone upon the field performers in its bid for victory. The team has some excellent men in the runs and hurdles.

California, on the other hand, has another strong entry, headed by Captain Bill Neufeldt, who led the individual scorers with 11 points in the 1923 championships, but does not shape up to its former standard, in the belief of critics. The squad of 10 men upon which the champions will depend includes only four point scorers of last year who accounted for 21 of the Californians' 39½ points. Besides Neufeldt, they include Witter, shotputter; Becker, hurdler, and Boren, broad jumper.

The far west's forces will be strengthened further by a team from southern California, completing one of the strongest invasions of recent years. Southern California, which was admitted to the I.C.A.A.A.A. last March after its application for membership had been tabled in 1923, will make its initial appearance in the title meet.

Stanford, in its last three attempts to lift the championship, finished sixth in 1920, fifth in 1921, and third in 1922.

While the east's principal defense against the far westerners is expected to be marshalled by Yale, Pennsylvania and Princeton observers predict that Penn State also will jump into the front rank of contenders this season. The Nittany Lions showed their mettle recently by decisively defeating a strong Syracuse track squad. In addition to such veterans as Helffrich and Enck in the runs and Moore in the hurdles, Penn State has uncovered several promising new comers, including Conway, a sprinter, whose latest feat was to out-sprint Chester Bowman, Syracuse speed king, at 100 yards.

Amateur Ball

The American Juniors will take a crack at the Cubs Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, the winner to take a 35-cent ball. The ball will be played at Washington park, and the American Juniors will use the following lineup: Boyan c, Pulaski p, Lebris 1b, Divazzo 2b, Baril ss, Donovan 3b, Clemas lf, Seigal cf, Lisian rf. A game is wanted with the Highland Tigers at Washington park. The manager may be seen at the Morey school.

The Belvidere Mohawks claim the 12-13-year-old championship of the city. They would like to hear from the Rovers, Elks and American Juniors.

The Diamond Stars would like to play any 10-11-year-old team in the city, the Majors preferred. The players are the following: Cahill, Griffin, Sullivan, Healey, Lapoint, Welch, Fielding and Quinn. For games, call 6017 and ask for Leo.

The Beavers defeated the Princeton Juniors, 17 to 6. Games are wanted with fast 12-14-year-old teams. Call 2162-J, or answer through this paper.

The South End Juniors defeated the Beavers by the score of 7 to 1, and would like to play any 11-13-year-old team in the city. Call 6255-X and ask for Lawrence. The Marion A.C. or Dodgers preferred.

The Elks handed the Leavitt Stars their first defeat last Friday, 7 to 3, and repeated against the Red Wing Juniors Saturday by the same score.

The Young Eagles won a forfeited game from the Princeton Seconds last Saturday. They have an open date and challenge them again for Saturday, May 10, the lineup being: Favreau, Gregoire, Pelletier, Gaudette, Princau, Sweatt, Parmentier, Guilbault, C. Gregoire, Bourgeois. Answer through paper or see Captain Favreau any time or at school.

METHODISTS ACT FOR JAPANESE

To Appeal to Pres. Coolidge to Secure Modification of Immigration Legislation

Say Exclusion of All Not Eligible to Citizenship Would Cause "Calamity"

SPRINGFIELD, May 6.—(By the Associated Press)—An appeal to President Coolidge on behalf of the Japanese to secure modification of the immigration legislation enacted by congress and awaiting the president's action, was proposed to the Methodist Episcopal general conference today in a resolution written by Herbert B. Johnson, superintendent of the Japanese Pacific mission of the church. The resolution was ordered printed and action was deferred for consideration.

The exclusion of all peoples not eligible to citizenship, the resolution declared, would cause a "calamity," would change the attitude of the Japanesse toward peace and its results would be felt for generations.

"The general conference appeals to you," the communication read, "to prevent so far as possible the immediate consummation of the enactment of this legislation. It is not good policy to enact legislation in such a way as to awaken and stimulate enmity and create a solid bloc of nations who from this hour must regard themselves as under suspicion and on the defensive in dealings with the white race. We confidently depend upon you to use your influence as president, to in so adjusting the recent immigration enactments as to prevent the calamity that is sure to follow the consummation of such legislation."

Declaring that efforts were being made to weaken the force of Evangelical Christianity in this country, Rev. George H. McClung, of the Central Illinois conference, proposed in a resolution that steps be taken to counteract the alleged attacks.

The resolution referred to the committee on the state of the church, asked that general and district superintendents be instructed to provide means for spreading the Protestant faith and that the Methodist book concern be instructed to publish books setting forth Protestant principles.

The conference passed a resolution instructing the committee on education to present a memorial to congress expressing the attitude of the Washington. Its proponent, Harry F. conference toward the Sterling-Reed education bill, now in committee at Woolever of Washington, endorsed the bill as aiding in the forwarding of Christian teachings.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

mont and Ann Forrest, interprets the leading roles.

For Thursday, Friday and Saturday the Merrimack Square program will have as the feature Tom Mix in his first and only nine-reel super-special, "Soft-Boiled." This is a different Tom Mix production, in which the noted star appears in a role entirely unlike any he has ever played.

You know Tom Mix as the stunt king. In this picture he is the Lonehacker supreme. It carries the same Mix punch. In "Soft-Boiled," Tom doffs his hard-boiled personality long enough to put over some great comedy. Before the picture ends he breaks loose and becomes the two-fisted Tom Mix who has battled his way into the hearts of screen fans.

There are pretty girls, snappy cafe scenes, love, fight and laughter in this picture and it will keep you roaring. The hero didn't believe in wine, women and jazz, but he had to be soft-boiled in order to win his inheritance. When romance and the girl entered he proved he could be mighty hard-boiled. Did you ever see bathing girls in a Tom Mix picture? They are in this one; lots of other scenes, too, that you don't usually associate with Mix. The Moving Picture World said of the picture:

"'Soft-Boiled' is a feature which should find welcome with every class of patrons."

The New York Sunday Telegraph said:

"'Soft-Boiled' is a fine comedy. The sort that Fairbanks used to do on the legitimate stage or a Willie Collier's 'Nothing But the Truth,' with a different twist."

The second feature for the week-end will be William Russell in "Alias the Night Wind," one of his most thrilling dramatic productions. A comedy, "Giants vs. Yanks," and the latest International News will round out the bill.

For next Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the management announces Cecil B. deMille's first production since his "Ten Commandments," "Triumph," a picture claimed by critics as bigger than either his "Male and Female" or "Manslaughter."

INTERESTING LECTURE AT THE MOODY SCHOOL

"Drawing as an Aid to Story Telling" was the title of a most instructive lecture before the Parent-Teacher association of the Moody school, given yesterday afternoon in the school hall by Edwin A. Hoadley of the Lowell State Normal school.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Charles E. Cook, president of the Moody school association. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and accepted. The president was given the power to name a nominating committee, which is to report at the June meeting.

Following the business session, a program, including piano solos, violin solos and a dialogue, was given by Miss Beatrice Warner, Eugene Morrill, Anna Byam, Betty Hemmerly, Donald Clement and Nicholas Davenport, pupils of the school.

Mr. Hoadley was then introduced by the president who, by illustrations of chalk drawing, free-hand sketches and other means, pointed out the importance of drawings in the art of story telling. Illustrating the story of "Puss in Boots," Mr. Hoadley drew the various illustrations, at one time whitening the board and erasing in order to bring out his pictures.

Together with the program of the afternoon, miscellaneous tables were conducted by the members of the association. A whist party was held in the new hall in the evening, approximately 100 tables being used. Beautiful prizes were awarded the winners.

The chairmen of the various committees follow: Whist, Mrs. James Warner; tickets, Mrs. Walter I. Cheney and Mrs. Frank E. Knowles; candy, Mrs. Charles E. Cook, Mrs. George R. Young and Mrs. Clarence A. Bowen; punch, Mrs. Stanley Foster; miscellaneous table, Mrs. Joseph E. Crawford and Mrs. P. H. Ryan; cake table, Mrs. Elmer Brennon, and prizes, Mrs. John M. Murphy.

Keep Oil at Home

The Many Advantages

HERE are ten reasons why a home supply of Gargoyle Mobiloil is becoming so popular:

[1] Gargoyle Mobiloil is produced by the foremost specialists in scientific lubrication—a standing freely acknowledged in scientific circles the world over.

[2] The selection of oil having the correct body and character for your engine is assured when you follow the Vacuum Oil Company's Chart of Recommendations.

[3] Gargoyle Mobiloil and the Chart are endorsed by practically every automobile manufacturer.

[4] Gargoyle Mobiloil is sold in handy sized containers for the home supply—the 5-gallon can and the 15-, 30-, or 55-gallon steel drums (which have convenient and leak-proof faucets).

[5] 15 gallons of oil bought in single "quarts" means sixty trips for oil! You make only one trip when you buy a 15-gallon drum—or three when you buy in 5-gallon cans.

[6] With a home supply of Mobiloil you can always have the proper amount of oil in your engine before driving away. You form the valuable habit of seeing frequently that the oil level is correct—just as you look at the tires, gasoline supply, and the water in your radiator. This means much better operation. The frequent addition of fresh oil helps to maintain the body of the entire oil supply in the crank-case.

[7] You are sure—always—that you are using genuine Gargoyle Mobiloil. You eliminate the necessity of accepting some other oil from a dealer who may not have Mobiloil.

[8] When the oil in the engine has been used for 1000 miles, you can at a convenient time drain and refill the crank-case with fresh oil. This is best done after a short run while the oil is still hot, so that the sediment and foreign matter will be drained out with it.

[9] Economy. The continuous use of Gargoyle Mobiloil will substantially reduce the oil consumption and, more important, assure you freedom from repairs, as well as adding years to the life of your car.

[10] In short, an adequate supply of Gargoyle Mobiloil is the most important single item you can put in your home garage. For correct lubrication is the most important attention you can give your engine. It protects you against the two greatest expenses: [1] engine repairs and [2] car depreciation.

The dealer has a Complete Chart of Recommendations which specifies the correct grade of Gargoyle Mobiloil for every make and model of automobile built during the past five years. Be sure to secure the correct grade for your car.

WILLIAMS IS FOUND GUILTY

Second Degree Murder Verdict by Jury Against Lowell Man

Judge Fosdick Will Pronounce Sentence in Court at 4 P. M. Today

(Special to The Sun.)

EAST CAMBRIDGE, May 6.—Albert Williams of Lowell was found guilty of murder in the second degree by a superior court jury who reported to Judge Fosdick at 2:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Williams heard the verdict without as much as the flicker of an eyelash and betrayed absolutely no sign of emotion or feeling. Judge Fosdick continued the case for sentence, at 4 p. m. today.

In dismissing the jurors the court thanked them for their service and told them they had properly disposed of the case upon the evidence as submitted.

Williams was charged with the murder of Toris Torigian, Tyler street lodging house keeper, on Jan. 9. He was sought by the police immediately after the crime was discovered and was found later in the day hiding under piles of burlap in the cellar of the Torigian home. He denied the crime, but charged it to George Burney. Burney was held as a material witness and through his own testimony at the trial and by the testimony of others established an alibi for himself on the day of the murder.

Testimony in the case was finished yesterday and this forenoon was given over to arguments by counsel and the judge's charge.

In summing up the state's case, Asst. District Attorney Bushnell characterized the defendant as one who is morally insane and said it would be impossible to judge him from ordinary standards. He referred to him as a person having all the characteristics of an habitual criminal, and named these characteristics as idleness, absence of remorse, moral insensibility, and lack of foresight.

In conclusion he called attention of the jury to the case which the commonwealth had shown against the defendant and also to the alibi introduced by George (Snowball) Burney, who was implicated by Williams in the murder.

Williams' attorney, Thomas D. Lavelle of Boston, in a lengthy appeal to the jury, summoned up the defense, offered as one that established Williams' character and also proved that "Snowball" Burney had been a frequent visitor at 33 Tyler street, although he had maintained, and the wife of the murdered man had also maintained, that he was not. He pleaded with them to weigh each bit of evidence and render a verdict of justice.

RECOUNT OF RETURNS IN GERMAN ELECTION

BERLIN, May 6.—(By the Associated Press)—An official recount of the returns from Sunday's elections for the Reichstag announced at noon today concedes the united socialists 100 votes, the nationalists 96, the centre party or clericals 62, the democrats 25, the communists 62, the people's party 44, and the Bavarian people's party 16.

The big coalition, comprising the socialists, clericals, democrats and people's party members still commands a slight majority, which would be safeguarded by 10 votes from the middle class league and the Bavarian Peasants' league, and eventually those of the Bavarian people's party.

The parliamentary leaders admit that the situation is not yet wholly clarified, but they view any coalition not including the socialists, as a quite remote possibility, unless the nationalists make an unequivocal announcement of their complete concurrence with the Dawes report and give assurance of their support for the foreign policies inaugurated and pursued by the present government.

Mr. Bennett, in a [illegible] talk, said that [illegible] are needed to restore the idea of home ownership in the minds of present day citizens. The church, the school teacher and the [illegible], he added, can help the situation immeasurably.

YOUNG DOHENY IS QUESTIONED

Son of Lessee of Naval Reserve No. 1 Called Before Federal Grand Jury

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Edward L. Doheny, Jr., of Los Angeles, Cal., son of the lessee of naval reserve No. 1, was called today before the federal grand jury investigating charges of fraud and corruption in connection with the naval oil leases. He was in the grand jury room just eight minutes and then was directed to remain within call.

According to testimony given by his father before the senate oil committee, young Doheny brought to Washington in a black satchel, the $100,000 which the senior Doheny says he loaned to Albert B. Fall, then secretary of the interior, on Nov. 30, 1921.

Frank J. Hogan, counsel for both E. L. Doheny and his son, met his client as he came from the grand jury room but announced there was no statement to be made.

The oil magnate's testimony before the senate committee was that the $100,000 was a loan to Fall, and that the son took a note from the interior secretary for teh amount, without interest. Doheny never produced the complete note before the committee. He presented a note, with the signature space torn off and said that was what Fall had given his son.

Efforts were made by the senate committee to call Young Doheny before it, but service could not be obtained on the subpoenae.

Will A. Orr of New York, who appeared some time ago before the senate Daugherty committee, also was a witness today before the grand jury. His testimony before the Daugherty committee related to his connection with the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films, whisky withdrawals and federal appointments in New York state.

Other witnesses called during the day were Amos L. Beatty, president of the Texas Oil Co., and William J. Lee, both of New York.

BISHOP BROWN REPLIES TO HERESY CHARGES

GALION, Ohio, May 6—Bishop William Montgomery Brown, retired, of the Protestant Episcopal church, who has been cited for heresy for his alleged unorthodox writings and is scheduled to go on trial in Trinity cathedral in Cleveland, May 27, before a court of nine bishops, today issued a statement outlining a defense of his doctrines which will be his answer to the heresy charge. The trial will be the first for heresy in the church since the reformation, it is said.

Bishop Brown, who relinquished his last diocese ten years ago, in Arkansas, has engaged two attorneys.

Criticism of Bishop Brown's book, "The Level Plan for Church Union," in which he advocated the merging of all Protestant churches, was the original basis of the heresy charge.

Following his retirement from the active ministry, but while he still retained his status as bishop of the church, Bishop Brown continued writings described by churchmen as radical and unorthodox, he admits.

For his fellow bishops to sit in judgment upon his doctrinal utterance would be to "repudiate the fundamental principles of the Protestant reformation," he said. "The church never has defined heresy," he will contend.

They told the police that their companion was Fred Peters, of parts unknown, who went with them by train from this city to New Haven, Conn., where he left them.

FIGHT OVER SEC. MELLON RENEWED

Suddenly Resumed in Senate—Republican Leaders Withdraw Objections

Sen. Jones Calls for Employment of Special Counsel for Inquiry

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The fight over investigation of the internal revenue bureau and Secretary Mellon was suddenly resumed on the senate floor today, with republican organization leaders indicating they were not disposed to further object to continuation of the inquiry.

Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, chairman of the special investigating committee, told the senate he had "no present ntention of ever pressing" the resolution he presented some time ago, designed to end the investigation.

This statement was made soon after the senate had taken up the resolution by Senator Jones, democrat, New Mexico, a member of the committee, which would authorize the employment of special counsel and such other agents as the committee deems necessary.

Announcing he had "no objection to passage of the Jones resolution," Senator Watson added when questioned "that he had no intention of pushing the right to close the committee hearings which he had previously condemned as designed solely to further a personal controversy between Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, and Secretary Mellon.

U. S. NAVAL STRENGTH

Allegations of Serious Deterioration Regarded as Unfounded by Pres. Coolidge

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Allegations of serious deterioration in American naval strength are regarded as generally unfounded by President Coolidge.

The president has considered somewhat exhaustively the question of naval replacements in connection with his recommendations to congress for building new cruisers and submarines and in his endorsement of generous naval appropriations. Through that study he has come to the conclusion that there need be no disturbance in the public mind regarding the navy's comparative strength.

RESERVES DECISION ON SHOE WORKERS' BILL

BOSTON, May 6.—Judge Carroll of the supreme court reserved decision today after a hearing on a bill in equity brought by the Amalgamated Shoe Workers of America to restrain J. J. Melanson, a Lynn shoe manufacturer from employing operatives not furnished by the Amalgamated.

Because of labor conditions in Lynn, Melanson recently turned his business over to a corporation which is about to open a factory in North Adams. The Amalgamated based its suit on the ground that Melanson was a party to what is known as the peace pact between Lynn shoe manufacturers and the Amalgamated.

Counsel for the Amalgamated urged that this agreement followed the manufacturers to any place in the state where they might locate and they had no right to employ other than union men. Judge Carroll said he was of the opinion that the agreement applied only to Lynn, but as there was no precedent for the case, he would reserve decision in order to determine whether any authority could be found for issuing the injunction.

In answer to questions by the court, counsel for the union said he thought that if members of union affiliated with the Amalgamated should obtain employment in any other place they would not be bound by the Lynn agreement. This led Judge Carroll to remark that it seemed to him that the agreement was binding only upon the manufacturers and not upon members of the Amalgamated.

MARYLAND DELEGATION FOR COOLIDGE

BALTIMORE, May 6.—President Calvin Coolidge will have the solid vote of the Maryland republican delegation at the Cleveland convention as a result of yesterday's primary election. Mr. Coolidge, who was the only presidential candidate to file in Maryland, was overwhelmingly endorsed in the most apathetic primary in the state's history. Not more than 10 per cent. of the republicans voted. The vote was in a ratio of about 12 to 1 for Coolidge. His total vote in Baltimore city was 4212 against 350 for an uninstructed vote.

The county returns are incomplete but Galen L. Tait, chairman of the republican state committee, estimated the entire state vote at upwards of 9,000 for Coolidge and only about 1000 for an uninstructed delegation.

ATTACKS JUDGE LANDIS

Middlekauf Says He Made "Untruthful and Unwarranted" Statements

WASHINGTON, May 6—C. W. Middlekauf, assistant United States attorney general at Chicago, told the senate Daugherty investigating committee today that former Judge Landis had made "untruthful and unwarranted" statements in his recent testimony about the conviction and pardon of Philip Grossman, a former Chicago saloon-keeper accused of violating the prohibition law.

In a letter filed with President Coolidge, seeking the pardon, Middlekauf had said that but two witnesses had testified to sales of liquor in the case in which Grossman was convicted. Judge Landis said there were four. Mr. Middlekauf agreed today there were four witnesses but said that only two of them testified about liquor sales. One of these, Ball, he insisted, was "discredited" because "he padded his expense account."

"I wrote the department it didn't have a righteous case," Middlekauf said.

"Judge Landis says it is a matter of common knowledge that Grossman ran a saloon up to the moment of his pardon," suggested Chairman Brookhart.

"It isn't a fact," Mr. Middlekauf replied, "because the owner of the building took it away from Grossman after his conviction."

SEE QUICK EXPANSION OF WORLD COMMERCE

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 6.—Virtually all economic factors point to a quick healthy expansion of world commerce as soon as business confidence in America is restored by a clearer definition of governmental relationship to business, Julius H. Barnes, president of the United States chamber of commerce predicted today in his annual address to the 12th annual convention of the chamber. Approximately 3000 representatives of business organizations are attending the four day sessions.

Rehabilitation of European commerce, which is expected to result from the operation of the Dawes report on German finances was pointed to by Mr. Barnes as perhaps the most hopeful sign on the horizon of world industry. At home, he pointed to the recuperating agricultural industry and a perceptible stabilization of the public sentiment toward business as tokens of continued prosperity.

The present tendency toward retrenchment, he said, was due almost entirely to financial uncertainty growing out of the present governmental situation in Washington, in which policies in taxation and transportation two fundamental factors in the industrial life of the nation, are awaiting determination. The decision will clear the track for business to proceed at full speed—if it is not made too late, Mr. Barnes said.

Almost without exception, the countries of Europe today are making noticeable progress toward political and economic stability, he said.

2,386,505 SPINDLES IDLE IN FALL RIVER

FALL RIVER, May 6.—Only one-third of the total number of spindles in the mills of this city are in operation, curtailing the combined output of the mills by 7,000,000 yards of cloth figured on a yearly basis, according to a survey of mill conditions just completed. The survey showed that conditions were not as bad as had been previously estimated, as it had been thought that only 20 per cent. of the spindles were being operated.

The figure compiled showed that out of a total of 3,591,000 spindles, 2,386,505 are stopped at present. The figures did not include independent mills which have a total of 100,000 spindles.

Better than two-thirds of the print cloth spindles are idle. Curtailment in the fine goods mills is 55 per cent. With conditions continuing as they are at present, the survey showed that in a short time print cloth and fine goods will be found in small quantities only.

The mills have refused to continue these classes at a loss. With shut-downs continuing on an even more extended basis, the supply will not be in any way replenished. It is indicated that goods now in the market will gradually disappear, even though sales are light and the price is below the cost of manufacture.

HONORABLE DISCHARGE FOR MINORS FAVORED

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Secretary Weeks today asked congress to enact legislation authorizing honorable discharge certificates for minors who enlisted for World war service and were dismissed when it was found they had misrepresented their ages.

Under the provision suggested by the secretary, such persons would be "held and considered to have been discharged honorably from the military service on the date of his actual separation therefrom if his service otherwise was such as would have entitled him to an honorable discharge."

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 11

Jack steered the pony, first up one lane between tents, and then down another. Suddenly the little animal came to an abrupt stop, so suddenly that it threw Jack over the animal's head. Fortunately, it happened right in front of the giraffe's tent and Jack landed on a pile of straw.

"Gee, that was a lucky fall," said the little adventurer to a queer looking man who had appeared. "I should say so," came the reply. Jack then started to get up when he felt something tugging at the seat of his trousers. At the next moment he went slowly right up into the air.

Of course, Jack didn't know it, but a giraffe had grabbed him and lifted him away up high. As the little adventurer kicked his feet and shouted to be let down, the queer looking man shouted something to the giraffe and the long-necked animal put Jack on the ground again. (Continued.)

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE ABSENT-MINDED FISHERMAN

"HELLO THERE, EVERYBODY!" HE CRIED

"Let's go to see the fisherman who found the funny bottle," said Nick. "Does he live in Once-Upon-a-Time Land?"

"Righto-o!" said Mister Muggs.

So they all climbed into the little car and away they went over seven times seven frog-ponds and seven times seven minnow-brooks until at last they came to a great, great big ocean.

And there was the fisherman's cottage. And sitting in a little boat was the fisherman himself, trying to catch a herring for his dinner. When he saw that he had company, he rowed his little boat to shore.

"We came to see your queer bottle!" said Nick.

"What queer bottle?" asked the fisherman in surprise.

"The one you fished out of the water one time," said Nick. "It had a bad giant in it and when you took the cork out he came out, too, like smoke. That's what the story said."

"By the great horn spoon!" cried the fisherman. "So it did! Only it all happened so long ago I had forgotten about it. I only got that bad fellow back in the bottle by fooling him. I put the bottle away in a cupboard and I've kept it ever since. I plumb forgot I had it."

The fisherman hauled it down, but in doing so the stopper fell out and as quick as a flash a thin stream of smoke started to come out. It soon grew to an enormous size, floating up to the ceiling and a giant appeared.

"Hello, there, everybody!" he cried. "Where am I? I must have been asleep!"

"You have," said the fisherman. "You've been asleep for years 'n' years!"

"Oh, I remember," said the big fellow. "And you played a trick on me to get me back into the bottle. Well, that won't happen again, for I'm too smart for you. The first thing I'm going to do is to swallow the sea so you can't catch any more fish. And the second thing is—"

But he didn't finish for just then a marvelous thing happened.

Mr. Muggs opened two windows and the wind rushed in at one window and blew the bottle giant out of the other, because he was only smoke, anyway—or something like it.

"Oh-no-no! I want to go back in my bottle!" they heard him say away off in the distance.

But it was too late. He was gone for good.

"Well, guess I'll sleep better now," said the fisherman. "It isn't very comfortable to have a giant 'round the house."

"Why I thought you said you had forgotten about him!" cried Mister Muggs.

"Well, I guess I forgot that I had forgotten," said the fisherman. "Oh, but I am getting absent-minded! Do you know whether I caught a herring or not when I was fishing?"

"No, you didn't," said Nancy. "There was none in the boat."

"Well, then, if you'll excuse me," said the fisherman, "I'll go and get one for my supper. I do feel better not to have a giant in the house, or was it a dwarf? I forget already."

"Goodby!" called the visitors as they rode away.

SEWERS, GAS BILLS, BUS LINES AND CENTRAL BRIDGE BEFORE COUNCIL

Widening of Bridge Street and of Gorham Street, Also Sewers for Oaklands and East Meadow Road Discussed—Would Replace Central Bridge

A series of stiff raps against the board of public service, the defeat of a motion to take from the table the nomination of John J. O'Connell for superintendent of charities, and the decision to order a public hearing on the proposal to establish a motor bus line from Lowell to Lawrence, were the chief matters of interest at the city council session last night.

Councilor John J. McFadden introduced an order calling for the appointment of a special committee, to consist of the city engineer, the president of the council, and three other councilors, to investigate and report on the advisability of widening Bridge street and replacing Central bridge. The motion for the appointment of such a committee was passed and Council President Gallagher said he would defer naming the committee until next Tuesday night's meeting.

Memories of the disastrous Associate building fire of ten days ago were brought to mind upon the introduction of an order by Councilor Lambert calling for a committee investigation of the formation, activities, functions and maintenance expense of protective companies in other cities and also the quality of hose used in other cities with especial regard to pressure resistance. The matter was referred to the public safety committee for investigation and report.

Score Delay on Sewer Work

Councilor John W. Daly asked "Who threw the wrench in and hammed the works" on the Oaklands sewer project and after no definite statements of enlightenment were forthcoming the blame for lack of action on this project was fastened on the board of public service which was scored for what was termed apparent indifference and lack of a desire to cooperate with the city council.

Councilor Genest scored the board roundly for what he termed its consistent refusal to do anything on the petition for a sewer in East Meadow road from Moody street to Mammoth road. There are 25 families desirous of service there and anxious to pay whatever their assessed cost may be, he said. The councilor deplored the fact that the city should see fit to go ahead with the Oaklands sewer partial extension project, of doubtful immediate value, when such a condition exists as exists in the East Meadow road section today.

May Order Special Job

Councilor Daly suggested that his fellow councilor take steps to have the council order construction of such a sewer as he desired. Acting on the suggestion and the implied promise of support, Mr. Genest moved that the city engineer be instructed to furnish an estimate of cost to the council at its next meeting. Mr. Daly promptly seconded the motion and it was carried.

Councilor Cosgrove here ventured the prophecy that "daisies will be growing over both of us" before Mr. Genest gets any estimate from the engineer's office if the submission of same requires as long as the nearly forgotten request of Councilor Cosgrove for an estimate of the cost of widening Gorham street. It was directed that mention of this matter be made to the city engineer.

To Probe Gas Rates

Councilor Dickson cited the fact there is quite a general complaint among gas consumers that the recent rate change of the Lowell Gas Light Co., heralded as a rate reduction when put into effect, was in reality increasing the gas bill of the average consumer.

"I think a committee from this council should investigate these rates and report back with recommendations," said Mr. Dickson. President Gallagher named Messrs. Dickson, Fitzgerald and Lambert as the committee.

Take Up Appointments

The appointment of John E. Moynahan as inspector of buildings to succeed Francis A. O'Connor, resigned, met immediate unanimous confirmation as did the reappointment of Thomas L. McKay to the park board for a five year term.

The move to take from the table the nomination of J. J. O'Connell to succeed Joseph H. Gordon as superintendent of charities was initiated by Councilor Gleeley and seconded by Councilor Hennessey on a viva voce vote the chair declared the motion carried but Mr. Sadler doubted. The standing vote showed six desirous of taking the matter up and nine content to dodge the issue.

How They Voted

Those for action on the nomination were Messrs. Chretien, Fitzgerald, Gallagher, Hennessey, Chadwick and Genest. Those against action were the Messrs. Cosgrove, Stearns, Dickson, Sadler, Moriarty, Lambert, Daly, McFadden and McFadden.

Objections being raised to the plan for a playground adjacent to Greenhalge school it was decided to have a public hearing on the matter on May 13.

The council voted to pass the usual formal request for permission to grant a $500 annuity to Mrs. Grace L. Foss, widow of Fireman William T. Foss who met death in the performance of duty. A bill authorizing the annuity has been introduced in the legislature by Owen E. Brennen.

Central Bridge a "Spectacle"

In moving the appointment of a committee to study the feasibility and approximate cost of widening Bridge street and replacing Central bridge, Mr. McFadden briefly reviewed some of the troubles the present bridge has bestowed upon the city.

"Opinions even of engineers differ as to the safety of the present "spectacle," said Mr. McFadden. Expediency, efficiency and the safety of the people demand something be done about this $100,000 menace which is at the same time a terror and a disgust to all who use it.

Councilor Cosgrove succeeded in his motion that the city clerk be instructed to write the board of public service relative to the continued blocking of Chelmsford street at Thorndike street and request a reply before the meeting next week. Mr. Cosgrove was particularly anxious to know by what authority and under whose orders the street is being blocked.

Crawford Case Echo

A communication was received from City Solicitor Reynolds conveying the opinion that while the public safety committee of the city council may give hearings to aggrieved firemen it has no authority or right to advise or restrict the chief of the department in the exercise of his rights in transferring, promoting or otherwise changing the status of men under him.

This opinion was rendered as having particular bearing in the case of Fireman George R. Crawford who claims unjust discrimination in that he was passed over on the civil service list when the chief last named a number of fire lieutenants.

May 20 was set as the date for a public hearing on the petition of William D. Regan that Davenport Terrace East, and Davenport Terrace West, and Tyler Park be designated under one name. Opposition developed to this suggestion when heard before the board of public service a week ago and the board referred the matter to the council.

Speaks for Bus Line

J. Joseph Hennessy appeared on behalf of the New England Motor Bus Co., Inc., which would operate a motor bus line to Lawrence from this city. The route at a forty cent fare, would be from the Washington tavern to Green, to George, to Church, to Andover street to North Tewksbury to Shawsheen and Andover and Lawrence. Passenger busses capable of carrying 25 persons in addition to the driver would be used.

Mr. Hennessy cited that in Cambridge the Eastern Massachusetts trolley system is doing a similar thing while permission has already been granted for bus lines in Everett and Medford and is pending in Boston.

Councilor Daly spoke of the motor omnibus as the coming thing and dwelt for a moment on its development as observed by him on his last European trip. He recommended a public hearing on the project on May 20 and it was so voted.

Mr. Cosgrove, through the chair, asked that the newspapers of the city correct the statement made last week to the effect that he had declined to serve on the committee which visited Boston relative to civil service requirements in connection with the hiring of laborers for the Oaklands sewer. There was no comment.

Daly Washes Hands of Sewer

Mr. Daly asked about the delay in doing anything on the Oaklands sewer, for which project $50,000 was voted under an emergency order three weeks ago.

"When I urged the passage of the order I said from the floor that I had assurance work would be started immediately," said Mr. Daly. He added that in view of the delay he felt he should make some explanation, saying that he made his statement in good faith in view of assurances given him by Chairman James J. Murphy and Frederick T. McFoy of the board of public service. He added that his statement that 200 men would be employed was based on figures given him by Mr. Murphy and Street Superintendent Doherty who have since said 75 should be the maximum number employed on the job.

"Who Threw the Wrench?"

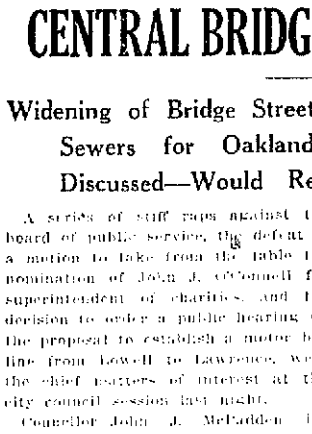

"Who threw the wrench in and hammed the works," asked Mr. Daly. "I would like to ask the president and Councilor Lambert if they can elucidate me?" Messrs. Gallagher and Lambert comprised the council committee which interviewed the board of public service on the project last week.

President Gallagher said that whether or not Mr. Lambert could tell who the monkey wrench hurler was he added that the board said objections having been found to be legally tenable, a public hearing will be necessary before the board can do anything.

Sees Possible Excuse

"I can readily see that when Mr. Murphy or Mr. McFoy talked with me they might not have anticipated any opposition," said Mr. Daly. "I wished to explain my position, however, and leave the matter with the responsible for lack of action placed just where it belongs. Mr. Murphy, Mr. McFoy and Mr. Doherty, who assured me separately of immediate action should the order be passed, now have the order and the matter is with them."

A resolution introduced by Councilor Dickson which called for abolition of the Middlesex street grade crossing was turned over to the city solicitor for opinion as to form. The meeting, which was called promptly at 8:15, adjourned at 10:15.

BOY DROWNED IN LOCAL CANAL YESTERDAY

Eight-year-old James A. Shea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick H. Shea of 41 Waverley street, fell into the Eastern canal in the rear of the Strand theatre early last evening and was drowned before assistance reached him. His body was recovered by the police at 10 o'clock last night after almost three hours' search.

The boy, with three others of about his own age, were playing on a narrow foot bridge which spans the canal in the rear of the theatre at about 7 o'clock when he lost his balance and fell into the swirling waters. The three boys who were with him screamed for help and then ran away.

Roland Lizotte, assistant motion picture operator at the Strand, heard the screams and saw the boy in the water. Shouting to other operators to summon assistance, he ran down the fire escape and to the bank of the canal, but upon his arrival no trace of the boy could be seen with the exception of his cap, which floated down a sluice-way and disappeared.

Another operator in the theatre telephoned the manager, Samuel Torgan, and he in turn notified the police. The police patrol with boat and dragging irons arrived quickly on the scene. The detail was in charge of Sergeant Winn and consisted of Officers Daniel Lynch, Frank O'Dea, Alfred J. Cooney, Francis H. Moore, Michael Maloney, John H. Murphy, Alfred Kelley and Probation Officer Joseph L. Cronin. The Locks and Canals were also notified and Asst. Chief Engineer S. S. Kent and Supt. H. B. Lane ordered the gates at the Saco-Lowell shops closed.

As darkness descended, Manager Torgan of the Strand theatre had his electricians install three flood lights on the bank of the canal and with the lights in operation the officers dragged the canal.

Shortly before 10 o'clock, Officer Moore, who was working with a boat hook from the banks of the canal, hooked onto the body and brought it to the surface. Officer Cooney climbed down the bank into the water and brought the body ashore.

Hoping to learn the victim's identity, several boys who viewed the dragging of the canal were allowed to view the body but none was able to identify it. The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

Patrick H. Shea, worried over the non-appearance of his son, reported to the police at 11 o'clock that his boy was missing. With Officer Lynch he went to the morgue and identified the drowning victim as his boy.

The canal at the point where the accident occurred, is protected by a high fence. It is believed the victim, with three other boys, climbed the fence in the rear of the Strand theatre to gain access to the canal.

The victim's age was eight years, ten months and four days. He was a pupil of the Ames street school. Besides his parents he leaves four brothers, Walter P., George R., William J. and John W., also one sister, Margaret L. After identification the body was removed to the home of his parents, 11 Waverley street.

Citizens of Lowell who appreciate what Albert Edmund Brown has accomplished for the city in his community and musical life during his residence here, will be given an excellent opportunity to show such appreciation at the public testimonial concert to be given for Mr. Brown at the Memorial Auditorium tonight.

Local civic, social and fraternal organizations have actively sponsored the testimonial and have generously advertised it in an effort to attract a large and friendly audience.

Mr. Brown also will be heard in one or two group of songs, notably several Kipling numbers that never fail to find popularity as he sings them.

After the concert there will be a social hour and informal reception for Mr. and Mrs. Brown and later there will be general dancing to music furnished by Miner and Doyle's orchestra. The tickets are not reserved and are of the standard price of $1.10. The concert will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

LOWELL MAN BADLY INJURED IN NASHUA

Otis Douville of 823 Moody street, this city, was badly injured yesterday afternoon while at work on the new asbestos mill in Nashua, N. H., when he fell a distance of 30 feet. He was taken to the Memorial hospital in Nashua where his injuries are considered serious but not necessarily fatal.

Mr. Douville was employed at the "new mill" as a carpenter and was working on the roof when he lost his footing. He fell 30 feet, landing on the floor, and received a fractured hip and numerous other injuries. It was at first believed he suffered serious internal injuries but at the hospital today it is believed he will recover.

DEMANDS FOR PAYMENT OF 1923 TAXES

Demands for the payment of 1923 property taxes will be mailed all delinquents Friday morning by City Treasurer Fred H. Rourke. These demands will call for payment of the full amount assessed, plus interest at 8 per cent. from Oct. 15 last and a charge of 25 cents for service of the demand. Land owners served with these demands who fail to comply with same within fourteen days from the date of the notice will find their property advertised for sale to satisfy the city's claim.

These taxes were payable last Oct. 15 and 17 days thereafter commenced to accrue interest from Oct. 15 at 6 per cent. All taxes unpaid by Jan. 15 entered on the 8 per cent. interest schedule, retroactive to Oct. 15.

In 1922 the city disposed of 183 parcels for non-payment of taxes. While not prepared to give exact figures this morning, City Treasurer Rourke estimated that warrants covering property of more than twice the value of that owned by delinquents last year is affected this year.

TO OBSERVE BOYS' WEEK

Mayor Commends Plans Arranged by the Lowell Rotary Club

Meeting of General Committee at Park Department Office Last Evening

The Rotary wheel slipped into high gear yesterday and plans for the first Boys' week ever observed in Lowell rapidly crystallized through the medium of meetings yesterday noon, afternoon and last night, and a public statement by Mayor John J. Donovan commending the plan and program. At the noon luncheon of the Rotary club yesterday enthusiasm for the program, to be held May 16, 17, 18, was at high pitch. In the afternoon schoolmasters of the city and suburbs met at city hall to discuss the school's part in the program. In the evening the general committee met in the park department office in city hall to review progress and outline the future plans.

As previously outlined, Boys' week will be observed for a three day period here, commencing on Friday. This day will be devoted to "The Boy in School," with special exercises of an appropriate nature in every school. Saturday will be for "The Boy at Play" and special sporting programs will be in order with a big meet on the South common as the principal attraction. On Saturday afternoon a big parade will be held, Major Colby T. Kittredge acting as marshall. Sunday, May 18, will be devoted to "The Boy at Church," and special exercises will be held in a number of churches.

The committee in charge of affairs is composed of Mayor Donovan as honorary chairman, Royal P. White, active chairman; George Warner, secretary; Arthur C. Spalding, Dr. Herbert E. Davis, Elias J. McQuade, Robert W. Thompson, E. J. Gilmore, Hon. James B. Casey, Charles Bartlett, Elmore L. MacPhie, Arthur P. Sullivan, Rev. Percy E. Thomas, Supt. Hugh J. Molloy, Major Colby T. Kittredge, Albert Bergeron, Donald R. MacIntyre, Charles L. Randall, Charles H. Clough, Chelmsford; Supt. Eugene C. Vining, Billerica; Supt. Charles H. Walker, Chelmsford, and Clarence M. Weed.

Mayor Donovan yesterday issued the following statement, endorsing Boys' Week locally:

"The Lowell Rotary club in cooperation with other civic organizations, is sponsoring a splendid civic movement, 'Boys' Week,' to be observed May 16, 17 and 18. The object of 'Boys' Week' is to inculcate a deep seated reverence and loyalty for our institutions of government and impress upon our boys civic responsibility and clean American manhood. To let our boys know that we are interested in them beyond the routine of school life and watchful of their interests in every field of activity. It is the intention to unite our boys from all schools in a loyalty parade the afternoon of May 17 to march through the streets as the most priceless asset of our nation.

"As mayor, I most heartily endorse such a program. The school committee has voted unanimously to co-operate and instructed the superintendent and all school masters to arrange suitable school exercises, also to provide school units in the loyalty parade. In this connection, I would suggest that Parent-Teacher associations provide attractive floats for their respective schools.

"I am authorized to offer a prize of $10 in gold for the best essay on 'Boys' Week' or 'The Responsibility of a Boy,' the essay to be submitted by any boy in a public or private school, and limited to about 500 words. The contest is to close May 15, at 5 p. m. Send your essay to Royal P. White, chairman of the committee on Boys' Week, Lowell Rotary club.

"I urge all citizens to become aroused to the civic importance of the observance of 'Boys' Week.' It is going to do for our boys immeasurable good, and incidently prove quite helpful to ourselves. Contribute your share to the success of 'Boys' Week.'"

Cambridge Man Pays $105 in Fines in the District Court

More Alleged Milk Law Violators Arraigned Today —Other Offenders

Omer G. Poirier of North Cambridge was fined $5 for drunkenness, and $100 for operating an automobile while he was under the influence of liquor, when he was found guilty of those two counts in district court this morning.

Poirier was arrested in Billerica yesterday by Chief Henry Livingston and Officer William O'Brien, after they had received complaints from motorists on the Boston road that the machine containing Poirier and a companion, Arthur E. Blackburn of Arlington, was zigzagging along the highway and endangering the lives of others.

When the officers arrived on the scene, Poirier was attempting to adjust wires. He admitted that he was the operator of the car, but later stated that Blackburn had hired a man in Lowell, to act as chauffeur. When neither of the men appeared to be able to give a satisfactory story, they were taken to the Lowell police station and booked, Poirier on the charges mentioned above, and Blackburn, for drunkenness. The latter was fined $5 this morning.

Other Offenders

Three alleged milk law violators, making a total of six in two days, were present today in the persons of Thomas McMaster, who was continued until May 28, Charles McWright, who was continued until May 12, and Simon Protopappas, who was continued until May 14.

John Jarette, charged with assault and battery on Mahmud Eoubes, pleaded not guilty and was continued until May 15.

Thomas J. Kelleher and John Lunney, both charged with drunkenness, were sentenced to two months and one month, respectively, in the house of correction.

CAMPAIGN FOR RATIFICATION OF THE STATE LIQUOR LAW

Launching of Drive Here for Creation of Local Sentiment—Hon. Charles W. Tobey of Manchester, N. H., Addressed Meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

The launching of a drive for the purpose of creating local sentiment for the ratification of the state law relative to intoxicating liquors and certain non-intoxicating beverages was the purpose of a meeting of Lowell business men at the Y.M.C.A. this noon, at which Hon. Charles W. Tobey of Manchester, N. H., president of the chamber of commerce of that city and a former speaker of the New Hampshire house of representatives, was the chief speaker.

Samuel H. Thompson of Lowell, president of the Citizens' Alliance of Massachusetts and chairman of the state-wide campaign committee, was the presiding officer. Luncheon was served at 12.30 and the meeting was finished shortly after 1.15 o'clock.

The act already passed by the Massachusetts legislature and signed by the governor, will go on the state ballot for ratification in the form of a referendum and all over the state the Citizens' alliance is attempting to build up public sentiment in favor of its passage. It is claimed for the act that it harmonizes Massachusetts prohibition laws with the federal laws as now in operation.

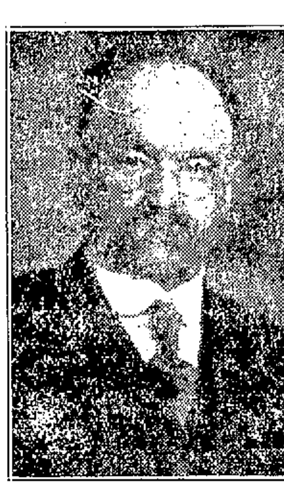

Hon. Charles W. Tobey has had considerable experience in legislative matters and has been one of the leading exponents of prohibition in New Hampshire. He, therefore, was able to speak intimately of the question now under discussion in this state.

The local committee who arranged this noon's meeting included Mr. Thompson, Donald M. Cameron, Thomas H. Elliott, Frederic S. Harvey, Harold F. Howe and Hon. John J. Pickman.

ANDERSON STILL MISSING

Mysterious Disappearance of John A. Anderson Baffles Relatives and the Police

Numbered among the most mysterious disappearances which the local police department has been called upon to solve during the past year is that of John A. Anderson of 53 South Loring street, who disappeared April 26 and of whom no trace has been found since that time.

JOHN A. ANDERSON

The local police investigated his disappearance and notified police in cities throughout the state to be on the look-out for him, but without avail, for there has not been a single report received here from anyone that the missing man was seen or heard of in any other locality. The search goes on, but Chief Atkinson does not hesitate to say that it is, in his opinion, hopeless.

Mr. Anderson had not been in the best of health for about one year previous to his disappearance and it was feared that his continued ill-health had made him despondent. The suicide theory was advanced, but, as the days rolled by and no body was discovered in the canals or rivers, the case was dropped, so far as an active investigation was concerned. His relatives and friends, however, still cling to the hope that he is alive.

$50,000 ACCIDENT CASE GOES TO JURY

The $50,000 accident case brought by Valmort Cornellier of Dracut against the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., was given to a jury in superior court here, this noon.

The plaintiff claims the street railway company is responsible for an accident on March 20, 1923, in Dracut, near Collinsville, in which he was run over by an electric car and lost one leg in consequence. He was riding horseback on the day in question, but was thrown when his horse fell and was run over before he could pull himself away from the car tracks. The defendant company claims that the horse fell so near the front end of the car that it was impossible for the car operator to stop it before reaching the boy.

This afternoon, a cross action of contract concerning the erection of a dwelling house went to trial. A jury was drawn on Monday, awaiting the completion of the Cornellier case. The parties involved are Ambrose M. Creamer and Francis E. and Rose A. Maguire. Qua, Howard & Rogers for the Maguires and William D. Regan for Mr. Creamer.

MERCURY WILL CROSS FACE OF THE SUN TODAY

At 5.42 o'clock, daylight saving time, this afternoon, with the aid of a small telescope with smoked eyepiece, any Lowell person will be able to watch the transit of Mercury across the face of the sun. The transit will be visible in the whole United States, but not to the naked eye.

Mercury is one of the most peculiar planets in that it is seldom visible and its transits occur only once every 6 2-3 years. Generally speaking it is visible only a few weeks every year and then either immediately before sunrise or just after sunset. It is a small planet, reddish in appearance and the majority of people have never seen it.

At 5.42 o'clock this afternoon Mercury will begin to creep over the sun's disc at a point near the top and within three minutes the whole planet will be outlined against the sun like a minute drop of ink. The transit will continue for about eight hours, but as the sun will set here long before that, its completion will be visible only on the Pacific coast.

This phenomenon is in no manner an eclipse, for the sun is neither partially nor wholly hidden from view at any time. Transit is the name given to the passing of a planet between the earth and the sun.

Program in Observance of Founders' Day — Field Athletics Exhibition

The 53rd annual Founders day and field athletics exhibition of the Rogers Hall school, was today auspiciously observed with a varied program of sports and athletic events.

The program opened at 10 o'clock this morning with a 50-yard dash in which the members of the two athletic clubs, Kava and Cae, participated. There is much competition between these clubs and interested relatives and friends, of whom there were many, watched the outcome of the various events to the minutest detail.

The members of the Kava club, wearing white middies and bloomers, and orange and blue neckerchiefs, and the

LOWELL KNIGHTS IN BIG LAWRENCE PARADE

About 100 members of Bishop Delany Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, of this city, left by auto for Lawrence at 1 o'clock this afternoon to participate in the big parade in the down river city in honor of Rev. James T. O'Reilly, O. S. A., who is celebrating the 50th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

The Lowell delegation was in charge of John C. McQuaid, F. P., while the committee on arrangements consisted of Chief Edward F. Saunders, Hon. James B. Casey and Thomas J. O'Donnell, P. F. N.

In the monster parade, featuring practically every organization in Lawrence, the Lowell delegation marched with the Father O'Donnell assembly of Lawrence. This and the local assembly were formerly one and the same, but increased membership divided the two in recent years. Both assemblies made an impressive spectacle in the parade today. Rev. Fr. O'Reilly, the jubilarian, is one of the oldest fourth degree members in the state.

STOLEN BABY IS RECOVERED

Ten-Weeks'-Old Child, Kidnapped Monday, Found in Philadelphia Home

Woman Admits Stealing Infant to Fool Husband—Police Arrest Man and Wife

PHILADELPHIA, May 7—Ten weeks old Corinne Modell, stolen on Monday as she lay asleep in her coach in front of her home, was found by the police today in the house of a woman who admitted she took the infant to fool her husband. The child was in good condition.

The woman, Mrs. Mary Demarco and her husband, German Demarco, were placed under arrest. The house where the child was found is at 5136 Warren street, West Philadelphia, about a mile from the Modell home.

Mrs. Demarco told the police that she brought the baby home on Monday and that she had told her husband it was born that day while he was at work. Her husband, she said, believed her story. The police, however, were skeptical, and immediately placed handcuffs on the husband and took him to a police station along with his wife.

Rewards aggregating $6000 had been offered for the recovery of the baby, $1000 by Mayor Kendrick; $3000 by the Philadelphia Inquirer and $2000 by the 60th Street Business Men's association.

Sen. Smoot Blocks Inquiry—Senator D. I. Walsh to Continue Fight

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The proposed inquiry into the depression in the textile industry received a setback today in the senate when Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, objected to consideration of the resolution authorizing it. Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, author of the resolution, declared he would object to further recesses of the senate unless opportunity was given to consider his proposal.

Walsh appeared later in the day before Judge Walting and waived the reading of the complaint. He was given ten days in which to file special pleas and was held in $1000 bail.

Moretti is now in jail awaiting trial on larceny charges.

Vanderoef was said to have been at lunch at the time the bandits carried out their holdup on April 11. The holdup men escaped with $5000 after having shot and killed Whitman who happened to be in the bank. He had entered the door as they were running to get away with their loot.

SAYS DAUGHERTY "TURNED THE NEW HAVEN LOOSE ON THE B. & M."

Conrad W. Crooker Charges That Federal Judge Mayer Had Been Grossly Imposed Upon by Former Attorney General—Attacks Modification

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Conrad W. Crooker, Boston attorney for minority stockholders of the Boston & Maine, made his third appearance today before the senate Daugherty committee to criticize former Atty. Gen. Daugherty's modification of the consent decree in the New Haven merger case. He asserted that Federal Judge Mayer had been "grossly imposed upon by Mr. Daugherty" in allowing the New Haven decree to be at first modified and later vacated.

Daugherty "turned the New Haven loose on the Boston & Maine" by his action, Crooker said, since the consent decree forbade the first named railroad from participating in the control of the Boston & Maine.

W. J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation, came into the hearing room during Crooker's testimony and Senator Wheeler, the committee prosecutor, said he intended to examine the detective chief later in the day.

Crooker asserted that after modification of the New Haven decree, Daugherty also dismissed criminal indictments against William Rockefeller and other directors of the road, which were pending several years after the legal attack on the merger.

Paul Howland, attorney for Mr. Daugherty, got the witness to agree that the indictments had been kept pending for seven years before Daugherty took office without action except for one trial on some of them.

President Opposes Immigration Bill Provision Making Japanese Exclusion Effective July 1—Too Soon to Permit Diplomatic Arrangements With Japan

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The administration fight against the immigration bill provision making Japanese exclusion effective July 1 will be carried to the floor of the senate and house when the bill comes up for final action.

President Coolidge informed congressional leaders today that he regarded the date set as entirely too soon to permit the diplomatic arrangement he wants to make with Japan, and steps were taken immediately afterward to line up those who sympathize with his view to oppose acceptance of the conference report.

The president favors March 1, 1926, as the effective date of the exclusion provision and he is hopeful that at least a delay of a few months beyond

JOSEPH P. WALSH, COUNSEL FOR W. J. CORCORAN, INDICTED

CAMBRIDGE, May 7.—Joseph P. Walsh, counsel for former District Attorney William J. Corcoran in the recent trial which brought the latter a sentence of seven years for blackmail, is now under indictment with two others for alleged complicity in the larceny of $11,000 from Mrs. Justine Gordon of this city by Thomas O. Moretti, a well known seer and crystal gazer.

The indictment had been returned some weeks ago but because of Walsh's connection with the Corcoran case, District Attorney Arthur K. Reading kept it secret until today when John Boyle, formerly a clerk for Nathan A. Tufts, deposed district attorney of Middlesex county, was arraigned and released on bail of $1000.

The other defendant named in the indictment is Charles Ginsburg. Walsh and Ginsburg were to be arraigned later today.

Corcoran also had been indicted on similar charges, District Attorney Reading said, but in view of the sentence recently imposed, he announced he would not pros the case against the latter.

SEN. WALSH DEFENDS VOTE ON SURTAX RATES

WASHINGTON, May 7.--Senator David I. Walsh last night gave out a defence of his votes on the Simmons surtax rates, which were passed by the joining of republican insurgents with the democrats. The tax bill, as now before the senate, is practically a democratic bill. It has lost its republican label.

The democratic senator defends his vote on the ground that it gives a more equitable percentage of relief to both rich and poor. He asserts that the Mellon plan reduces the taxes of the rich far more than it does those of the man with a smaller income. As proof of his assertion the senator makes the following illustration:

"The Mellon plan reduces the tax on an income of $1,000,000, 15 per cent.; of $200,000, 41 per cent.; $60,000, 25 per cent.; $40,000, 22 per cent.; $20,000, 27 per cent.

"The plan I voted for reduces the tax on income of $1,000,000, 21 per cent.; $200,000, 24 per cent.; $60,000, 27 per cent.; $40,000, 30 per cent.; $20,000, 39 per cent.

"An analysis of the Mellon plan shows an unwarranted and deliberate preference to those most able to pay."

The senator's statement says: "It is the group of manufacturers, business and professional men and women with incomes varying from $10,000 to $75,000 who would feel most, in the future, the shift in the tax burden resulting from the Mellon plan. It is this group, and those even with smaller incomes, that I have by my vote sought to prevent having shifted to them the extra burdens caused by the excessive reductions to the extremely wealthy classes."

He declares that under the Mellon plan 505 Massachusetts people would be benefited, while under the plan he voted for 387,937 would be affected. In his analysis of the two plans the senator does not mention what the Simmons plan or the Mellon plan does to the incomes in the smaller brackets.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mr. Henry Cox of 472 Chelmsford street was on Sunday afternoon pleasantly surprised by a birthday party given him on the occasion of his 78th birthday. About 50 relatives and friends gathered to honor the elderly gentleman and he was presented a purse of gold and a Sonora victrola, the presentation being made by Mr. Henry McDonald of Allston. A bountiful dinner was served and a large birthday cake, on which were set 78 candles, adorned the centre of the table. In the evening a reception was held at which a buffet luncheon was served by Miss Mary Dahlin, assisted by Mrs. John Gallagher, and the Misses Hazel and Sadie Cornell, the latter grandchildren of Mr. Cox. Present at the celebration were guests from Westboro, Grafton, Back Bay, Allston and Roxbury.

Getting Thinner Every Day

Something Must Be Done, and Done Right Quick, Too

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of flesh-producing vitamins, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste, and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are as easy to take as candy, and if any thin person doesn't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will give you your money back—and only 60c a box. Ask Green's Drug Store, A. W. Dows & Co., Fred Howard, or any live pharmacist anywhere.

"Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablets."--Adv.

BUYS LAWRENCE PAPER

Publisher of Lowell Sunday Telegram Purchases Lawrence Sun-American

Benjamin S. Pouzzner, publisher of the Sunday Telegram, has acquired the plant, rights and good will of the Sun-American Publishing Co. of Lawrence, and took possession of the same early this week. The property consists of a modern and well-equipped printing plant, a daily afternoon newspaper, The Lawrence Times, and a Sunday newspaper, The Lawrence Sunday Sun. Under the new regime, the daily edition will be discontinued and all attention will be concentrated upon the Sunday issue, which is already well to the fore in the Sunday field in Essex county. The present plant, which is centrally located on Essex street, will be retained.

Next Sunday's issue of the Lawrence Sunday Sun will be published under Mr. Pouzzner's auspices, though it will not be a fair index of what is expected after all of the details of organization incident to the radical change of converting a daily publication into a weekly, have been adjusted. The policy of the Lawrence Sunday Sun henceforth will be identical with that of the Lowell Sunday Telegram, clean and fair, wholesome in tone and entirely free from muckraking. The acquisition of this Lawrence property represents the realization of a long-cherished ambition of Mr. Pouzzner, initial negotiations for the same having been made even before he became identified with The Telegram.

The operation of these two neighboring newspapers under one management is destined to be mutually advantageous to both inasmuch as it enables the publisher to secure features for each that it might not be financially feasible to obtain for a single publication. It means, for one thing, [illegible] readers. This will result in the transfer of a portion of the Lawrence equipment to Lowell. This is made possible without in any way crippling the Lawrence enterprise, by the fact that the plant, which has been producing a daily newspaper, is equipped beyond the demands of a weekly publication.

It is the hope and confident expectation of Publisher Pouzzner to give Lowell a better Telegram and Lawrence a better Sun under the new [illegible] than they have ever had before [illegible] a closer and more friendly [illegible] between the people of the two cities.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mannington, W. Virginia.—"I took the Vegetable Compound when having the turn of life. I had been sick for seven years. I would get a little better, then I broke down again. It would be hard for me to describe how I was, for I was a perfect wreck. I suffered with a pain in my left side, then I would have numb spells, and I would think I couldn't live. I would have hot flashes, then would come weak spells. I was so weak I would think I couldn't ever get a meal ready. My work was a burden to me. I was not able to do my housework half of the time. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has given me strength and health. The hot flashes left me and I got better of the numb spells. That summer I could do my housework and worked in the garden a good bit. I tell all sick women what your wonderful medicine did for me, and will always recommend it. I am known to all my neighbors, and you can publish this statement because it is true."—Mrs. JOHN W. WALSH, R. No. 1, Box 36, Mannington, West Virginia.

MILLER STANDS FIRM

Insists Pres. Coolidge Said He Was "Trying to Deliver" Plant to Ford

WASHINGTON, May 7.—James Martin Miller, who in a telegram quoted President Coolidge as saying he was "trying to deliver" Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford, told the senate agriculture committee today that he had "correctly and truthfully" stated the facts in the message which he sent to Ford's secretary within 25 minutes after an interview with the president.

The president, Miller said, did not deny the interview had taken place. Mr. Coolidge, he insisted, brought up the subject of Muscle Shoals.

"The branding of the telegram as a lie is a gross political dissemination," he said.

FORD WILL NOT APPEAR BEFORE COMMITTEE

DETROIT, May 7.—Henry Ford will neither appear personally before the senate agricultural committee, nor have a representative appear, he stated in a letter to Senator Norris, chairman of the committee. The letter, which was in reply to a request from the senator that Ford appear personally and explain his offer, was mailed late yesterday from the motor manufacturers' offices in Dearborn.

Mr. Ford informed the senator that his offer had been before the committee virtually two years, that it was in writing and that its terms were clear, definite and easily understood. He said it had been fully inquired into, and explained and there was nothing further to be added.

COOLIDGE LEADS JOHNSON IN CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—President Coolidge continued to maintain a progressive lead over Senator Hiram Johnson in returns from 4482 precincts out of 6974 in California's presidential primary election yesterday. The vote was: Coolidge 210,018; Johnson 198,316, a lead of 11,702 for the president.

With 4400 precincts reported, a delegation favoring nomination of William G. McAdoo as the democratic candidate, was leading a list of uninstructed delegates 74,519 to 13,281.

San Francisco county, a Johnson stronghold, completed its count shortly after midnight, while Los Angeles county, where the president was leading, had reported only 553 precincts complete out of a total of 1516.

PLAN TO CONTINUE EXTENSION COURSES

The Lowell Morgan club, composed of local people interested in university extension work, will hold a special meeting at the Lowell Electric Light office next Friday night for the express purpose of formulating plans for the continuance of extension courses in salesmanship, oral English, psychology, advertising and merchandising. Members of the Morgan club of Lawrence have been invited to attend this meeting.

It is the intention of the Morgan members to secure the best courses possible in the above subjects for Lowell. University extension concluded for the season a few weeks ago, and untold benefits were derived by those who attended the various classes. To maintain interest in the subjects already begun, the Morgans will make an effort to have a real college course conducted next year, beginning early in the fall. Plans are also under way for an outing to be held in the near future.

GARBAGE COLLECTOR GIVES FIRE ALARM

A city garbage collector, making his rounds in the Christian hill district this morning, probably saved a Myrtle street house from serious damage or destruction when, shortly after 10.30 o'clock, he entered the cellar to collect garbage and found an ash barrel blazing furiously and the cellar full of smoke.

Calling the occupants of the house, he told them of the fire and a telephone alarm was sent in to the Central fire station. Hose 5 from the Fourth street engine house responded to the alarm and quickly extinguished the blaze before any considerable damage had been done.

NO NEWS OF FATE OF MAJ. F. L. MARTIN

CHIGNIK, Alaska, May 7. (By the Associated Press.)—News concerning the fate of Major Frederick L. Martin, American world flight commander, who has been missing for a week, was expected here today from searching parties which left Chignik last Saturday.

The searching parties invaded the territory northwest of Chignik. These searchers before their departure said that if Major Martin was found in that region, they hoped to return to Chignik today. Otherwise, they planned to move on and search the Bering sea side of the Aleutian islands between Meshik and ten miles south of the Seal islands, in which event it would take a week or more for them to return.

Langley of Kentucky and four other defendants charged with conspiracy through removal of 1400 cases of whiskey from the Belle of Anderson distillery near Lawrenceburg, Ky., by alleged illegal permit begins today, selection of a jury having been completed. More than a score of witnesses have been called by the defense and prosecution.

Rotary club, Lions' club and Lowell High school alumni association, together with school athletic directors, will meet in chamber of commerce rooms at 4.30 p.m., in joint session. The purpose of this special call issued today is to discuss at length some program that would better aid and strengthen the present slow-moving campaign for funds. The campaign has been lagging of late, although a fairly healthy start was made in the early stages.

Today, the sum of money that will be needed to make up the $3000 estimated to be necessary, looks rather ominous, unless public interest is aroused to the needs of high school athletics and the necessity of having an adequate training field for practice and competitive exhibitions.

It is possible that a subscription campaign will be started by clubmen of the city representing the organizations which are to send committees to the meeting tomorrow.

Lions' club—Mark McCann, H. B. Legrat, Chester Runels.

Rotary club—Charles G. Forrest, Theodore P. Hobson and E. J. McQuade.

Chamber of commerce—Harry G. Pollard, Charles I. Marren, Chester Runels.

Alumni association—Edward W. Trull, Bennett Silverblatt, Headmaster Henry H. Harris.

an exhaustive examination by the senate oil committee.

McLean testified before the senate investigators that he had agreed at the request of Fall to say he had loaned the former cabinet officer $100,000 cash instead of giving him unused check for that amount. At the same time, the publisher denied any knowledge with respect to the oil leases or the actual source of the loan which he subsequently learned Fall had obtained from Edward L. Doheny, lessee of naval reserve No. 1.

Zevely also appeared before the senate committee and testified that Sinclair loaned Fall $25,000 in Liberty bonds four months after the interior secretary left the cabinet and at the time that he was requested to make a trip to Europe for the lessee of Teapot Dome. Zevely produced before the committee a note for $25,000 which he said was an evidence of the debt.

the date fixed by the conferees finally will be agreed to by congress.

It was the 1926 date which Mr. Coolidge suggested to the conferees and he manifestly was disappointed at the agreement of the conference committee on July 1, of this year, which was the date carried in the bill as it passed the house. Under the senate bill the provision would have become effective immediately.

A considerable group of republican house leaders may follow the president's lead in opposing the conference report but in the senate the situation is more doubtful. Senator Lodge, chairman of the foreign relations committee and the party floor leader was one of those who most vigorously championed immediate application of the barrier against Japanese while the measure was under debate in the senate and he was joined by an almost unanimous republican following.

As a result of the discussion of house leaders with the president this morning at the White House, it was indicated that a determined fight was being organized in the house against the recommendation of the conferees. It was understood a move would be made to postpone the effective date for nine months at least.

The conference report probably will come before the house tomorrow.

The various differences between the drafts approved by the two chambers were adjusted last night, after more than a week of conference deliberation in which the administration's wish to postpone operation of the exclusion provision to give time for a diplomatic exchange with Tokio is understood to have received considerable attention.

The senate representatives receded by the end from their amendment making exclusion effective immediately upon enactment of the measure and accepted the house clause fixing July 1, this year, as the operative date. It was made clear at the White House, however, that this recession was not regarded by President Coolidge as giving adequate time for a diplomatic correspondence with the Japanese government in order that as little offense as possible might be given to the latter. At the same time, there was no indication whether the president viewed the provision as warranting a veto of the bill.

Under congressional procedure, the conference report must be acted upon by the house before it is taken up by the senate. With these and other technicalities in the way, it cannot reach the White House before the latter part of this week or next week, even should both chambers accept the decisions of their conferees with little discussion.

COMMODORE BALLROOM

Newly Renovated Pavilion in Thorndike Street Will Open Friday Evening

All roads will lead to the Commodore ballroom on Thorndike street, next Friday evening. Patrons of the former Kasino of historic memories in Middlesex county's social world, won't know the famous rallying place for amusement lovers of every brand of happy seeking, when they respond on Friday night to the call of the merry dance under the professional leadership of popular Lowell entertainment purveyors headed by the genial expert, Francis J. Roane.

The Kasino is no more, but the brand new renovated ballroom on

Thorndike street—the Commodore—takes its place in the column of Lowell's most popular amusement resorts of high class offerings, and under the most capable management that could be selected.

The discriminating dancing public of Lowell will be tendered the happiest kind of a surprise when patrons of the ballroom enter the main doors of the old Kasino Friday evening, to attend the inaugural celebration of the renovated dance pavilion and inspect the beautiful surroundings and interior decorations that have actually transformed the Thorndike street house of amusement.

The renovations were made under the expert supervision of Owner Carl J. Braun, who for years has been connected with the New England amusement business and has a host of friends reaching far and wide who have supported him generously in all his endeavors to purvey clean and attractive entertainment at popular prices. Mr. Braun has obtained the services of Carl [illegible] clever scenic artist of the noted Greenberg studios, and the former Kasino ballroom has been transformed into a ballroom of beauty, gleaming with colors blended in most artistic designs and forming a picture entrancing and effective, both in daylight and under the rays of electrical illuminations.

The new carpentry work and painting will be completed by tomorrow night and the grand opening on Friday evening will bring Miner & Doyle's famous orchestra of ten pieces, providing music for both the inaugural concert and the banner dancing. The announcement of the refurbishing and reopening of the Kasino under the name of "The Commodore" is already attracting wide attention and Friday night is likely to see a record breaking attendance at the Thorndike street amusement palace.

An additional announcement made by Owner Braun, and one that will meet with popular favor in Lowell's amusement circles in all extending areas of high-class entertainment, reveals appointment as general manager of "The Commodore" of Mr. Francis J. Roane. Mr. Roane needs no introduction to Sun readers or to the amusement public of Lowell. The fact that he has been selected to manage the newly remodeled amusement place on Thorndike street augurs a successful future for "The Commodore," beyond a doubt.

Manager Roane will be pleased to meet his old Associate hall patrons at "The Commodore" ballroom, he said today, and assures one and all that they will receive the same courteous treatment and be provided with the same delightful entertainment served in bounteous measure during the past two years in Associate hall of memories pleasant.

Carl Braun for several years conducted Canobie lake's popular dance hall and, with Mr. Roane, has endeavored always to promote dancing in its cleanest and best form in their ballrooms. They are to continue this high class policy at the new "Commodore" dancing pavilion. As an added attraction for opening night, Emma Bray and May Sheeran will feature "Wooden Soldiers" and "Whirlwind" dances.

There will be dancing on Monday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings of next week. Manager Roane also announced today that Miner & Doyle's orchestra will play at "The Commodore" all summer.

YOUNG KAHN PLAYS WITH JAZZ ORCHESTRA

NEW YORK, May 7. Until early today under the delicately tinted lights of the Palais Royal, a Broadway cabaret, Roger Wolfe Kahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Kahn and organizer of the Roger Wolfe Jazz orchestra, continued to show his prowess as a cabaret musician in which role he made his debut last night.

Young Kahn played all evening with his orchestra, making his first personal appearance at the cabaret where the orchestra began an engagement Monday. He played the banjo most of the evening, but conducted for a short while.

His efforts were heard by his parents and by a number of socially prominent men and women, including Mrs. Morgan Belmont and Reginald Vanderbilt.

FITCHBURG CARPENTERS STRIKE

FITCHBURG, May 7. Union carpenters employed by contractors who have refused requests for wage increases, went on strike today. The carpenters demanded an increase from 92 cents to $1 an hour. voted not to accede to the demands. RAILROADS IN PROTEST

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The railroads today made their final stand before the Interstate Commerce commission against installation of automatic train control systems.

The hearing probably will continue for several days, with the railroads arguing that automatic train control devices are yet in the experimental stage, and that their installation now would be excessively expensive.

The commission already has ordered the devices installed on many of the nation's principal lines, acting upon authority provided in the transportation act, which became effective in 1920. It acted first in 1922, ordering 45 principal roads to install the devices on parts of their lines, by Jan. 1, 1925. The carriers protested and were given a hearing but the order remained unchanged.

The commission last January, extended its order to another group of short line railroads, and it was on their protest that the present hearing was arranged.

gineer, and three councilors to investigate the project.

"I am glad to see the matter brought to a head," said Mr. Kearney this morning. "I am strongly in favor of the replacement of the bridge. The roadway is in terrible shape as we all know and I personally do not think the bridge is wide enough. I believe Bridge street should be widened to a uniform width of 65 feet and a bridge of that width constructed. Uniform width from the square to First street should be insisted upon."

The present bridge has a width of 55 feet, including sidewalks. Bridge street from the square is at present 65 feet wide up to the entrance to the office of the Massachusetts mills, then being fifty feet up to the bridge.

Mr. Kearney said that the present superstructure of the bridge is undoubtedly in good shape and was well built but he feels it is of insufficient width. Council President Gallagher will name his committee next Tuesday night and it is shortly to commence a series of conferences which it is hoped will evolve an acceptable solution to the present problem.

"In my opinion," said Mr. O'Sullivan, "the selection of a winning candidate will be the chief work before the convention, and hence, unpledged delegates should enter the convention with only one object in view, and that the nomination of the best candidate and the one most likely to lead the party to victory in November. Who that candidate may be, I cannot tell now; and no man can tell in advance of the convention.

"I will go to New York unpledged, and free to support the highest, ablest, and most popular standard bearer for the democratic hosts, in one of the most important elections in our history.

"We see widespread business depression as a result of republican policies, and I am convinced that the country wants a change. The people are disgusted with the revelations of corruption in high places at Washington and nothing but a clean sweep that will bring the democratic party into power will convince the masses that our government is not still controlled by corrupt officials acting in collusion with selfish interests that wax fat on government favors."

FUR TRAPPERS FROM MANY STATES CALLED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 7—More fur trappers from distant states were expected to testify today at the trial of Irving R. Hough and the Irving R. Hough Co. of Meriden, Conn., charged with using the mails to defraud, in the federal court here before Judge Harland B. Howe of Vermont and a jury. Thirty of the numerous witnesses summoned testified yesterday that they had sent furs to the Hough Co., for which in some cases, they declared, they had received little more than enough to pay the transportation charges.

Among yesterday's witnesses were several from Pennsylvania, New Hampshire, Maine and Halifax, N. S.

Charles A. Doherty, also indicted with Hough and the Hough Co., was granted a separate trial by Judge Howe late yesterday, after it had been shown that he was only an employe of the company.

RUSSIA TAKES SERIOUS VIEW OF SITUATION

MOSCOW, May 7. (By the Associated Press.) In the absence of any satisfactory explanation from the German government concerning the recent police raid on the soviet trade headquarters in Berlin, the Russian government is taking an increasingly serious view of the affair.

M. Krestinsky, the soviet ambassador in Berlin, is expected to return to Moscow forthwith to confer with the government regarding further action. All the soviet newspapers describe the incident in scarehead type and publish long condemnatory editorials in which they warn Germany that if adequate apology is not forthcoming, complications may ensue from which Germany will be the first to suffer.

Count Von Brockdorf-Rantzau, the German ambassador, has made several visits to Foreign Minister Tchitcherin since Sunday to explain the German viewpoint, but the substance of their conversations has not transpired. It is still believed, however, in diplomatic quarters that an amicable solution will be reached.

AUDITING COMMISSION APPROVES PAYROLLS

All of the temporary clerks in the office of the board of elections were dismissed yesterday, the work of listing having been completed. Originally over a score of added clerks were used in this work, but two weeks ago the staff was cut to about six.

Miss Grace M. Keegan has been engaged as a temporary clerk in the office of the board of assessors and commenced her new duties this morning.

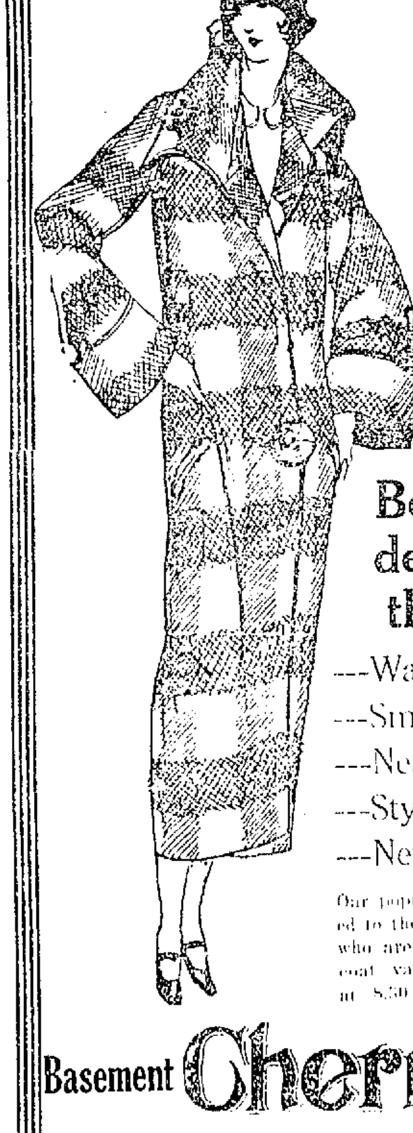

The park board will meet Friday afternoon at which time representatives of Twilight leagues in the city will be asked to appear and state their reasons for expecting preference in the assignment of baseball diamonds, particularly the diamond on the South common which two leagues are anxious to use.

"If ever a medicine saved anybody's life Tanlac surely saved mine" is the striking statement of Mrs. Anna Adams, 187 New Bridge St., Merrick, Mass.

LOWELL CHURCHES WELL REPRESENTED

The annual conference of the Eastern Primitive Methodist churches, opening this morning at Lonsdale, R. I., and to continue through Sunday, found two Lowell churches—Matthews Memorial and the Lawrence street religious organization—well represented by their respective pastors, Rev. John T. Ullom and Rev. Alice Haire, and delegates, together with numerous members of both churches eager to participate in the conference proceedings as representatives of two flourishing Lowell religious institutions in Primitive Methodist affiliation.

The conference was also attended by delegates from the three churches in Methuen and South Lawrence. Rev. John Holden of St. George's church, Methuen, is president of the conference and Pastor Ullom of this city, secretary.

Among those from Lowell who are in Lonsdale to attend all conference sessions, are Sam Asquith, Mrs. Nathaniel W. Matthews, Sr., Graham Pascall, John Brown, Mrs. John Brown and Mrs. John T. Ullom, of the Matthews Memorial church and Samuel Burtt, John Haire, Miss Annie Hall and Mrs. Robert [illegible] of the Lawrence street church.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND

Capacity audiences at practically every performance indicate that "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," is everything claimed of it by advance notices. The Strand management surely scored a ten-strike in bringing this special photoplay to Lowell, judging from the enthusiastic reception being accorded it by local patrons. Incidentally it [illegible] that Lowell people generally appreciate a good thing when they get an opportunity to witness it. Attention to some apparently insignificant detail is often the deciding factor in making a motion picture setting portray reality. The producers of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" were not satisfied with the paving of the street until tons of cobble stones had been hauled 28 miles by motor truck and placed by hand. Likewise great care and preparation are represented in the scene in which "Quasimodo" pours molten lead on the heads of the mob storming the castle. Water could have been used to effect the illusion, but a far more perfect result was obtained after expensive experimentation and research, but just what was used is a secret of the producer.

Reserved seats may be had in advance for the remaining performances. It is advisable for those who wish to avoid the crush to attend one of the matinee performances. It's the biggest and best picturization that Lowell has ever seen. If you do not believe, then a[sk] your neighbor. This picture has the approval of all denominations.

RIALTO THEATRE

A pertinent plea against conviction on circumstantial evidence is the film production "Innocence" with Anna Q. Nilsson who comes to the Rialto Thursday. In this gripping story a young wife is accused by her husband of being untrue to him—simply because circumstances are against her and apparently prove her having committed the actions with which he charges her. The whole fabric and foundation of their life together and of their individual happiness is threatened and would be destroyed were it not that the wife through a brilliant manipulation of a situation in which she finds herself, proves how easily appearance may be against an innocent person. Founded upon Lewis Allen Brown's famous magazine story, "Circumstances After Divorce Cases," the theme of "Innocence" is the basis for one of the most penetratingly human treatments of circumstances well within the possibilities of the average human existence that has ever been transferred to the screen. Mr. Brown is a deep student of humanity and his story has in it the ring of truth and of understanding of human nature and reactions. Anna Q. Nilsson is featured in "Innocence" as the young wife. A Broadway favorite, star of a successful play, she has married a man not of the theatre, who cannot understand the ways of its people. The readjustments of the two, their varying points of view upon the same questions lead swiftly to an intriguing denouement. Miss Nilsson brings her customary charm and brilliancy of acting to her portrayal of this role. A prominent cast has been assembled in her support.

"Headin' Through" with Leo Maloney, which is the added feature, is the exacting story of the ranch and the sacrifice of a man for the sake of love, bearing the stigma of a crime he did not commit.

Other pictures on the bill include the fourth episode of "Fighting Blood," an Our Gang comedy, the second chapter of "Haunted Valley," with Ruth Roland and a new Fox news.

Four big acts of vaudeville will be offered Friday night in addition to the big above mentioned picture program.

MERRIMACK SQUARE

Final performances will be given this evening at the Merrimack Square theatre of "If Winter Comes," the screen version of the celebrated novel. An all star cast, including Percy Mar-

DRIVE TO WIND UP CONSIDERATION OF REVENUE BILL IN SENATE

Party Leaders Maneuver for Final Decision on Income Tax Rates in Measure—Senate Takes Up Corporation and Estate Taxes

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Party leaders maneuvered today for the final decision on the income tax rates in the revenue bill as the senate, meeting an hour earlier than usual, took up the corporation and estate taxes in a drive to wind up consideration of the measure.

The showdown on the income schedule will come when the bill as a whole comes to a vote, and those in charge of the measure sought today to get final action tomorrow or Friday.

Republicans, continuing their conferences, were determined to replace the Simmons income tax rates, put into the bill by a democratic-republican insurgent coalition, with a compromise schedule. Negotiations centered in the insurgents, and additional aid was expected from members who were absent at the time the Simmons schedule was adopted and from some democrats on a compromise carrying the house rates with a maximum of 37½ per cent.

Senator Jones, democrat, New Mexico, was prepared to open debate today, with an explanation of his substitute proposal for the corporation tax. The substitute has the endorsement of the democratic conference, but President Coolidge let it be known yesterday he did not favor the scheme.

The senate has already modified this tax to make it 15 instead of 12½ per cent and eliminated the special capital stock levy. In place of the flat tax, however, Senator Jones would allow corporations by unanimous consent of the stockholders, to subject themselves to the taxes on partnerships or accept a normal tax of nine per cent on net incomes with graduated taxes in addition on the amount of undistributed profits in excess of 10 per cent of the corporation income.

The graduated scale would start with a tax of one fourth of one per cent if the undistributed net income of the corporation was more than 10 per cent but not more than 11 per cent of the income. It would carry increased rates by gradual stages up to a maximum of 40 per cent which would apply if the undistributed income was more than 59 per cent of the earnings.

PRES. COOLIDGE SWEEPS INDIANA

Jackson, K. K. K. Candidate, Wins Republican Gubernatorial Nomination

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 7.—(By the Associated Press)—President Coolidge's walk-away victory in the republican primary giving him 33 more votes in the national convention almost faded from the sight of political observers today with interest centered in the contest for the republican nomination for governor, which accentuated the Ku Klux Klan issue. Belated returns from the balloting yesterday failed to change the early standings.

Ed. Jackson, secretary of state, running with Ku Klux Klan support, had far outstretched his five opponents for the gubernatorial nomination, and in so doing, apparently had gained a majority vote, making his selection binding on the state convention that meets later this month. Jackson's closest opponent, Mayor Lew Shank of Indianapolis, avowed opponent of the klan was many thousand votes behind.

Coolidge's victory over his opponent, Senator Hiram Johnson, seemed certain from the first returns and as his total mounted, preserving the six to one ratio with which he gained the edge at the start, interest turned to the governorship contest.

First Jackson led with a majority, then dropped slightly behind the combined vote of his opponents, and finally regained a majority-vote lead which grew with added returns.

In the democratic contests, interest also centered in the nominee for governor, and while Dr. Carleton B. McCulloch of Indianapolis, who headed the state ticket in the last election, led in the eight-man contest, it was soon apparent that he would fall of a majority vote, leaving the nomination to the state convention to be held later this month.

The only element of doubt over the republican contest for governor during the night was due to absence of results in Indianapolis where only a few precincts had reported a vote early today.

Supporters of Jackson expressed confidence that he would carry the city, thereby cinching the nomination. Out-state he had piled up a majority and his managers asserted this would grow, his final plurality being predicted at not less than 75,000 votes.

Not only did the Klan issue bob up in the governorship race, but also in some of the congressional contests, and likewise in the races for county offices. The fight, too, was manifest generally throughout the state in the efforts to elect delegates to the state convention that will nominate the party ticket, exclusive of governor, in the event that is determined by the primary. Congressional returns early today were too meagre to forecast final results.

Lowell delegates to the Knights of Pythias grand lodge convention in Boston, which opened yesterday in Ford hall, view with satisfaction the sure election as grand chancellor of Grand Vice Chancellor William G. Lord of Athol, who was unopposed for the nomination yesterday. There are only three contests in the nomination of grand officers—for grand outer guard, grand trustee and supreme representative for the unexpired term ending Dec. 31, 1925.

At the afternoon session of the convention yesterday and later in the evening, the grand lodge rank was conferred on 90 past chancellors. The chief speaker at the evening session was Supreme Vice Chancellor John Ballantyne of Roxbury.

MUSICAL COMEDY BY Y'S MEN'S CLUB

Members of the Y's Men's club achieved splendid success last night in their first venture in musical comedy when "On the 5.15" was presented in Y.M.C.A. hall before an audience that filled it to the doors. It is an original vaudeville melange containing many ideas of O. H. Held, a member of the club, who has recently left the city and there was genuine regret expressed that he could not be present to see how well his ideas were carried out. Dancing, comedy and vocal and instrumental music were judiciously mingled in the program. The scene was Lowell Junction and the train was the one which leaves Boston for Lowell at 5.15 p. m. on the western division.

SURPRISE SHOWER

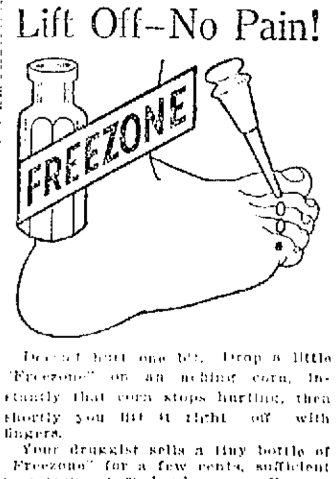

A very pretty party in the form of a surprise shower, was given recently in honor of Miss Elizabeth Snider, at her home, 21 Ware street. Miss Snider, who is to be the bride of Mr. Harris Rifkin, on May 21st, was completely surprised not only by the presence of the guests, which numbered over 50, but by the beautiful gifts she received. The party, which was planned by the Misses Anna Pomesek, Rose Greene, Betty Snider, Minnie Raymond and Florence Shapiro was a complete success from every angle. The hit of the evening was exhibition dances by Mr. Murphy Hamaner, who later in the evening took the part of the bride in the mock marriage. Miss Bessie Finerman was the groom, while Miss Florence Shapiro made a very good clergyman. The wedding march was played by Miss Anna Pomesek and Miss Ruby Freeman accompanied her on the violin. Following the ceremony a buffet lunch was served. The party broke up at a late hour, all wishing the happy couple the best of luck and happiness for the future.

TO REMEDY TEXTILE DEPRESSION

While republicans are busy looking for a candidate to run against Senator David I. Walsh, he is considering ways and means of relieving the depression in the textile industry, now pressing heavily upon the mill cities of Massachusetts and other states. He has offered a resolution in the senate providing for an investigation of the prolonged depression in the American cotton industry with a view to finding the cause and providing a remedy.

The resolve directs the commission to ascertain the quantity and value of exports and imports of cotton cloth under the present tariff act and the acts of 1909 and 1913. It is further requested to ascertain what types of cotton cloth constitute the bulk of the cotton imports and whether these cloths are similar to those produced in this country. Finally the Trade Commission is requested to find whether changes in the present tariff rates on cotton would be of material assistance in stimulating production and restoring prosperity to this industry.

The senator realizes that it is not the duty of congress or of the senate to stand idly by while the cotton industry is throttled. He is also aware that the foreign demand has been cut off largely as a result of adverse conditions in Europe together with the republican policy of having our foreign commerce conducted in the ships of other nations. Besides, there is evidently a loophole in the present tariff law under which large consignments of cotton cloth are dumped upon our shores. If the Trade Commission gets to work quickly on Senator Walsh's resolution, it may lay bare the cause of the depression, and it will then be up to congress to provide a remedy possibly in an increase of the tariff on cotton cloth, finished or unfinished.

This investigation if carried out, will differ from those proposed by Senator Walsh of Montana. The latter moved to clean out dishonest government officials, and he has already succeeded in the removal of two cabinet officials who were responsible for shady transactions by which certain individuals or companies secured unwarranted concessions from government departments. If Senator Walsh of Massachusetts has equal success in removing the cause of the depression in the cotton industry so far as that is remediable by congress, he will have rendered a great public service to the entire country, but especially to the textile cities of New England.

MOTHERS' DAY

Next Sunday, Mothers' day will be observed very generally throughout New England. Although we have Parents' day and Fathers' day, still the idea of Mothers' day is retained as making more of an appeal to all classes than any of the others. At the present time, the Gold Star mothers add a striking feature to the observance and very properly receive special honors. They correspond to the Spartan mothers of old who felt that no higher honor could come to their sons than to die fighting for their country and no deeper disgrace than to retreat before an enemy.

It is well to extol the virtues and the sacrifices of dutiful mothers; but it is well at the same time to condemn the class of women who not only evade motherhood themselves but instruct others in so doing.

Adown the ages the Madonna has been held as the model for all devoted mothers; and in this connection, we recall a delicious lullaby written by Lopez De Vega, a Portuguese poet, representing the Virgin Mother sitting under a palm tree with the infant Savior asleep on her knee. The lines are as exquisite and colorful as a painting by one of the great masters and the conception as well as the execution shows the genius of the poet. They are as follows:

"Holy angels and blest,
Through these palms as ye sweep,
Hold their branches at rest,
For my babe is asleep.

"And ye Bethlehem palm trees,
As stormy winds rush,
In tempest and fury,
Your angry noise hush:

"Move gently, move gently,
Restrain your wild sweep,
My babe is asleep."

It [illegible] Washington Irving said: "A father may turn his back on his child, brothers and sisters [illegible] become inveterate enemies, husbands may desert their wives and wives their husbands. But a mother's love endures through all, in good repute, in bad repute, in the face of the world's condemnation [illegible] still hopes [illegible] [illegible] remember [illegible] once filled her [illegible] merry laugh [illegible] childhood [illegible] [illegible] think him all unworthy."

Those who [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] children.

When people catch cold at this time of year, they [illegible] it on changing too suddenly to lighter-weight clothes, especially underwear.

A medical authority [illegible] while it is risky to make [illegible] changes in the [illegible] [illegible] of this.

During the winter [illegible] have accumulated on sidewalks and streets which are used as [illegible] As warm weather comes the [illegible] in the streets, dried and become [illegible] around in the air. This [illegible] the winter crop of germs with it.

The germs lodge [illegible] nose and throat. An epidemic of colds follows [illegible] would not be immune even if he wore a gauze filter over mouth and nostrils. It has been scientifically proved that germs can enter the body through the eyes.

The popular notion is that a period of wet weather starts an epidemic of colds. As a matter of fact, more colds are "caught" during dusty warm spells.

The germs are held in check by the resisting powers of the body. In damp or rainy weather, people get their feet wet. Or they get chilled by changing too quickly to lightweight garments and other ways. This chilling lowers the body's resistance.

The germs, which entered the body before the clothes were changed, or during colder or drier weather, now begin to multiply. The result is a severe cold.

Some health authorities claim that colds in cities could be reduced at least by half if streets and sidewalks were flushed with water from hydrants to carry germ-laden dust down the sewers. Instead, cities wait until the dust is dry, then sweep it partly into heaps for collectors, but also into the air where it is breathed into nose, throat and lungs.

With our new street sweepers, it is easy to keep the paved streets clean or even to flush them with fire-hose where the fire department can afford the time.

The same principles apply to the home. Germs are carried in on the shoes. They collect in rugs. Sweeping with a broom stirs them into the air. A vacuum cleaner for sweeping and a wet cloth for dusting are powerful health protectors.

RUBBER HIGHWAYS

The city of Boston is to take the lead in this country in laying a section of rubber highway as an experiment on the bed of the Northern avenue bridge, over which there is probably the heaviest traffic in the city. The rubber slabs are of the same composition as the tires for heavy trucks. Such roads have been in use in England, France and Germany for some years, and have proved very durable while having the additional feature of noiselessness, which makes them very desirable in the vicinity of hospitals. The limited supply of rubber will make such roads quite expensive; but if worn out tires can be used for this purpose, it will greatly increase the utility of rubber now so much in demand for tires and other purposes.

TAX REDUCTION

The United States senate has finally voted in favor of the democratic plan of tax reduction and added thereto [illegible] provision for opening certain tax returns to public inspection. It is predicted that this will give President Coolidge a good excuse for vetoing the measure. He has already stated that he would veto any tax measure that departed very far from the plan recommended by Sec. Mellon. If he vetoes this and the bonus bills the sum total of the republican record will be barren of practical results.

PRICE OF BREAD

It is the federal trade commission which reports after a thorough investigation, that a drop of 50 per cent in the price of wheat and 37 per cent in the price of flour, brought only 2 per cent reduction in the price of bread. The question may well be asked what became of that other [illegible] per cent? The only answer is that it was pocketed by the middlemen.

President Butler of Columbia still [illegible] has drawn fire from the extreme advocates of prohibition because he has condemned certain features of the Volstead law, although favoring prohibition under a less rigorous interpretation. Dr. Butler, however, has the courage of his convictions and does not care what criticism his statement brings.

The hobbled hair and bandit [illegible] a short career, but she will be compelled to [illegible] by a long term in prison, the usual wind-up of such a character.

Carpenters in Lawrence demand an increase in wages. They are now receiving a dollar an hour, and think they are entitled to more. This is a most unfavorable time for making any such demand, as it is more likely to discourage building enterprise than anything else.

It now appears that Gov. Cox is to be dragooned into accepting the republican nomination for United States senator against his will. Apparently, it makes little difference whom the republicans nominate, as Senator Walsh will probably succeed himself.

SEEN AND HEARD

The May sunshine is beginning to warm up to its job. About time, you say? Seconded!

We always are glad to hear that our friend George Bean, pilot of the city hall up-and-down express is doing well.

Here's a new one. Errand boys in Christiania, Norway, have organized into a union and are out on strike to enforce their demands. It should not be hard to fill their places.

There may be food for thought in the news that an English concern underbid the Amoskeag Co. by 37 cents per yard on a contract to furnish khaki to the United States navy.

A Thought

Another Social Error

At a party the husband of one of the guests arrived very late. "I have only come to take my wife home," he explained. "O, my dear Mr. Blank," said the gushing hostess, "why didn't you come sooner?"

A Real Repeater

As the dancer took his fair partner down to supper, she seemed to hypnotize the waiter, told off to serve them, for he seemed incapable of taking his eyes off her. At last the dancer could stand it no longer. "I say, my man," he observed, "What makes you stare so rudely at this lady?" "It ain't rudeness, sir, believe me, it ain't," returned the waiter. "It's genuine admiration. This is the fifth time she's been down to supper tonight."

Reverse English

The squire was walking through the village one day, wearing a very shabby coat, when he met a friend. "Surely you are ashamed to be seen in such a dreadful coat?" said the friend. "Certainly not," replied the squire. "Everybody knows me here." A week later the squire was in Birmingham, still wearing the old coat, when he chanced to meet his friend, who again commented upon his untidy appearance. "What does it matter?" was the reply. "Nobody knows me here."

Too Truthful!

Pat had got a job as steward on board a liner and on his first trip he was anxious to have everything as nice as possible so as to please the captain. Accordingly, the first thing he did was to have a good cleanout of the captain's quarters, and among other things he polished up the tea service, of which the captain was very proud. Unfortunately, he let the teapot slip overboard and it sunk like a stone to the bottom of the sea. He did not know what to do, but at last an idea struck him and, approaching the captain, said: "Captain, can anything be lost if you know where it is?" "No, certainly not," replied the captain rather sharply. "Well, sir," retorted the Irishman, "your silver teapot is at the bottom of the Atlantic."

A Sad, Sad Tale of Woe

"This interesting character," the asylum warden said,
Appears to have been very wise before he lost his head.
"But now all his knowledge seems horribly confused;
"His mind is a hash, as 'twere; just terribly misused.
"They tell me that for many years he manufactured hose.
"Upon Fashion brought about a million colors, I suppose.
"This man remembered ninety-nine per cent and more.
"He was inventive and creative, but now just hear him roar:

"Mr. Dyer, dye me 'mutton chops,' 'mustard' and 'salt.'
" 'Cinnamon,' 'celery,' 'champagne,' 'malt.'
" 'Otter,' 'jack rabbit,' 'beaver,' 'Piccadilly,'
" 'Blush,' 'nude,' 'flesh,' and others as silly;
" 'Apricot,' 'banana oil,' 'apple,' and 'peach';
"Every kind of fruit within imagination's reach;
"Motor oils, accessories, and automobile parts;
"Stone, birds, chemicals, and geographic charts;
"Gold, silver, precious metals, oriental pearls
"(Yet all of these will not suffice to satisfy the girls)
"And, gee! when I get better and my health is on the way
"I will build me a 'log cabin' for my 'mandalay!'
"And after 'dawn' when 'atmosphere' is clear and 'sunset' near,
"I'll have to dash 'gun metal' and go and hunt some 'deer.'
"But by heck! Until that time my genius is intact
"Upon [illegible] everything in colors I [illegible]."

—P. QUINLAN, N. Y. Record.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Manchester (N. H.) citizens saw a genuine spring log drive the other day, on the reaches farther up the river in the Penacook section. Disaster was threatened to the booms during the early start of the drive, when a big boom broke out, letting thousands of feet of logs sail away without halters. No damage was done, most of the logs were rounded up farther down stream, and, so far as known not a large quantity dropped over Pawtucket dam. Gatehouse guards say that very few pieces of large timber have come "down river" this spring. Years ago, logs cut above Lowell and destined frequently broke away on rafts and moved Lowellward, some of them sliding into the mud banks on the side of the stream and sinking there after becoming water logged. Today, it is estimated that many thousands of dollars' worth of good spruce and hemlock logs are buried in the mud deposits under the river water bed and on the sides of the stream for several miles up above Pawtucket dam. Oldtimers familiar with the river, old and new, say it would be profitable to dig out the logs when the Merrimack is low in midsummer, and assert that it could be done with proper machinery and steam winding cable attachments.

Citizens living in the Chelmsford street district of the city and who have to motor over that thoroughfare between the South street intersection and a point beyond Chelmsford street hospital, are wondering at the neglect of the street department in not filling up the deep holes that fairly cover the worn out and badly torn highway. Travel over this section of Chelmsford street is retarded because of motorists' fears that broken springs will come if normal speed is maintained. No road leading out of the city bears such a large number of gaping holes of several inches' depth. Temporary repairs filling up some of the worst holes would not take a competent crew of street department workmen long. Traffic would be aided and the flood of complaints checked. It has been estimated that a small squad of men could remedy many serious roadway defects on upper Chelmsford street in a day's time, with the employment of proper speed.

Amateurs of the sandlots could have beaten both the Abbots and the South Bostons in that weird baseball game played last Saturday afternoon, in South Boston. The Forge Villagers were defeated, 8 to 7, the game being loosely played and the pitchers off color for a bright spring day. Only 12 hits were made off Davidson's pitching—only 12. But the Abbots retaliated by smashing out 15 hits, though it didn't win the game. I firmly believe the Forge Village aggregation will improve nevertheless. The season is a weakling still, but gaining in healthy fashion with the Abbots sure to hit the proper trail soon.

The opening of a small store in the downtown district of the city by Japanese for the retailing of Japanese goods importations, is something of a novelty to Lowell. Of course, there are small quarters in laundry establishments conducted by Chinese, where Oriental goods of various kinds, including liche nuts and dried foods, can be found. The opening of a Japanese establishment on a street floor is a venture untried before in the heart of Lowell's mercantile district.

HELD LADIES' NIGHT IN SCHOOL HALL

The Social club of the Sacred Heart church held a most successful ladies' night in the school hall last evening, with several hundred couples in attendance. The hall was prettily decorated in the national colors, while the stage was set with cut flowers and palms.

General dancing was the feature of the evening.

NAME NEW MAGAZINE

"Liberty" is Name Selected for New National Weekly Magazine

The new national weekly magazine, upon which attention has been focused because of its offer of $25,000 for a name, has appeared—and its name is "Liberty." Many other good names were suggested by thousands of persons, the leading editorial states, adding "the name might have been the United States Weekly, Uncle Sam, The American Mirror, or any one of a number of names, but we think Liberty is the best. It is the innate, inherent principle of American life."

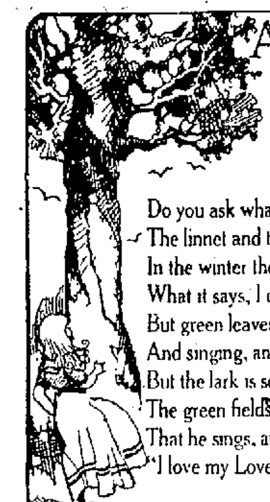

At the top of the editorial column stands Stephen Decatur's toast, "Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong." The magazine, which is of 64 pages, is a highly creditable publication both in appearance and contents. It is heavily patronized by national advertisers, many of the advertisements employing many colors to set them off. Writers of national renown and undoubted superior ability have helped to fill the fiction columns. All in all, it is a magazine that in one leap appears bound to establish itself firmly, due to an apparent careful preparation before the leap.

George Barr McCutcheon has the honor of contributing the first serial to the new magazine, offering "Romeo in Moon Village" which is just as romantic as it sounds. Elsie Janis, dear pouting mimic who so recently appeared at the Memorial Auditorium, tells with stunning frankness why she never married. Hudson Maxim, Albert Payson Terhune, Montague Glass, all names to conjure with, are represented by matter worthy of their weighty pens. Then Paul L. Kinkead has an embarrassing treatise on whether you can afford golf or not, while the latest modes in women's wear, the news of the world in pictures and a review of Mary Pickford's latest film, all have the best and kindest of treatment. There are other valuable and interesting contributions, all of which are worthy of digestion.

Evidently the magazine promotion service has a contest complex for on pages 50 and 51 there is an offer by the publishers to give away 500 live pedigreed dogs free. The contest starts in the current issue. Every week for 10 weeks the magazine is to print composite puzzle pictures of dogs. All the contestant has to do is cut apart the pictures as presented, paste together in proper form and name the breed of dog depicted. Winners will be given a choice of the breed of dog they desire, whether it be terrier, Boston bull, Airedale, Spitz, Newfoundland, police, Pomeranian, Pekinese, spaniel, collie, wolfhound, beagle, chow or whatnot.

The complete set of rules governing the contest is contained in the weekly and they are not at all complicated. Every dog to be given away will be a potential ribbon-winner with a pedigree attached. The offer is open to everyone save dog dealers and members of their immediate families.

To get away from the contest side of things and back to the magazine proper. It is a charming, worthy production that seems destined to take place in the front rank of our American weeklies.

ANSWER TO A CHILD'S QUESTION

Do you ask what the birds say? The sparrow, the dove,
The linnet and thrush say, "I love and I love!"
In the winter they're silent—the wind is so strong;
What it says, I don't know, but it sings a loud song.
But green leaves, and blossoms, and sunny warm weather,
And singing, and loving—all come back together.
But the lark is so brimful of gladness and love,
The green fields below him, the blue sky above,
That he sings, and he sings; and forever sings he—
"I love my Love, and my Love loves me!"

—Samuel Taylor Coleridge.

GOIN' BAREFOOT—

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

The grass is all dewy, and gee, but it's cool. It's smooth and it's soft and it beckons. It makes a man wish he was back there in school to go barefoot for just a few seconds.

The sandpile looks tempting when kids are at play. You've seen 'em and you'll understand. Oh, just to go barefoot for even a day and go milling around in the sand.

Perhaps it has rained and your driveway is muck, and puddles of water are oozing. If you could just take off your stockings—what luck! You'd do it if you had your choosing.

The carpet at home is a velvety thing like a spreading of lawn that's uprooted. It makes a man feel that he'd just like a fling at paradin' upon it, barefooted.

Say, man, when these things are a-calling to you, just park yourself down on the floor, and joyfully do what the little folks do: take stockings and shoes off once more.

ADDRESSED WOMEN'S RESEARCH CLUB

Prof. Stephen E. Smith of the Lowell Textile school, addressed the members of the Women's Research club, at their regular meeting held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Osterman in West Tewksbury. The lecture was most interesting, and Prof. Smith produced samples of various cotton cloths, in the various processes of manufacture.

Following the address, refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. S. Waller and Mrs. Leonard Bartel.

Interesting Data Concerning Electric Street Railway Transportation and How Industry Has Developed in This Country in Recent Years

The rain descended this morning upon Lowell, and when it rains the question is asked: How about a couple of special stories today? Hit up the railroads—try out the mills what's the Eastern Massachusetts doing today for instance. Any celebrations going on—carmen promoted or pensioned—new cars ordered—anniversaries?

"Anniversaries"—that sounded like something to pound the pavements with. Street railway anniversaries—just for instance. A good idea!

The idea developed as we neared the Eastern down-town offices.

"Wonder when the first electric car was driven by the familiar trolley—and where?" Good enough for a starter on a rainy day story. Must have been a good many years ago when the first little wheel chucked up under the juice wire on Main street and started the motors in the wheel-driving gears under the running boards. The rainy day feature story looked entirely promising, more so from the fact that the Eastern central offices are only just across the way from the Sun building.

There was nobody home except motormen and conductors waiting for the next traffic duty, but news had reached the smoking room before the reporter. It was a clipping from an electric street railway journal, arriving last evening, and describing an anniversary—a real anniversary to fill a rainy day reporter's assignment demand—

The thirty-sixth anniversary of the day when the first electric car in the United States was run by the use of a trolley. The historic day in street railroading was May 4, 1888; the time, 7 a. m., and the place, Palmer street, Richmond, Va.

The Richmond experiment was the very first commercially successful overhead trolley car in the country. The transportation vehicle of small size and few windows, with hard-coal heater in one end and coal-oil lamps for night runs, proved an eye-opener—a revelation opening a new era in electrical transportation for the mankind of the world.

The American Electric Railway association, issuing formal notices to street railway corporations, executives and employes, the country over, and not forgetting the Eastern Massachusetts familiars, calls attention to the following data and statistics that Lowell car-riders may find interesting when contemplating the physical and financial aspects of the street railway kingdom:

The street railway industry represents an estimated value today of $6,000,000,000 of invested capital.

Sixteen billion passengers were transported on the combined street railway carriers during the year of 1923.

New records were made in street railway construction work, increased service and improvements, and also new line extensions.

The World war whacked the popular method of transportation heavily in every section of the United States, but many of the previously down-and-out service lines are coming back and most of them are prospering once more. Traction securities are worth more today than they were two years ago. The public at large and the street railway managements in every quarter of the United States are today working more harmoniously together for the best interests and profit of all interested in efficient street transportation, its control and advancement.

These conditions, put forth by the American Electric Railway association for public consumption, are being emphasized in Massachusetts today, and particularly in the Lowell district of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway company, as all Lowell citizens have known for some time. The present condition of the local lines, in well-cared for car equipment, much of it new; in many miles of new steel rails, in improved service and in general all-round refurbishment and cleaning up, is the talk of New England street railway circles today.

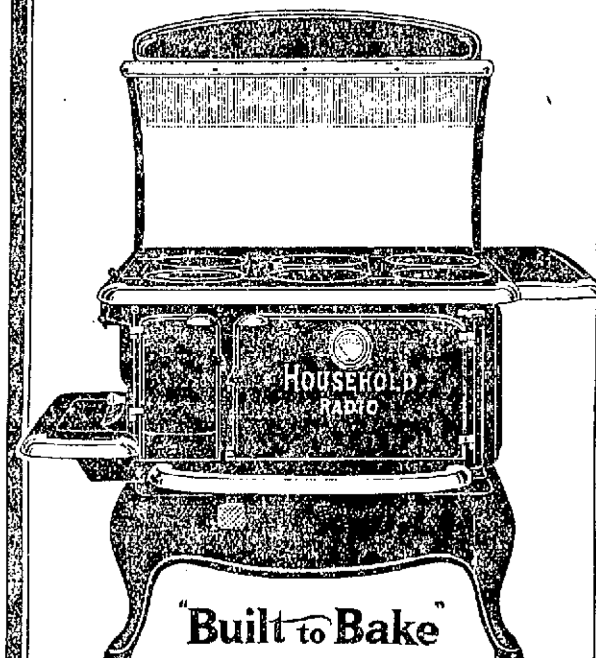

Within a week, the manager of one of the best known street railway corporations in Rhode Island, of twice the size of the Eastern lines as a whole, visited Lowell and district manager's headquarters after inspecting the newly-renovated Lowell division lines and modernized equipment, and declared that no corporation in New England today surpasses it in its field of genuine rehabilitation and successful management.

A Plain Girl

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Before me is my picture as a girl. Few girls would envy me my looks. But I made myself a famous beauty. And I've kept that beauty to a grand old age. I am still on the stage playing young girls' parts, and I still look a girl of 19.

I have helped many girls to careers of beauty. To many women I have brought decades of added youth. So I am convinced that millions can get the benefits I got. I am going to help them do it. Now I am placing at every woman's call the very helps which made me what I am.

White Youth Clay

I found my greatest help in clay. Not in the crude and muddy clays so many still employ. My youth Clay, perfected by French experts, is white and clean and dainty. It is a super-clay, based on 20 years of scientific study. No other clay that I know is nearly so efficient.

Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs or mars it. It brings that rosy afterglow which so amazes and delights. It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. Many users, in 30 minutes, seem to drop ten years.

No girl or woman who once sees its results will ever go without it. The cost is 50c and $1.

My Youth Cream

My cold cream is another French creation. I call it my Youth Cream. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to foster the fine texture of the skin. You have never known a cold cream to compare with this.

I apply it after my clay. Also as a night cream. Also daytimes as a powder base. It feeds, softens and protects. Youth Cream will delight you. It costs [illegible].

I use a liquid cleansing cream, called my Facial Youth. A famous Parisian beauty first told me about it. Now the greatest beauty experts everywhere advise it, but they charge too high a price.

Facial Youth contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. So it cleans to the depths, then departs. All the dirt and grime and refuse come out with it. I have never found a method which cleans skins half so well. My Facial Youth costs 75c.

My Hair Youth

My hair is my greatest glory. It grows finer every year. Dandruff, falling hair or gray hair have never come to me. Nor to any friend who has employed my method.

These results are due to my Hair Youth. It is based on lifetimes of hair study. I apply it with an eye-dropper, directly to the scalp. There it combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It stimulates and fertilizes. Hair flourishes in such a well kept scalp. No man or woman who sees what Hair Youth does will ever go without it. The cost is 50c and $1 with eye-dropper.

All druggists and toilet counters now supply Edna Wallace Hopper's beauty helps. With each one comes my Beauty Book, also a guarantee. No one can do you a greater kindness than to urge you to employ them. Go learn how much they mean. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.—Adv.

Zach Wheat Clouts Homer With Two On and Gives Dodgers Victory Over Braves—Red Sox Win Sixth Consecutive Game—Heilman Makes Fifth Home Run

NEW YORK, May 7.—The early spurt of the New York Giants, achieved largely at the expense of Philadelphia, has been cut down by the same team until today the National league champions lead Cincinnati by only one-half game.

Facing an invasion of the west, where the Pirates, Reds and Cubs have grown hardy by much slashing at each other, John McGraw yesterday saw Jack Bentley follow Wayland Dean along the trail of bright pennant hopes grown dim. The Phillies, with Cy Williams hitting his fourth and fifth home runs and Ford adding another, drove the $65,000 Baltimore import from the mound and won, 5 to 1.

At the same time, Ray Kremer, Pacific coast product, pitching for Pittsburgh, held the slugging Cubs to two hits and gave only one base on balls in the 2 to 0 Pirate victory. His defensive support was furnished by two more rookies. Cuyler, substituting for Max Carey, who was ill, made a triple, double and single. Wright, who has been starring at shortstop since the season began, got two hits.

Zach Wheat jumped into the National league batting leadership and won another game for Brooklyn when his fourth home run within four days scored two men before him in the eighth inning with the only runs of the 3 to 0 game with Boston.

Four double plays by the Braves' infield and sharp Robin fielding supported Genther and Barnes in their duel.

The desperately-fighting Athletics saw their pitching star, Eddie Rommel, beaten in their eighth straight defeat. Babe Ruth drove in two runs in the fifth and scored the winning tally for the 3 to 2 victory of the Yankees in the eighth. Waite Hoyt outpitched Rommel.

Harry Heilmann, American league batting champion, was an equally decisive factor in the Detroit, 6 to 1 win over Chicago. His fifth home run, coming with a man on, tied the score and his sacrifice fly put his team in front. Senak(?) also hit a homer.

The Red Sox continued hitting and beat Washington, 11 to 4. In six consecutive victories, the team has made 62 runs and 68 hits. Peckinpaugh, Washington shortstop, left the game after being spiked by Flagstead.

The St. Louis Browns made 16 hits off Shaute and Morton and beat Cleveland, 7 to 4. Sisler scored on a double steal with McManus. The Cincinnati-St. Louis game in the National league was postponed because of rain.

RIVALS OF OTHER DAYS

Leo Kid Roy, featherweight champion of Canada, is showing great form in his gymnasium workouts, and his friends feel confident he will take Tony Thomas of New Bedford into camp when the pair meet in the main event of the Moody club card in Crescent rink on Friday night.

Roy is boxing daily with Phinney Boyle and those who have seen the two in action say their exhibition is a treat to look upon. Boyle of course is heavier than Roy, but he is lightning fast on his feet and he forces the Canadian champ to display all his well known dash and aggressiveness. Roy is greatly improving his distance and his speed as a result of sparring with Phinney.

Others are working out with Roy and he is leaving nothing undone to be in the well known "pink" when called into the ring to face the clever Thomas on Friday evening.

Word from Boston where Thomas is training under the direction of his manager, Charley Mosley(?), declares the New Bedford boy is showing rare form in his workouts. He is sparring with some of the best boys around Boston including Tansey Norton who is preparing for his championship bout with Eddie Shevlin next week.

Benny Nelson who will appear in the semi-final against Young Leonard of Boston, a few years ago was one of Kid Roy's most bitter opponents. Roy then fought under the name of George Parker. He and Nelson were great rivals and wherever they appeared on a bill the fur was sure to fly. Parker always had a shade on Nelson, but the fact remains that the pair engaged in several rip-roaring battling numbers. Parker later went to Canada where he quickly fought his way into the championship.

The presence of the old time rivals on the same bill will prove an interesting feature.

LAWRENCE CELEBRATION

Ball Game in Connection With Fr. O'Reilly's Anniversary Observance

The big sporting attraction in Lawrence this afternoon in connection with the anniversary celebration in honor of Rev. James T. O'Reilly, O.S.A., was the baseball clash between the high school nines of Lowell and Lawrence at O'Sullivan park. One of the biggest crowds that ever assembled in the old ball park was present when Lowell prepared to bat against its ancient rivals.

"Mike" Gibbons, versatile Lowell high twirler, was Coach Jimmy Gilson's(?) pitching selection to turn back the Lawrence hosts. The batting order was as follows:

GOLDEN JUBILEE KENTUCKY DERBY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 7.—Candidates for the golden jubilee Kentucky Derby were scheduled to sport silks on three courses today.

Considerable interest centered on the running of the Blue Grass stakes at Lexington. The event, at a mile and one-eighth, generally is regarded as a Derby trial and every entry is an eligible for the classic. Beau Butler, E. R. Bradley's Derby candidate, was favored to win. He was coupled with Bobtail. Other entries were Binkey, Altawood, Giblon(?), Pinkman, Chilhowee and Happy Ten and Sporty Mettle, the last two the Wood[illegible] and Steel entry.

Five Derby candidates were entered in the spring head up at Jamaica and race fans here were watching Time Exposure to see what he would do in a test with Apprehension, Tester and Bracadale.

Wise Counsellor will make his initial start as a three-year-old in a six furlong race at Pimlico and, tentatively, the crack thoroughbred will run his race under the eyes of turf enthusiasts all over the country. Established early as a strong favorite to win the Derby, his first three-year-old effort has been awaited with interest by racing fans.

SHORT SHOTS WON ON LONG COURSE

BY JOE WILLIAMS

They are predicting that the brassie artists will rule the field at Oakland Hills in June, when the great golfers of the land assemble for the annual open championship. The Detroit course is a 6,880-yard affair, with a par of 72, 35 out and 37 back.

It is probably the longest course over which a championship has ever been held. Hence the forecast that expertness in playing long wooden second shots will be generously rewarded.

The demands of old Man Par at several of the holes are extremely ferocious. The eighth hole is 450 yards long. So is the tenth. Par for each is four. This calls for two mighty blows, if you are to get home and still have the customary two putts left.

Six holes at Oakland Hills run between 470 and 500 yards. Five others pass the 400-yard mark. These details offer evidence enough of the severity of the test and form justifiable grounds for the assertion that the skilled brassie player will be in his element.

However, we happen to recall that the same prediction was made at Flossmoor last fall when the amateurs gathered for their jubilee. The Chicago course was [illegible] as long as Oakland Hills, by a few thousand yards, but it called for almost as many [illegible] second shots and had more par 4 holes.

It certainly looked [illegible] an ideal spot for the man who could play the brassie and the long iron. [illegible]

It developed that the matches were going to the players who were playing all the shots well, and [illegible]

The ultimate winner was Max Marston of Philadelphia, and Max won [illegible]

A study of the cards of the last eight survivors at Flossmoor disclosed that Marston [illegible] It was his consistency in this detail that won the title.

GIBBONS DOWN TO 183 POUNDS

CHICAGO, May 7.—Ten days or two weeks of boxing will fit Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul light heavyweight, for his battle May 31 with Georges Carpentier, French pugilist, at Michigan City, Ind., the American boxer asserts.

Saturday he starts work at his camp near the fight site. Gibbons plans to confine the bulk of his training to gymnasium and boxing, road work at home having brought him to 183 pounds and he expects to lose about 10 more.

ILLNESS GIVES DYKES CHANCE

By N.E.A. Service

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—Tonsilitis has served Baseman Jimmy Dykes his chance to break back into the Philadelphia Athletics lineup after being relegated to the bench.

[illegible]

During the winter Connie Mack purchased Second Baseman Max Bishop from the Baltimore club of the International league. He was rated the star of the organization at that position.

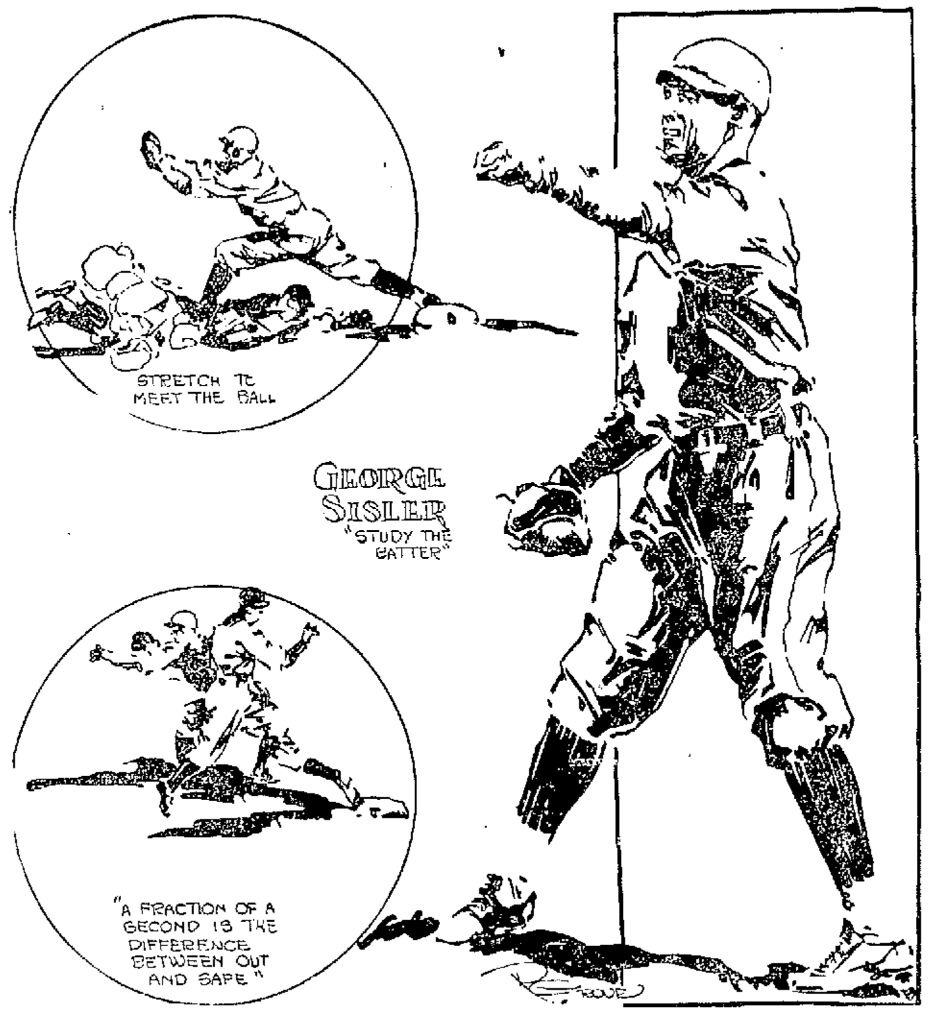

Mack gave him the berth at second in preference to Dykes. He played second in the opener, then was taken sick.

Dykes was sent into the game and he started the Athletics on their winning ways.

LOWELL TWILIGHT LEAGUE

The regular meeting of the Lowell Twilight league will be held Friday evening, May 9, at the Y.M.C.A. After the meeting, the team managers will attend the meeting of the park board to determine playing nights. Modern First Baseman Must Learn to "Go Out and Meet the Ball," Writes George Sisler

BY GEORGE SISLER
Greatest First Baseman of All Time

No player can hope for success as a first baseman unless he is a sure catch. This feature of play is far more essential at first than any other place in the infield.

It is absolutely necessary for a first baseman to become as efficient in catching a ball with the gloved hand as with both. This makes it possible for him to stretch and take a throw wide of the bag that would be impossible if he tried to make the play with both hands.

A study of the batters is another important feature that must be given much consideration. A knowledge of the field to which a batsman is most liable to hit, enables the first baseman to so shift that he will be in the best possible position to make a play.

Since perhaps 30 per cent of the outs in a ball game are made at first base, it is an easy matter to see that the ability of the man playing that position has much to do with a club's success.

Speed Enters Into Style of Play

It is impossible to tell just how and where a first baseman should play to be most efficient. The speed of the player enters largely into this feature of first basing. The player fast on his feet can play a much deeper first base than the athlete who is slow of foot.

In determining the best possible position to ordinarily assume, the first baseman must consider not only himself but the batter as well. Naturally a first baseman can play deeper on a slow-footed batter than a speed merchant.

When to hold a runner on first is usually determined by the conditions of the game. However, it is safe to say that with second base unoccupied and a runner on first, it is always advisable to hold him close to the bag.

Every first baseman should learn the art of stretching to meet the ball. Many a decision is won at first base by the player who goes out to meet the ball, rather than catching it standing erect. A fraction of a second is the difference between out and safe at first in a majority of plays.

Must Be Shifty on His Feet

Footwork or the shifting of the feet for throws is most important. Dexterity in this particular feature of first base play can only be acquired through great effort and constant practice. Some first basemen far excel others in this feature of play. Not every athlete is light on his feet, just as all of us are not good dancers.

I have simply given the fundamentals of first base play. The finer points of the game come with experience. There are many tricks to the playing of first base that can be gained only as a result of having them come up in actual play and then having them sink in.

In a great many cases the best possible position to assume as well as play to make is governed by the conditions of the game, the score, the number of outs, the inning and the ability of the batter.

These features cannot be briefly discussed. If a player gets the fundamentals, he later grasps the finer points by having them come up in competition.

ABBOTS DEFEAT LAWRENCE TEAM

Al Davidson Held Down River Team to Five Hits—Thorpe in Lawrence Lineup

The Abbot Worsted baseball team in the opening game of the Boston Twilight league at Graniteville last evening defeated the Lawrence Independents by a score of 3 to 2 in a contest which was called at the end of the seventh inning because of darkness.

It was an auspicious debut for the snappy Graniteville outfit. Al Davidson, star pitcher on the winning combination, was in his element and held the visitors to five hits while Abbots were slashing Donovan of the Independents for twice that number, including three two-baggers.

The feature attraction on the Lawrence roster was the famous Jim Thorpe, one of the greatest all around athletes ever developed in America. Years ago, Thorpe starred in the major sports at the Carlisle Indian school, and afterwards achieved considerable fame as a U. S. representative in the Olympic games. He also saw big league service with the New York Giants.

With the Lawrence outfit, Thorpe played right field last night. He connected for one hit in three trips to the platter, and stole one base.

Billy McDonough, organizer and owner of the Independents, was on deck with his charges. His enthusiasm got the better of him when Umpire Curtin called play in the seventh, McDonough contending that the decision was unwarranted.

Abbots got the jump in the opening frame when they scored two runs. Fallon and St. Angelo connected safely, but Fallon was caught out at third when he attempted to reach that station on [illegible] Donnegan slipped one over second, however, and [illegible] St. Angelo [illegible] Urann clipped the bag clean for a double.

The Lawrencians knotted the count in the third. Donovan walked for a [illegible] and was [illegible] to second by Sullivan. Bradbury came through with a double and Donovan registered. Thorpe then lined out a single and tied the score when he crossed the plate on Sweetser's double.

With the score standing at two and two, Abbots entered the fourth [illegible] and scored one run [illegible] Dee was hit by a pitched ball and was sacrificed along by Davidson, and romped home on Fallon's pretty two-sacker. Neither side was able to score thereafter.

The next Abbot game is with Reading in Reading tomorrow evening. Last night's score:

ADDRESSED LOWELL FISH AND GAME CLUB

William C. Adams, state director of the division for the conservation of fish and game was the guest of the Lowell Fish and Game association last night. He gave an interesting address covering some of the work being performed by the state of Massachusetts and many civic and sporting organizations in the cause of conservation of the numerous inhabitants of field and stream. The meeting was held in Odd Fellows building on Middlesex street, and largely attended. Mr. Adams was extended a fine reception, President James E. Burns leading the reception committee.

Director Adams first paid fulsome respects to Willis S. Holt, retiring secretary of the local association, who for more than a decade has filled that office and performed work for the protection of fish and game in the Lowell vicinity that has not been equalled by any similar official. Mr. Adams also complimented Congressman John Jacob Rogers for splendid legislative aid in helping along the sportsmen's high aims.

A description of the methods of restocking fields and streams of the state followed. The director referred in terms of praise to the famous Merrimack fishway, protected and put through by the Lowell Fish and Game association. The speaker had a message of praise for District Court Judge Enright of Lowell, who, he said, was one of the best judicial authorities in Massachusetts "for enforcing the fish and game laws."

Billy Evans SAYS

In every situation that comes up on the ball field, it is the duty of some player or players to back up the play.

Keep your eye on the ball is a cardinal principle of golf. Failure to do so invariably results in a hook, slice, or something even worse.

Keep your eye on the ball holds good for the national pastime. Back up every play is an even greater truth.

In the first 12 games I officiated in this year, I saw two of them lost because some player failed to back up.

Instead of lining up with the throw, so as to be in a position to stop the ball in case it got away from the one making the play, the two negligent athletes merely looked on as spectators.

The result, defeat in each case.

Backing up a play is really never appreciated until the player fails to back up, and the play goes wrong; simply because the ball took a bad bound.

Often you see the catcher run down toward first base on a ball hit to an infielder and then thrown to first in an effort to get the batsman.

If the throw is perfect, and in a majority of cases it is, the action of the catcher looks like a waste of energy.

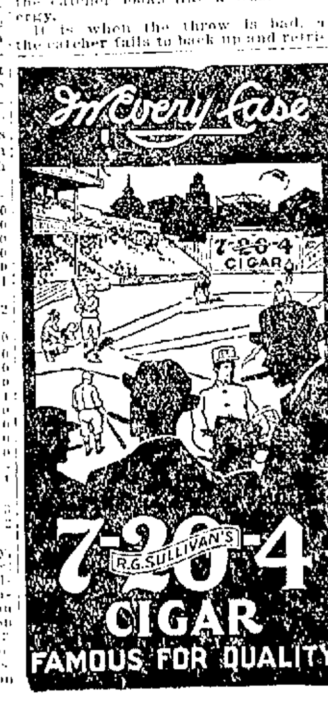

It is when the throw is bad, and the catcher fails to back up and retrieve the ball, thereby losing all chance of making a play on the runner at second, that the importance of the play is made manifest.

It seems that fate ordains the throw shall be wild the very time the player fails to back up. Such was the luck of a certain pitcher who rarely fails to back up every play.

On a base hit to the outfield, an attempt was made to cut down a runner at the plate. Being of no use in the center of the diamond, it was up to the pitcher to get back of the catcher, to take care of the throw if it got away from the backstop.

Instead of being in the proper place the pitcher was merely a spectator, standing in the centre of the diamond. The ball got away from the catcher, taking a bad bound on the last hop. This enabled two runners on the bases to reach second and third, and later they scored on a base hit which decided the ball game.

The pitcher tells me that it was the first time in his long career in the majors that he failed to properly back up a throw to the plate. It cost him the ball game.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY FAVORED TO LAND TRACK AND FIELD HONORS

Picked as Favorite in Big Meet to Be Held at Harvard Stadium on May 30 and 31—Penn. State Contender for Honors

NEW YORK, May 7.—(By the Associated Press) Intercollegiate track and field laurels, which have been carried back to the Pacific coast by California for the past three seasons, probably again will go to the far west, in the opinion of well-informed observers here but not in the possession of the champion Golden Bears.

Experts who base their calculations on spring showings so far, favor Stanford university to carry off the east's major college track and field prize in the meet to be held at Harvard Stadium on May 30 and 31. This is based not only on Stanford's recent decisive defeat of California in their dual contest, but on the particularly well balanced squad of the Palo Alto collegians.

Stanford will have a powerful field squad, headed by Glenn Hartranft, brilliant discus thrower and shotputter, but will not depend alone upon the field performers in its bid for victory. The team has some excellent men in the runs and hurdles.

California, on the other hand, has another strong entry, headed by Captain Bill Neufeldt, who led the individual scorers with 11 points in the 1923 championships, but does not shape up to its former standard, in the belief of critics. The squad of 10 men upon which the champions will depend includes only four point scorers of last year who accounted for 21 of the Californians' 39½ points. Besides Neufeldt, they include Witter, shotputter; Becker, hurdler, and Boren, broad jumper.

The far west's forces will be strengthened further by a team from southern California, completing one of the strongest invasions of recent years. Southern California, which was admitted to the I.C.A.A.A.A. last March after its application for membership had been tabled in 1923, will make its initial appearance in the title meet.

Stanford, in its last three attempts to lift the championship, finished sixth in 1920, fifth in 1921, and third in 1922.

While the east's principal defense against the far westerners is expected to be marshalled by Yale, Pennsylvania and Princeton observers, predict that Penn State also will jump into the front rank of contenders this season. The Nittany Lions showed their mettle recently by decisively defeating a strong Syracuse track squad. In addition to such veterans as Helffrich and Enck in the runs and Moore in the hurdles, Penn State has uncovered several promising new comers, including Conway, a sprinter, whose latest feat was to out-sprint Chester Bowman, Syracuse speed king, at 100 yards.

Amateur Ball

The American Juniors will take a crack at the Cubs Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, the winner to take a 35-cent ball. The ball will be played at Washington park, and the American Juniors will use the following lineup: Boyan c, Pulaski p, Lebrie 1b, Divazzo 2b, Baril ss, Donovan 3b, Clemas lf, Seigal cf, Lisnen rf. A game is wanted with the Highland Tigers at Washington park. The manager may be seen at the Morey school.

The Belvidere Mohawks claim the 12-13-year-old championship of the city. They would like to hear from the Rovers, Elks and American Juniors.

The Diamond Stars would like to play any 10-11-year-old team in the city, the Majors preferred. The players are the following: Cahill, Griffin, Sullivan, Healey, Lapoint, Welch, Fielding and Quinn. For games, call 6017 and ask for Leo.

The Beavers defeated the Princeton Juniors, 17 to 6. Games are wanted with fast 12-14-year-old teams. Call 2162-J, or answer through this paper.

The South End Juniors defeated the Beavers by the score of 7 to 1, and would like to play any 11-13-year-old team in the city. Call 6255-X and ask for Lawrence. The Marion A.C. or Dodgers preferred.

The Elks handed the Leavitt Stars their first defeat last Friday, 7 to 3, and repeated against the Red Wing Juniors and repeated against the Red Wing Juniors Saturday by the same score.

The Young Eagles won a forfeited game from the Princeton Seconds last Saturday. They have an open date and challenge them again for Saturday, May 10, the lineup being: Favreau, Gregoire, Pelletier, Gaudette, Prineau, Sweatt, Parmentier, Guilbault, C. Gregoire, Bourgeois. Answer through paper or see Captain Favreau any time or at school.

Thanking you for the space, I remain,

INTERESTING LECTURE AT THE MOODY SCHOOL

"Drawing as an Aid to Story Telling" was the title of a most instructive lecture before the Parent-Teacher association of the Moody school, given yesterday afternoon in the school hall by Edwin A. Hoadley of the Lowell State Normal school.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Charles E. Cook, president of the Moody school association. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and accepted. The president was given the power to name a nominating committee, which is to report at the June meeting.

Following the business session, a program, including piano solos, violin solos and a dialogue, was given by Miss Beatrice Warner, Eugene Morrill, Anna Byam, Betty Hemmerly, Donald Clement and Nicholas Davenport, pupils of the school.

Mr. Hoadley was then introduced by the president who, by illustrations of chalk drawing, free-hand sketches and other means, pointed out the importance of drawings in the art of story telling. Illustrating the story of "Puss in Boots," Mr. Hoadley drew the various illustrations, at one time whitewing the board and erasing in order to bring out his pictures.

Together with the program of the afternoon, miscellaneous tables were conducted by the members of the association. A whist party was held in the new hall in the evening, approximately 100 tables being used. Beautiful prizes were awarded the winners.

The chairmen of the various committees follow: Whist, Mrs. James Warner; tickets, Mrs. Walter I. Cheney and Mrs. Frank E. Knowles; candy, Mrs. Charles E. Cook, Mrs. George R. Young and Mrs. Clarence A. Bowen; punch, Mrs. Stanley Foster; miscellaneous table, Mrs. Joseph E. Crawford and Mrs. P. H. Ryan; cake table, Mrs. Elmer Brennon, and prizes, Mrs. John M. Murphy.

METHODISTS ACT FOR JAPANESE

To Appeal to Pres. Coolidge to Secure Modification of Immigration Legislation

Say Exclusion of All Not Eligible to Citizenship Would Cause "Calamity"

SPRINGFIELD, May 6.—(By the Associated Press)—An appeal to President Coolidge on behalf of the Japanese to secure modification of the immigration legislation enacted by congress and awaiting the president's action, was proposed to the Methodist Episcopal general conference today in a resolution written by Herbert B. Johnson, superintendent of the Japanese Pacific mission of the church. The resolution was ordered printed and action was deferred for consideration.

The exclusion of all peoples not eligible to citizenship, the resolution declared, would cause a "calamity," would change the attitude of the Japanese toward peace and its results would be felt for generations.

"The general conference appeals to you," the communication read, "to prevent as far as possible the immediate consummation of the enactment of this legislation. It is not good policy to enact legislation in such a way as to awaken and stimulate enmity and create a solid bloc of nations who from this hour must regard themselves as under suspicion and on the defensive in dealings with the white race. We confidently depend upon you to use your influence as president, to in so adjusting the recent immigration enactments as to prevent the calamity that is sure to follow the consummation of such legislation."

Declaring that efforts were being made to weaken the force of Evangelical Christianity in this country, Rev. George H. Mecling, of the Central Illinois conference, proposed in a resolution that steps be taken to counteract the alleged attacks.

The resolution referred to the committee on the state of the church, asked that general and district superintendents be instructed to provide means for spreading the Protestant faith and that the Methodist book concern be instructed to publish books setting forth Protestant principles.

The conference passed a resolution instructing the committee on education to present a memorial to congress expressing the attitude of the Washington. Its proponent, Harry F. conference toward the Sterling-Reed education bill, now in committee at Woolever of Washington, endorsed the bill as aiding in the forwarding of Christian teachings.

mont and Ann Forrest, interprets the leading roles.

For Thursday, Friday and Saturday the Merrimack Square program will have as the feature Tom Mix in his first and only nine-reel super-special, "Soft-Boiled." This is a different Tom Mix production, in which the noted star appears in a role entirely unlike any he has ever played.

You know Tom Mix as the stunt king. In this picture he is the laughmaker supreme. It carries the same Mix punch. In "Soft-Boiled," Tom doffs his hard-boiled personality long enough to put over some great comedy. Before the picture ends he breaks loose and becomes the two-fisted Tom Mix who has battled his way into the hearts of screen fans.

There are pretty girls, snappy cafe scenes, love, fight and laughter in this picture and it will keep you roaring. The hero didn't believe in wine, women and jazz, but he had to be soft-boiled in order to win his inheritance. When romance and the girl entered he proved he could be mighty hard-boiled. Did you ever see bathing girls in a Tom Mix picture? They are in this one! Lots of other scenes, too, that you don't usually associate with Mix. The Moving Picture World said of the picture:

"'Soft-Boiled' is a feature which should find wreathing with every class of patrons."

The New York Sunday Telegraph said:

"'Soft-Boiled' is a fine comedy. The sort that Fairbanks used to do on the legitimate stage or a Willie Collier 'Nothing But the Truth,' with a different Twist."

The second feature for the week-end will be William Russell in "Alias the Night Wind," one of his most thrilling dramatic productions. A comedy, "Giants as Yanks," and the latest International News will round out the bill.

For next Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the management announces Cecil B. deMille's first production since his "Ten Commandments," "Triumph," a picture claimed by critics as bigger than either his "Male and Female" or "Manslaughter."

Keep Oil at Home

The Many Advantages

HERE are ten reasons why a home supply of Gargoyle Mobiloil is becoming so popular:

[1] Gargoyle Mobiloil is produced by the foremost specialists in scientific lubrication—a standing freely acknowledged in scientific circles the world over.

[2] The selection of oil having the correct body and character for your engine is assured when you follow the Vacuum Oil Company's Chart of Recommendations.

[3] Gargoyle Mobiloil and the Chart are endorsed by practically every automobile manufacturer.

[4] Gargoyle Mobiloil is sold in handy sized containers for the home supply—the 5-gallon can and the 15-, 30-, or 55-gallon steel drums (which have convenient and leak-proof faucets).

[5] 15 gallons of oil bought in single "quarts" means sixty trips for oil! You make only one trip when you buy a 15-gallon drum—or three when you buy in 5-gallon cans.

[6] With a home supply of Mobiloil you can always have the proper amount of oil in your engine before driving away. You form the valuable habit of seeing frequently that the oil level is correct—just as you look at the tires, gasoline supply, and the water in your radiator. This means much better operation. The frequent addition of fresh oil helps to maintain the body of the entire oil supply in the crank-case.

[7] You are sure—always—that you are using genuine Gargoyle Mobiloil. You eliminate the necessity of accepting some other oil from a dealer who may not have Mobiloil.

[8] When the oil in the engine has been used for 1000 miles, you can at a convenient time drain and refill the crank-case with fresh oil. This is best done after a short run while the oil is still hot, so that the sediment and foreign matter will be drained out with it.

[9] Economy. The continuous use of Gargoyle Mobiloil will substantially reduce the oil consumption and, more important, assure you freedom from repairs, as well as adding years to the life of your car.

[10] In short, an adequate supply of Gargoyle Mobiloil is the most important single item you can put in your home garage. For correct lubrication is the most important attention you can give your engine. It protects you against the two greatest expenses: [1] engine repairs and [2] car depreciation.

The dealer has a Complete Chart of Recommendations which specifies the correct grade of Gargoyle Mobiloil for every make and model of automobile built during the past five years. Be sure to secure the correct grade for your car.

Rules For Measurement of "Parties, Platforms and Candidates" Published

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Rules for the measurements of "parties, platforms and candidates" in the approaching political contests are laid down in a declaration published today by the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor non-partisan political campaign committee.

Citing "astounding revelations" of the past few months, that "stagger the imagination" and charging that "representatives of reaction and special privilege have sought to protect the enemies of public welfare," the committee demands primarily a revival of the spirit of honesty, integrity and high mindedness in public office.

"Thou shalt not" in our laws," and "more laws that help get things done" are urged in the declaration, which lists a number of legislative and constitutional changes desired. The legislative demands require modification of the Volstead act to legalize 2.75 per cent. beer, establishment of a permanent immigration policy "of strict exclusion," enactment of soldier bonus legislation, "sharply graduated income and inheritance taxes," repeal of the Sherman anti-trust act, clarification of sections six, nineteen and twenty of the Clayton act, and the abolition of the railroad labor board with the setting up of new machinery for settlement of disputes between carrier and their employes.

The constitutional amendments advocated include the pending child labor proposal and measures to curb the power of courts generally in labor disputes, and give congress authority to validate by a two-thirds majority any law found unconstitutional by the supreme court.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 7.—Narrow price changes marked the opening of today's stock market, although a generally firmer tendency was in evidence. Moderate gains were recorded by Baldwin, Studebaker and a number of rail, copper and tobacco shares. Some of the oils, including Standard of New Jersey and California and Marland, yielded fractionally to selling pressure.

Continued accumulation of copper shares, carrying American Smelting and Kennecott into new high ground for the year, coupled with a widening inquiry for tobacco issues and several seasoned dividend paying rails, including Lackawanna, Norfolk and Western and Atlantic Coast Line, imparted considerable firmness to the early trading. Recognized leaders also were marked up briskly. American Can advanced 1½ points and General Electric 2, while gains of a point or more were registered by American Smelting, Air Reduction, Tobacco Products A, and Central Leather preferred. Oils, which were weak at the opening, developed some recuperative power. Foreign exchanges opened steady.

Railway Co.

Although initial buoyancy in industrials gave way to an irregular trend, steadiness of speculative favorites encouraged operations for the rise in various sections of the list. Brooklyn Union gas moved up 1½ to a new high price for the year at 63½. Favorable earnings influenced buying of Air Reduction and declaration of a 10 per cent stock dividend helped Otis Elevator, both of which gained more than two points. Coppers continued to give a good demonstration of group strength, Western Pacific, Northwestern, Canadian Pacific and Louisville & Nashville led an advance in the railroad list. Realizing sales brought about a three point loss in Fisher Body. Independent weakness cropped out in Kelsey Wheel, which dropped three points to a 1924 low, at 76, and heaviness developed in Mallinson and American Water Works. Call money opened at 3½ per cent.

Selling orders were distributed in Consolidated and Colorado Fuel, the latter breaking two points, but other stocks forged upwards, particularly the oils and railroads. Some of the non-dividend paying railroads were more active, especially New Haven, Wabash preferred A, Seaboard Airline preferred and Rock Island. International Harvester got up 2½, and American Can, Woolworth and Northwestern were included in the shares which showed advances of two points or better.

The closing was irregular. The market's trend was reversed in the final dealings when large blocks of Sinclair were sold, forcing that stock down to 18½, the lowest of the year. Cosden, Marland and Davison also were heavy.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK, May 7.—Cotton futures opened firm. May 30.10; July 28.29; October 24.90; December 23.97; January 23.66.

Boston Market

BOSTON, May 7.—Changes were fractional and mostly on the down side in the early trading in the local market today. American Telephone and Warren Brothers were off 1-4 each and Copper Range off ½ with no change in Island Creek.

Money Market

NEW YORK, May 7.—Foreign exchanges easy. Great Britain demand 4.38 3-16; cables 4.38 7-16; 60-day bills on banks 4.35 15-16. France demand 6.07; cables 6.08. Italy demand 4.50; cables 4.50½. Call money steady. High 3½; low 3½; ruling rate 3½; closing bid 3½; offered at 3½; last loan 3½; call loans against acceptances 3¼. Time loans steady. Mixed collateral 60-90 days 4¼, 4 to 6 months 4¼; prime commercial paper 4½.

PROBATIONARY METHODS

Judge Enright Says Lawyers Not Privileged to Instruct Clients

At the close of this morning's session of district court, Judge Enright told reporters that he would like the newspapers to publish the fact that lawyers are not privileged to instruct their clients as to probationary methods employed by the local court or its officers. The statement, he said, was prompted in consequence of a case this morning involving Margaret J. Walsh, whose suspended sentence to the Sherborn reformatory for women on a charge of being lewd and wanton in speech and behavior, was revoked.

When the case was called today, Mrs. Mary M. Hearn, probation officer for women, told the court that defendant had not been complying with the previous terms of probation by reporting to her at regular intervals. In explanation of this violation of court rules, the defendant said she had been instructed otherwise by her attorney.

The court allowed that she must take the consequences of her failure to report, regardless of the advice of her counsel, and sentenced her to Sherborn. He warned other members of the bar not to interfere with the probationary department.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The senate Daugherty committee which was directed by the District of Columbia supreme court to show cause Friday why an injunction should not be issued against it to prevent the Western Union Telegraph Co. and the Postal Telegraph Cable Co. from surrendering the telegrams of Harry M. Daugherty today was granted an extension until May 23.

LARGE BOUQUET SENT TO COOLIDGE

NORTHAMPTON, May 7.—A large bouquet of trailing arbutus, measuring over a foot in diameter, has been sent to President Coolidge by Charles L. Stoddard of Westmoreland Depot, N. H. The flowers were picked near the homestead of Attorney General Stone in Westmoreland, about eight miles northeast of Brattleboro, Vt., and Mr. Stoddard expressed a hope that the president would share the blossoms with Attorney General Stone.

COONEYS OFF TO BEGIN 10 TO 20-YEAR TERMS

NEW YORK, May 7.—Cella and Edward Cooney, wife and husband and pals in banditry yesterday took separate roads to prison for 10 to 20 years.

The youthful couple, who committed nearly a score of daring robberies and then were captured in Jacksonville, Fla., whence they had gone to await the arrival of a baby, said au revoir in Brooklyn county court.

She went to Auburn prison; he to Sing Sing. County Judge Martin pronounced sentence after they pleaded guilty to assault and robbery and, in the jurist's chambers yesterday morning, confessed to 15 of the "bob-haired bandit" series of sensational chain store hold-ups with which their names had been linked by police.

Although they had made a bid for leniency and, failing that, for incarceration in the same prison, they accepted maximum sentences and separation stoically, according to their natures. She bit her lip and smiled. He scowled and scraped a foot.

Later when they were returned to Raymond street jail to await transportation prisonward, the young woman broke down and wept. Cooney remained calm, arranging for the custody of $1000 which his wife had just received from a news syndicate for her written story of their joint flier in crime.

Her last words as she left the courtroom were: "Good-bye, everybody."

"Was it worth while?" some one had asked her, as she passed to the bar to stand beside her husband for sentence. The answer she scribbled in a note addressed to the questioner. It was:

"To those girls who think they would like to see their names in the paper as mine has been, or think they would like to do what I have done, let me say, 'don't try to do it. You don't know what you suffer. While I smile, my heart is breaking in me.'"

LOCKOUT EXTENDED IN THE RUHR VALLEY

BERLIN, May 7.—(By the Associated Press)—The lockout declared against the miners in the Ruhr valley yesterday, which is estimated to have made 300,000 men idle was extended today to Saxony because of the refusal of the workers in the Chemnitz and Zwickau districts to work more than eight hours. Refusal of the Ruhr valley miners to accept a working day of more than seven hours underground and eight hours on the surface, was the cause of a lockout there.

It is predicted that 200,000 metal workers in the Ruhr region will be involved in the labor trouble by tomorrow. The occupation authorities have promised strict neutrality.

Reports from the Ruhr are that the separatists and communists are taking advantage of the agitation and trying to enlist the dissatisfied workers for their respective causes.

Rep. Corbett Heads Petition

setts general laws, and asks for a reduction in the newly created Lowell price of gas.

Mr. Corbett is leading the present cheaper gas campaign and has gathered much data covering the prices of gas now prevailing in many other Massachusetts cities, where charges were reduced this spring. In some cities, the reductions were sharply lowered.

The Lowell representative is conducting his campaign with the support of many constituents. Under the old rates the Lowell Gas Light company's maximum net rate was $1.40 per thousand, while today's newly-established maximum rate is $1.56 per thousand, according to the petitioners' plea. The price is .70 minimum on the first 100 cubic feet or less of gas used.

The Corbett petition to the department of utilities, which was received by the latter this afternoon, was headed by the signatures of three Lowell representatives: Thomas J. Corbett, Charles H. Slowey and Owen E. Brennen.

The petition declares that the Lowell Gas Light company is organized for the purpose of making, distributing and selling gas within the commonwealth and operating in the city of Lowell. Petitioners complain that the present price of gas delivered by the company should be reduced, because, they allege, the new price rates established and placed in effect on April 1, last, effective on all bills on and after April 1, "resulted in a material increase in the price of gas, sold and distributed to us."

Confers With Butler—L. A. Coolidge Issues Warning to Pres. Coolidge

BOSTON, May 7.—With the arrival in Boston yesterday of William M. Butler, manager of President Coolidge's political campaign and next chairman of the republican national committee, the decks began to clear for a contest between Governor Cox and Louis A. Coolidge for the republican nomination for United States senator.

The governor and Mr. Butler conferred last night on the organization and methods of conducting the campaign and a general canvass of the situation of the state was made by friends of the governor, preparatory to the formal announcement of his candidacy, which may be made at any time or may be postponed for several days.

With the drawing of the lines between Governor Cox and Louis A. Coolidge, the other prospective candidates appear to have passed from the picture, and the free-for-all which threatened when it seemed that the governor might positively decline to run under any circumstances was averted, much to the relief of the party leaders.

Louis A. Coolidge, who has been conducting an active campaign for the senatorial nomination for weeks, yesterday issued a statement which was intended as a warning to President Coolidge and William M. Butler not to interfere with the primary contest for the senatorial nomination.

"The republicans of Massachusetts," he said, "have always been in the habit of determining for themselves who their candidate shall be. I have been so long familiar with politics that I am sure the president of the United States and the prospective chairman of the republican national committee are not planning to interfere in the selection of a republican candidate for the senatorship. That would be manifestly improper and of course they realize this."

REPORT FREE STATE TO RELEASE PRISONERS

LONDON, May 7.—Special despatches from Dublin record rumors that the Free State government contemplates immediate release of the interned prisoners who have not yet been brought to trial, but it is not clear whether Eamon de Valera and the other republican leaders would be included.

The rumors, regarding which official information is unavailable, may have originated in the fact that the motion calling for release of the prisoners which was to have been discussed in the Dail Eireann this week has been withdrawn, suggesting to the authors of the report that the government had privately given notice of its intentions to grant amnesty.

EAGLES BUY LINCOLN HALL PROPERTY

Lincoln hall, located in Gorham street just above Appleton, has been chosen for the new permanent home of Lowell Aerie, F. O. Eagles. It is understood that the price for this property, known as the Owen A. Donohoe property, is $40,000 and papers will be passed within a few days. The Eagles at present make their home in the top floor of the Harrington building, Central street.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, May 7.—Seeking an explanation for the recent strength of St. Paul and Pere Marquette railroad securities, Wall street has produced reports that Henry Ford is negotiating for the purchase of one or both of the roads. Despite the automobile manufacturer's assertion that he was through buying railroads the fact that he could use them to advantage has lent color to the rumor.

A new issue of $10,000,000 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock of Southern California Edison Co., is offered today at 90 and accrued dividends, to yield 6.67 per cent. The stock is redeemable at $115 a share, in whole or in part, and has equal voting power, share for share, with all other stocks of the company.

Prospects for new financing by the Bolivian government in this country have been based partly upon its necessity of raising $5,000,000 for completion of a new railway. Proposals already have been made to issue bonds for the purpose, which might form a part of the loan understood to be under negotiations here.

Stockholders of the Radio Corporation of America have authorized reductions in preferred shares from 5,000,000 to 500,000 and an increase in par value from $5 to $50, also in common shares of no par value from 7,500,000 to 1,500,000. Ten shares of the present preferred will be exchanged for one of the new and five shares of the present common stock for one of the new.

The Texas & Pacific railway plan of readjustment providing for financial reorganization without foreclosure, has been declared operative, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., announced. About $25,000,000 second mortgage income bonds of which the Missouri Pacific is the principal holder, will be converted into preferred stock. The interstate commerce commission was said to have approved the plan.

Directors of the Otis Elevator Co., declared a stock dividend of 10 per cent, on the common stock, payable June 21 to stockholders of record June 7.

Wall street hears that new financing by the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railway, (Nickel Plate) which was not expected before mid-summer, will be launched next week, with an initial issue of about $25,000,000 five and one half per cent. refunding mortgage bonds, the first to be sold under the Van Sweringen plan of consolidating all bonded indebtedness under one blanket mortgage.

CONSPIRACY TO STEAL

BOSTON, May 7.—Verdicts of guilty of conspiracy to steal were returned today in the superior criminal court against Fred W. Knight, John G. Menbrino and Grant G. Oakman, president, treasurer and trustee, respectively, of the United States Housing Trust, an organization operating in "real estate and building homes for the wage earner at less than market price." Sentence will be pronounced Friday.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE FOR PEACE AND FREEDOM

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Election of officers and resolutions occupied today's sessions of the conference of the Women's International league for Peace and Freedom.

Miss Jane Addams was by a unanimous vote, re-elected international president and few changes were made among the other officers of the league.

Most of the resolutions presented were adopted with little discussion. Equal economic, industrial, social and political rights for the two sexes were demanded in one resolution, in which specific reference to the situation in the United States had been eliminated by the resolutions committee.

Means "Shadowed"

WASHINGTON, May 7.—W. J. Burns, chief of the department of justice investigation bureau, told the senate Daugherty committee today that although he had assigned an agent to "shadow Gaston B. Means," this man was not concerned in the disappearance of Means' various documents and diaries.

Burns said he had ordered a man named "Banner" to watch Means who has been an agent and detective for the committee.

"Banner followed Means wherever he went," Burns said. "That was done at the suggestion of Hiram C. Todd, assistant attorney general prosecuting Mr. Means in New York."

When Senator Wheeler suddenly switched the questioning to Burns' association with Blair Coan, an employe of the republican national committee, who went to Montana to investigate Wheeler, Burns agreed that he knew Coan and had met H. C. Gibson, a witness against Wheeler.

After Burns was excused, M. P. Kraffmiller of [illegible], testified that in 1920, at the Chicago republican convention he met Howard Mannington, who was connected with Mr. Daugherty in the Harding preconvention campaign. At Marion, Ohio, in August, 1920, he said he gave Mannington "probably $500 or $600" as a campaign contribution collected from different friends of mine in Chicago.

"Mannington appeared to be the manager of the Harding front porch campaign," Kraffmiller said. "Jess Smith was a helper there. I took money to Mannington three times, probably to [illegible] $10,000 or $12,000."

Wheeler asked Burns how many times he "so-called Coan."

"What do you mean, committed [illegible] the [illegible] of saw him four or five times. We talked about Senator Wheeler's case every time."

[illegible] identified [illegible] rated "Mc[illegible]" as a private detective formerly employed by Burns, but declared the man worked now for the republican national committee.

"You have another Mr. Lockwood, secretary of the national committee frequently on [illegible]," Senator Wheeler demanded.

"I talked with him several times," [illegible].

ASSELIN DENIES HE IS SUICIDE VICTIM

LEWISTON, Me., May 7.—Pierre Asselin denied today that he is the suicide victim who was buried in Chicago after leaving a note that he "came a long way from here to Mass. to do this to save my family" and that he was a "slacker" and served in Canada "incognito." He has come for a visit with his mother, from Woonsocket, R. I., where he was working in a cotton mill. Asselin cannot understand how Mrs. Camile Cloutier Ely of Cleveland, his sister-in-law, could have identified the body as his, as they had not known each other since they were children. His wife, who lives here, sent $300 for the burial expenses.

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

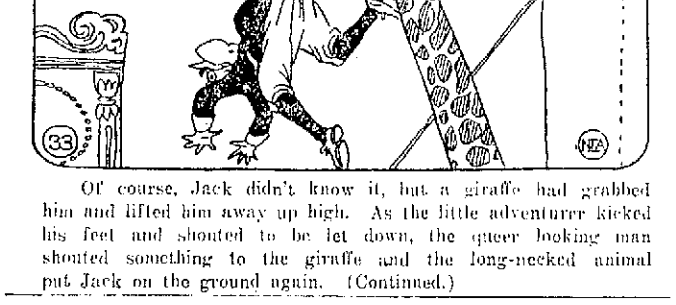

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 11

Jack steered the pony, first up one lane between tents, and then down another. Suddenly the little animal came to an abrupt stop, so suddenly that it threw Jack over the animal's head. Fortunately, it happened right in front of the giraffe's tent and Jack landed on a pile of straw.

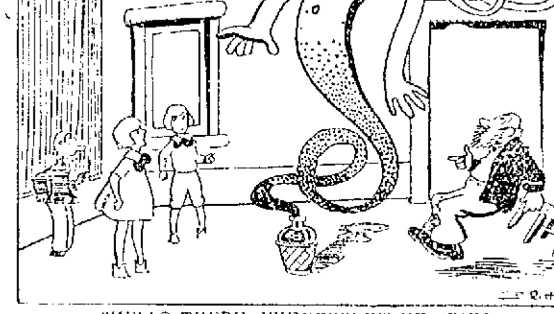

"Gee, that was a lucky fall," said the little adventurer to a queer looking man who had appeared. "I should say so," came the reply. Jack then started to get up when he felt something tugging at the seat of his trousers. At the next moment he went slowly right up into the air.

Of course, Jack didn't know it, but a giraffe had grabbed him and lifted him away up high. As the little adventurer kicked his feet and shouted to be let down, the queer looking man shouted something to the giraffe and the long-necked animal put Jack on the ground again. (Continued.)

"HELLO THERE, EVERYBODY!" HE CRIED

"Let's go to see the fisherman who found the funny bottle," said Nick. "Does he live in Once-Upon-a-Time Land?"

"Righto-o!" said Mister Muggs.

So they all climbed into the little car and away they went over seven times seven frog-ponds and seven times seven minnow-brooks until at last they came to a great, great big ocean.

And there was the fisherman's cottage. And sitting in a little boat was the fisherman himself, trying to catch a herring for his dinner. When he saw that he had company, he rowed his little boat to shore.

"We came to see your queer bottle!" said Nick.

"What queer bottle?" asked the fisherman in surprise.

"The one you fished out of the water one time," said Nick. "It had a bad giant in it and when you took the cork out he came out, too, like smoke. That's what the story said."

"By the great horn spoon!" cried the fisherman. "So it did! Only it all happened so long ago I had forgotten about it. I only got that bad fellow back in the bottle by fooling him. I put the bottle away in a cupboard and I've kept it ever since. I plumb forgot I had it."

The fisherman hauled it down, but in doing so the stopper fell out and as quick as a flash a thin stream of smoke started to come out. It soon grew to an enormous size, floating up to the ceiling, and a giant appeared.

"Hello, there, everybody!" he cried. "Where am I? I must have been asleep!"

"You have," said the fisherman. "You've been asleep for years 'n' years!"

"Oh, I remember," said the big fellow. "And you played a trick on me to get me back into the bottle. Well, that won't happen again, for I'm too smart for you. The first thing I'm going to do is to swallow the sea so you can't catch any more fish. And the second thing is—"

But he didn't finish for just then a marvelous thing happened.

Mr. Muggs opened two windows and the wind rushed in at one window and blew the bottle giant out of the other, because he was only smoke, anyway—or something like it.

"OO-oo-oo! I want to go back in my bottle!" they heard him say away off in the distance.

But it was too late. He was gone for good.

"Well, guess I'll sleep better now," said the fisherman. "It isn't very comfortable to have a giant 'round the house."

"Why I thought you said you had forgotten about him!" cried Mister Muggs.

"Well, I guess I forgot that I had forgotten," said the fisherman. "Oh, but I am getting absent-minded! Do you know whether I caught a herring or not when I was fishing?"

"No, you didn't," said Nancy. "There was none in the boat."

"Well, then, if you'll excuse me," said the fisherman, "I'll go and get one for my supper. I do feel better not to have a giant in the house. Or was it a dwarf? I forget already."

"Goodby!" called the visitors as they rode away.

SEWERS, GAS BILLS, BUS LINES AND CENTRAL BRIDGE BEFORE COUNCIL

Widening of Bridge Street and of Gorham Street, Also Sewers for Oaklands and East Meadow Road Discussed—Would Replace Central Bridge

A series of stiff raps against the board of public service, the defeat of a motion to take from the table the nomination of John J. O'Connell for superintendent of charities, and the decision to order a public hearing on the proposal to establish a motor bus line from Lowell to Lawrence, were the chief matters of interest at the city council session last night.

Councilor John J. McFadden introduced an order calling for the appointment of a special committee, to consist of the city engineer, the president of the council, and three other councilors, to investigate and report on the advisability of widening Bridge street and replacing Central bridge. The motion for the appointment of such a committee was passed and Council President Gallagher said he would defer naming the committee until next Tuesday night's meeting.

Memories of the disastrous Associate building fire of ten days ago were brought to mind upon the introduction of an order by Councilor Lambert calling for a committee investigation of the formation, activities, functions and maintenance expense of protective companies in other cities and also the quality of hose used in other cities with especial regard to pressure resistance. The matter was referred to the public safety committee for investigation and report.

Score Delay on Sewer Work

Councilor John W. Daly asked "Who threw the wrench in and jammed the works" on the Oaklands sewer project and after no definite statements of enlightenment were forthcoming the blame for lack of action on this project was fastened on the board of public service which was scored for what was termed apparent indifference and lack of a desire to co-operate with the city council.

Councilor Genest scored the board roundly for what he termed its consistent refusal to do anything on the petition for a sewer in East Meadow road from Moody street to Mammoth road. There are 25 families desirous of service there and anxious to pay whatever their assessed cost may be, he said. The councilor deplored the fact that the city should see fit to go ahead with the Oaklands sewer partial extension project, of doubtful immediate value, when such a condition exists as exists in the East Meadow road section today.

May Order Special Job

Councilor Daly suggested that his fellow councilor take steps to have the council order construction of such a sewer as he desired. Acting on the suggestion and the implied promise of support, Mr. Genest moved that the city engineer be instructed to furnish an estimate of cost to the council at its next meeting. Mr. Daly promptly seconded the motion and it was carried.

Councilor Cosgrove here ventured the prophecy that "daisies will be growing over both of us" before Mr. Genest gets any estimate from the engineer's office if the submission of same requires as long as the nearly forgotten request of Councilor Cosgrove for an estimate of the cost of widening Gorham street. It was directed that mention of this matter be made to the city engineer.

To Probe Gas Rates

Councilor Dickson cited the fact there is quite a general complaint among gas consumers that the recent rate change of the Lowell Gas Light Co., heralded as a rate reduction when put into effect, was in reality increasing the gas bill of the average consumer.

"I think a committee from this council should investigate these rates and report back with recommendations," said Mr. Dickson. President Gallagher named Messrs. Dickson, Fitzgerald and Lambert as the committee.

Take Up Appointments

The appointment of John E. Moynahan as inspector of buildings to succeed Francis A. Connor, resigned, met immediate unanimous confirmation as did the reappointment of Thomas L. McKay to the park board for a five year term.

The move to take from the table the nomination of J. J. O'Connell to succeed Joseph H. Gormley as superintendent of charities was initiated by Councilor Chretien and seconded by Councilor Hennessey. On a voice vote the chair claimed the motion carried but Mr. Sadlier doubted. The standing vote showed six desirous of taking the matter up and nine content to dodge the issue.

How They Voted

Those for action on the nomination were Messrs. Chretien, Fitzgerald, Gallagher, Hennessey, Chadwick and Genest. Those against action were the Messrs. Cosgrove, Stearns, Dickson, Sadlier, Moriarty, Lambert, Daly, McFadden and McFadden.

Objections being raised to the plan for a playground adjacent to Greenhalge school it was decided to have a public hearing on the matter on May 13.

The council voted to pass the usual formal request for permission to grant a $500 annuity to Mrs. Grace L. Foss, widow of Fireman William T. Foss who met death in the performance of duty. A bill authorizing the annuity has been introduced in the legislature by Owen E. Brennen.

Central Bridge a "Spectacle"

In moving the appointment of a committee to study the feasibility and approximate cost of widening Bridge street and replacing Central bridge, Mr. McFadden briefly reviewed some of the troubles the present bridge has bestowed upon the city.

"Opinions even of engineers differ as to the safety of the present 'spectacle,'" said Mr. McFadden. "Expediency, efficiency and the safety of the people demand something be done about this $100,000 menace which is at the same time a terror and a disgust to all who use it."

Councilor Cosgrove succeeded in his motion that the city clerk be instructed to write the board of public service relative to the continued blocking of Chelmsford street at Thorndike street and request a reply before the meeting next week. Mr. Cosgrove was particularly anxious to know by what authority and under whose orders the street is being blocked.

Crawford Case Echo

A communication was received from City Solicitor Reynolds conveying the opinion that while the public safety committee of the city council may give hearings to aggrieved firemen it has no authority or right to advise or restrict the chief of the department in the exercise of his rights in transferring, promoting or otherwise changing the status of men under him.

This opinion was rendered as having particular bearing in the case of Fireman George R. Crawford who claims unjust discrimination in that he was passed over on the civil service list when the chief last named a number of fire lieutenants.

May 20 was set as the date for a public hearing on the petition of William D. Regan that Davenport Terrace East, and Davenport Terrace West, and Tyler Park be designated under one name. Opposition developed to this suggestion when heard before the board of public service a week ago and the board referred the matter to the council.

Speaks for Bus Line

J. Joseph Hennessy appeared on behalf of the New England Motor Bus Co., Inc., which would operate a motor bus line to Lawrence from this city. The route, at a forty cent fare, would be from the Washington tavern to Green, to George, to Church, to Andover street to North Tewksbury to Shawsheen and Andover and Lawrence. Passenger busses capable of carrying 25 persons in addition to the driver would be used.

Mr. Hennessy cited that in Cambridge the Eastern Massachusetts trolley system is doing a similar thing while permission has already been granted for bus lines in Everett and Medford and is pending in Boston.

Councilor Daly spoke of the motor omnibus as the coming thing and dwelt for a moment on its development as observed by him on his last European trip. He recommended a public hearing on the project on May 20 and it was so voted.

Mr. Cosgrove, through the chair, asked that the newspapers of the city correct the statement made last week to the effect that he had declined to serve on the committee which visited Boston relative to civil service requirements in connection with the hiring of laborers for the Oaklands sewer. There was no comment.

Daly Washes Hands of Sewer

Mr. Daly asked about the delay in doing anything on the Oaklands sewer, for which project $30,000 was voted under an emergency order three weeks ago.

"When I urged the passage of the order I said from the floor that I had assurances work would be started immediately," said Mr. Daly. He added that in view of the delay he felt he should make some explanation, saying that he made his statement in good faith in view of assurances given him by Chairman Dennis J. Murphy and Frederick E. Meloy of the board of public service. He added that his statement that 200 men would be employed was based on figures given him by Mr. Murphy and Streets Superintendent Doherty, who have since said 75 should be the maximum number employed on the job.

"Who Threw the Wrench?"

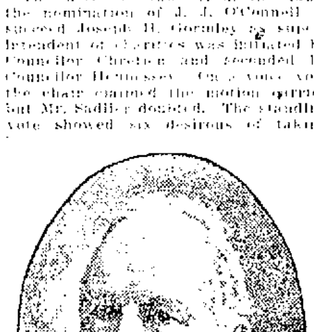

"Who threw the wrench in and jammed the works?" asked Mr. Daly. "I would like to ask the president and Councilor Lambert if they can enlighten me." Messrs. Gallagher and Lambert comprised the council committee which interviewed the board of public service on the project last week.

President Gallagher said that neither he nor Mr. Lambert could tell who the monkey-wrench hurler was. He added that the board said objectors having been found in the locality to be served, a public hearing will be necessary before the board can do anything.

Sees Possible Excuse

"I can readily see that when Mr. Murphy or Mr. Meloy talked with me they might not have anticipated any opposition," said Mr. Daly. "I wished to explain my position, however, and have the matter with the responsibility for lack of action placed just where it belongs. Mr. Murphy, Mr. Meloy and Mr. Doherty, who assured me separately of immediate action should the order be passed, now have the order and the matter is with them."

A resolution introduced by Councilor Dickson which called for abolition of the Middlesex street grade crossing was turned over to the city solicitor for opinion as to form. The meeting, which was called promptly at 8.15, adjourned at 10.15.

BOY DROWNED IN LOCAL CANAL YESTERDAY

Eight-year-old James A. Shea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick H. Shea, of 11 Wamesit street, fell into the Eastern canal in the rear of the Strand theatre early last evening and was drowned before assistance reached him. His body was recovered by the police at 10 o'clock last night after almost three hours' search.

The boy, with three others of about his own age, were playing on a narrow foot bridge which spans the canal in the rear of the theatre at about 7 o'clock when he lost his balance and fell into the swirling waters. The three boys who were with him screamed for help and then ran away.

Roland Lizotte, assistant motion picture operator at the Strand, heard the screams and saw the boy in the water. Shouting to other operators to summon assistance, he ran down the fire escape and to the bank of the canal but upon his arrival no trace of the boy could be seen with the exception of his cap, which floated down a sluice-way and disappeared.

Another operator in the theatre telephoned the manager, Samuel Torgan, and he in turn notified the police. The police patrol with boat and dragging irons arrived quickly on the scene. The detail was in charge of Sergeant Winn and consisted of Officers Daniel Lynch, Frank O'Dea, Alfred J. Cooney, Francis H. Moore, Michael Moloney, John H. Murphy, Alfred Killoy and Probation Officer Joseph L. Cronin. The Locks and Canals were also notified and Asst. Chief Engineer S. S. Kent and Supt. H. B. Lang ordered the gates at the Saco-Lowell shops closed.

As darkness descended Manager Torgan of the Strand theatre had his electricians install three flood lights on the bank of the canal and with the lights in operation the officers dragged the canal.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Officer Moore, who was working with a boat hook, from the banks of the canal, hooked onto the body and brought it to the surface. Officer Cooney climbed down the bank into the water and brought the body ashore.

Hoping to learn the victim's identity, several boys who viewed the dragging of the canal were allowed to view the body but none was able to identify it. The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

Patrick H. Shea, worried over the non-appearance of his son, reported to the police at 11 o'clock that his boy was missing. With Officer Lynch he went to the [illegible] and identified the drowned [illegible] as his boy.

The canal, at the point where the accident occurred, is protected by a high fence. It is believed the victim, with three other boys, climbed the fence in the rear of the Strand theatre to gain access to the canal.

The victim's age was eight years, ten months and four days. He was a pupil of the Ames street school. Besides his parents he leaves four brothers, Walter P., George H., William J. and John W.; also one sister, Margaret L. After identification the body was removed to the home of his parents, 11 Wamesit street.

TESTIMONIAL CONCERT TO MR. A. E. BROWN

Citizens of Lowell who appreciate what Albert Edmund Brown has accomplished for the city in its community and musical life during his residence here, will be given an excellent opportunity to show such appreciation at the public testimonial concert to be given for Mr. Brown at the Memorial Auditorium tonight.

Local civic, social and fraternal organizations have actively sponsored the testimonial and have generously advertised it in an effort to attract a large and friendly audience.

ALBERT EDMUND BROWN

A splendid program has been arranged for the concert, featuring the Lowell Masonic choir and the Studio Choral Art society, both of which organizations have been under Mr. Brown's leadership. Mr. Brown also will be heard in one or two group of songs, notably several Kipling numbers that never fail to find popularity as he sings them.

After the concert there will be a social hour and informal reception for Mr. and Mrs. Brown and later there will be general dancing to music furnished by Miner and Doyle's orchestra. The tickets are not reserved and are of the standard price of $1.10. The concert will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

LOWELL MAN BADLY INJURED IN NASHUA

[illegible] Douville of 823 Moody street, this city, was badly injured yesterday afternoon while at work on the new asbestos mill in Nashua, N. H., when he fell a distance of 20 feet. He was taken to the Memorial hospital in Nashua where his injuries are considered serious but not necessarily fatal.

Mr. Douville was employed at the new mill as a carpenter and was working on the roof when he lost his footing. He fell 20 feet, landing on the floor, and received a fractured hip and numerous other injuries. It was at first believed he suffered serious internal injuries but at the hospital today it is believed he will recover.

DEMANDS FOR PAYMENT OF 1923 TAXES

Demands for the payment of 1923 property taxes will be mailed all delinquents Friday morning by City Treasurer Fred H. Rourke. These demands will call for payment of the full amount assessed, plus interest at 8 per cent. from Oct. 15 last and a charge of 25 cents for service of the demand. Land-owners served with these demands who fail to comply with same within fourteen days from the date of the notice will find their property advertised for sale to satisfy the city's claim.

These taxes were payable last Oct. 15 and 17 days thereafter commenced to accrue interest from Oct. 15 at 6 per cent. All taxes unpaid by Jan. 15 entered on the 8 per cent. interest schedule, retroactive to Oct. 15.

In 1922 the city disposed of 183 parcels for non-payment of taxes. While not prepared to give exact figures this morning, City Treasurer Rourke estimated that warrants covering property of more than twice the value of that owned by delinquents last year is affected this year.

The many friends of Mrs. A. W. Stirk will be pleased to learn that she is recuperating rapidly, following a serious operation at the Lowell General hospital.

Mr. John J. Giblin, director of the Catholic League orchestra, was presented a gift in appreciation of services rendered the orchestra during the year by the members at the concert held in Liberty hall Monday evening.

Friday evening at 8.15 in Colonial hall Mr. Harry A. Hopkins will present Miss Dora Elsie Ryan in a piano musicale, assisted by Mrs. Anna Roth [illegible], soprano. The ushers will be the Misses Mary Ward, Bessie Dinerman, Ruth McLaughlin, Catherine Daley and Ethel Nichols.

The name of Miss Eleanor G. McAdoo inadvertently was omitted from the personnel of the Catholic league orchestra, which played at the Auditorium Monday evening, in connection with the Choral club concert. Miss McAdoo plays the viola.

SOCIAL AND DANCE POSTPONED

The social and dance by the high school Spanish club, scheduled for this afternoon, was postponed to Friday afternoon owing to the fact that the high school baseball team is this afternoon playing Lawrence high in the down-river city in one of the most important games of the season. The promoters of the dance did not wish to [illegible] the dates conflict and announced the postponement yesterday afternoon.

TO OBSERVE BOYS' WEEK

Meeting of General Committee at Park Department Office Last Evening

The Rotary wheel slipped into high gear yesterday and plans for the first Boys' week ever observed in Lowell rapidly crystallized through the medium of meetings yesterday noon, afternoon and last night, and a public statement by Mayor John J. Donovan commending the plan and program. At the noon luncheon of the Rotary club yesterday enthusiasm for the program, to be held May 16, 17, 18, was at high pitch. In the afternoon schoolmasters of the city and suburbs met at city hall to discuss the school's part in the program. In the evening the general committee met in the park department office in city hall to review progress and outline the future plans.

As previously outlined, Boys' week will be observed for a three-day period here, commencing on Friday. This day will be devoted to "The Boy in School," with special exercises of an appropriate nature in every school. Saturday will be for "The Boy at Play" and special sporting programs will be in order with a big meet on the South common as the principal attraction. On Saturday afternoon a big parade will be held, Major Colby T. Kittredge acting as marshall. Sunday, May 18, will be devoted to "The Boy at Church," and special exercises will be held in a number of churches.

The committee in charge of affairs is composed of Mayor Donovan as honorary chairman, Royal P. White, active chairman; George Wagner, secretary; Arthur C. Spalding, Dr. Herbert E. Davis, Elias J. McQuade, Robert W. Thomson, E. J. Gilmore, Hon. James [illegible] Casey, Charles Bartlett, Elmore [illegible] MacPhie, Arthur C. Sullivan, Rev. [illegible] E. Thomas, Supt. Hugh J. Molloy, Major Colby T. Kittredge, Albert Bergeron, Donald B. MacIntyre, Charles L. Randall, Charles H. Clough, Chelmsford; Supt. Eugene C. Vining, Billerica; Supt. Charles H. Walker, Chelmsford, and Clarence M. Weed.

Mayor Donovan yesterday issued the following statement, endorsing Boys' Week locally:

"The Lowell Rotary club in co-operation with other civic organizations, is sponsoring a splendid civic movement, 'Boys' Week,' to be observed May 16, 17 and 18. The object of 'Boys' Week' is to inculcate a deep seated reverence and loyalty for our institutions of government and impress upon our boys civic responsibility and clean American manhood. To let our boys know that we are interested in them beyond the routine of school life and watchful of their interests in every field of activity. It is the intention to unite our boys from all schools in a loyalty parade the afternoon of May 17 to march through the streets as the most priceless asset of our nation.

"As mayor, I most heartily endorse such a program. The school committee has voted unanimously to co-operate and instructed the superintendent and all school masters to arrange suitable school exercises, also to provide school units in the loyalty parade. In this connection, I would suggest that Parent-Teacher associations provide attractive floats for their respective schools.

"I am authorized to offer a prize of $10 in gold for the best essay on 'Boys' Week' or 'The Responsibility of a Boy,' the essay to be submitted by any boy in a public or private school, and limited to about 500 words. The contest is to close May 15, at 5 p. m. Send your essay to Royal P. White, chairman of the committee on Boys' Week, Lowell Rotary club.

"I urge all citizens to become aroused to the civic importance of the observance of 'Boys' Week.' It is going to do for our boys immeasurable good, and incidently prove quite helpful to ourselves. Contribute your share to the success of 'Boys' Week.'"

WAS ARRESTED IN BILLERICA

More Alleged Milk Law Violators Arraigned Today —Other Offenders

Omer G. Poirier of North Cambridge was fined $5 for drunkenness, and $100 for operating an automobile while he was under the influence of liquor, when he was found guilty of those two counts in district court this morning.

Poirier was arrested in Billerica yesterday by Chief Henry Livingston and Officer William O'Brien, after they had received complaints from motorists on the Boston road that the machine containing Poirier and a companion, Arthur F. Blackburn of Arlington, was zigzagging along the highway and endangering the lives of others.

When the officers arrived on the scene, Poirier was attempting to adjust wires. He admitted that he was the operator of the car, but later stated that Blackburn had hired a man in Lowell to act as chauffeur. When neither of the men appeared to be able to give a satisfactory story, they were taken to the Lowell police station and booked, Poirier on the charges mentioned above, and Blackburn, for drunkenness. The latter was fined $5 this morning.

Other Offenders

Three alleged milk law violators, making a total of six in two days, were present today in the persons of Thomas McMaster, who was continued until May 28, Charles McWright, who was continued until May 12, and Simon Protopappas, who was continued until May 14.

John Jarette, charged with assault and battery on Mahmed Eunlbes, pleaded not guilty and was continued until May 15.

Thomas J. Kelleher and John Launey, both charged with drunkenness, were sentenced to two months and one month, respectively, in the house of correction.
